Probers Told Congressman Got 'Windfall'

Georgia's Preston Linked To Big Profit On Housing Project

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Rep. Prince H. Preston (D-Ga) was described to Senate investigators today as a hidden stockholder in a firm which netted $143,000 on an initial investment of $7,000 in a government-insured housing project.

William A. Bowen, mayor of Statesboro, Ga., Preston's home town, testified that he held for the congressman a one-third interest in Bowen-Sundy Enterprises, which obtained an FHA-insured mortgage for construction of the Nelson Apartments in Savannah, Ga., in 1950.

When the project was almost completed, Bowen told the Senate Banking Committee, Bowen-Sundy Enterprises sold its stock to Byck-Worrell, the construction company, for $150,000.

He reported that Preston, James L. Sundy and himself each received a net profit of about $47,600 on individual investments approximating $2,333.

Preston Denies 'Influence'

Anticipating Bowen's testimony, Preston said in Statesboro last night that the investigating committee, headed by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), was trying "to make political capital on the eve of the November election of a legitimate business enterprise."

"I assure you that at no time did I use my office to influence any official," he said in a speech in which he accepted nomination for a fifth term in the House from the 1st District Democratic convention.

"There was not one federal dollar involved and there was no guarantee of any loan by the government."

Tax Men Move In

William Simon, counsel for the Banking Committee, asked Bowen today why the stock was not issued in Preston's name if he put up one-third of the money.

"I don't know," the mayor replied. "Probably for business reasons. He asked me to hold it for him."

In another development before the committee, Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews announced the government intends to assess additional taxes against multimillion-dollar "windfall" profits made by promoters of many postwar housing projects.

Flood waters swirl knee-high over a major Roswell, N. M., intersection as an unidentified youth struggles against a swift current to clasp hands with a buddy anchored by a tilting stop sign. ## West German Bundestag Approves Defense Pact

Adenauer Wins Confidence Vote

BONN, Germany, Oct. 7 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer tonight won overwhelming parliamentary support for his policy of bringing a rearmed West Germany into the Western Alliance.

In an uncounted show of hands, the majority of the Bundestag (lower house) accepted the London agreement to allow Bonn to raise 12 divisions and an air force as member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The vote amounted to a vote of confidence for Adenauer's policy and a swift answer to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's latest bid to block West German rearmament by dangling new hopes of German reunification.

Socialists Vote "No"

The West German Socialists, who have 151 seats in the 487-member chamber, voted against the motion.

A Socialist countermotion calling for another try for a settlement with the Russians before committing the Western half of Germany to the free world alliance was shunted aside into the oblivion of committee study.

The vote came after more than 11 hours of debate on the Chancellor's report on the results of the London conference.

Political leaders in France and Britain also refused to be diverted from their plans for Germany by Molotov's bid for another four-power conference.

His offer to talk over ways to reunify divided Germany through free elections and withdraw all occupation troops was received with considerable skepticism. Molotov spoke during a surprise visit to East Berlin, ostensibly to join ceremonies marking the fifth anniversary of the East German state.

New Molotov Blast

Molotov made another appearance in East Berlin today, telling an estimated 100,000 at an anniversary meeting it was up to East and West Germany to get at the task of unification. Molotov hammered away at the Western allies, saying they wanted to keep Germany divided.

There was reaction in Paris, at the Conservative party meeting in Blackpool, and in Bonn, Capital of West Germany.

Opening the fight in the French National Assembly for acceptance of the London agreement to rearm West Germany and bring her into NATO, Premier Pierre Mendes-France promised careful consideration of Soviet proposals.

At Least Four Perish As Flood Hits New Mexico

ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 7 (AP)—Floods battered an 80-mile stretch of the Pecos Valley of southeastern New Mexico today, leaving four known dead, three presumed dead and seven missing.

Property damage — which no officials would stop to estimate—ran into the millions.

Rain-soaked mountains west of the valley erupted streams of dirty brown water to feed the swelling Pecos and inundate portions of five towns.

Four bodies were recovered. A farmer told of witnessing three other drownings as he stood helplessly by. And six were unaccounted for.

Four Towns Flooded

Roswell was standing by for a fresh assault as water continued to pour into town. Hagerman and Dexter, the worst hit communities about 13 miles downstream, were still fighting the flood waters and looking for their dead tonight.

Artesia was flooded and evacuating some areas, but no water forced its way into the business section. One residential area was half flooded and 30 homes evacuated. Carlsbad was standing by.

The Red Cross in St. Louis announced it had dispatched six national disaster workers to Roswell. The Red Cross placed the number of Roswell homeless at 200.

Communications Broken

Communication lines broke down. Only word from the Hagerman area, where the deaths and presumed deaths occurred, came over a special wire strung into Roswell by the Red Cross.

Highways dissolved or were buried under several feet of water. One section of the Santa Fe Railway track near Dexter was washed 30 to 50 feet from its bed by the rushing waters over a mile and a half stretch.

Planes couldn't land here because of eight inches of water on the runways.

LINKED TO WINDFALL — Rep. Prince H. Preston (D-Ga) (above) yesterday was described to Senate investigators as a stockholder in a firm which cleared $143,000 on an investment of $7,000 in a government-insured housing project.

New Indictment Says Lattimore Lied Under Oath

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—A federal grand jury today accused Owen Lattimore of falsely denying under oath that he had been "a follower of the Communist line" and a "promoter of Communist interests."

The controversial Far Eastern affairs specialist promptly issued a statement saying he always has been a loyal American who followed the "dictates of my own conscience and not the commands of any foreign system."

Earlier Count Voided

The new two-count indictment was obtained by the government after the courts voided the cornerstone count of an earlier indictment. This alleged Lattimore swore falsely when he told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee he had never been a sympathizer or any other kind of promoter of communism or Red interests.

Nowhere in the new indictment did the word "sympathizer" appear. The U. S. Court of Appeals in a decision last July said this word, as used in the earlier indictment was too vague.

U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover told reporters he will move later to consolidate the new indictment with the five remaining counts of the original true bill.

Brownell Won't Predict

At a news conference, a reporter asked Atty. Gen. Brownell what the government's next move would be if the new indictment is thrown out.

"I won't make any predictions on that," Brownell replied.

Lattimore said in a statement the new indictment "attempts to create the impression that I said a lot of things which I did not say." He added:

"But more important, this indictment lays bare the fact that this prosecution is a direct and immediate threat to anyone and everyone who has ever written or spoken of foreign affairs and whom the government chooses to attack for political reasons."

Stand Against Barnstorming Is Unchanged

President To Make At Least One More Talk Than Planned

DENVER, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower, heeding party calls for help, decided today to step up his personal campaign for a Republican Congress by making at least one more major political address than he had planned.

The chief executive will go that far, Vice President Nixon announced at the Denver White House after conferring with Eisenhower, but still is determined to do no barnstorming for individual GOP candidates in the November election.

And Nixon told a news conference that in his opinion the President has been and will continue to play "exactly the right role" in what several GOP leaders have termed a tough fight to maintain Republican control of Congress.

Steers Clear Of Feuds

The vice president said it would be a mistake for Eisenhower to get "personally involved" in any intraparty feuds over candidates by barnstorming for individuals. He said that would smack of the "purge idea" and would do the party more harm than good.

Nixon agreed it's a difficult battle for the Republicans, but expressed confidence his party will win. He declared the campaign the Democrats are waging would take the country "back to the days when the Communist danger was ignored—back to the days of the red herring."

His "red herring" remark was an indirect criticism of the Truman administration's handling of the subversion problem.

The decision for the President to make at least one more major speech than the two already announced undoubtedly won't satisfy all hands—particularly GOP candidates whose pleas if answered would take him into several states between now and Nov. 2, election day.

Ike To Address Rally

Eisenhower will make a nationwide television-radio address tomorrow night, the first of the three major speeches he now is planning. He and Nixon will speak at a big political rally in the 6,000-seat Denver Municipal Auditorium, and similar GOP "precinct workers day" rallies all over the country will be tuned in.

As previously announced, the President will make another nationwide TV-radio address Nov. 1, election eve.

Republican congressional leaders will arrive here tomorrow for a political strategy conference and a review of the international situation in advance of Eisenhower's evening speech.

Senators Blast AEC For Approving Form Of Dixon-Yates Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—A report by the Atomic Energy Commission that it has approved the form of a controversial private power contract with the Dixon-Yates group drew an angry protest from two senators today.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) chairman of a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee, and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a member, charged that the AEC had not shown "proper respect" for the subcommittee in acting on the contract.

In the name of the subcommittee, they demanded a copy of the minutes of the AEC meeting at which approval was agreed on, plus a report on how each commissioner voted.

K. D. Nichols, AEC's general manager, had just notified Langer's group that the form of the contract had been approved Oct. 5 but that no binding agreement had been made with the Dixon-Yates combination.

The AEC is negotiating with Dixon-Yates for the construction of a private power plant at West Memphis, Ark. The 107-million-dollar installation would furnish power to the Memphis area over the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority, replacing electricity TVA has switched to AEC facilities at Paducah, Ky.

Nichols' report was in answer to a request by the subcommittee for information on the exact status of the politically explosive negotiations.

Kefauver said at a subcommittee session that he objected seriously to approval of the contract form in the face of two subcommittee requests that finalization of the contract be delayed until a congressional investigation of the contract and the companies involved in it is completed.

Expressing full agreement with Kefauver, Langer added:

"Apparently this administration gives its information to Wall Street before it gives it to this committee."

He then had read into the record a story in today's edition of the Wall Street Journal reporting that the AEC apparently had approved the contract and was seeking quick permission to sign it.

Nationalists Halt China Bombings At U. S. Request

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Nationalist China has stopped bombing attacks on the Chinese Communist mainland at the suggestion of the United States, diplomatic authorities reported today.

The attacks stopped several days ago, according to reports received here from Taipeh, the Nationalist capital on Formosa.

Officials, who were reluctant to discuss the development at all, indicated that it grew out of a determination by the U. S. government to make certain that its support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is used strictly for defensive purposes. These sources said that Washington does not want to see Chiang engage in any action that would start a major conflagration in Asia.

At the same time they said the United States wants to encourage Chiang in every way possible to defend vigorously not only Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands but also the numerous islands that his forces hold along the coast of China. The emphasis in American policy, however, is wholly on the defensive nature of these operations at this time.

The Chinese Nationalist bombing attacks on the mainland most recently began after the Communists opened major bombing and shelling assaults on the island of Quemoy Sept. 3.

The countering fire which the Nationalists employed in the bombing attacks was first cleared with the U. S. government, which gave its approval because the operations were defensive.

The American and Nationalist Chinese governments have "a gentleman's agreement" that Chiang will not order any new operations of significant importance without first consulting with Washington.

The U. S. 7th Fleet has had orders to protect Formosa against any Communist assault since June 1950, when the Korean War broke out.

Ike's Road Plan Target Of Heavy Farm Opposition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower's "grand plan" for a 50-billion-dollar program to modernize the nation's highway system drew heavy opposition today from two farm organizations.

The opposition, which followed the reasoning of many governors when the program was outlined to them last summer, was countered, however, with full-scale support from other organizations.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, an old Army sidekick of the President, opened a two-day hearing of a special advisory committee with a plea for help in launching Eisenhower's plan to spend five billion dollars a year for the next 10 years on a massive highway building program.

Clay, chairman of the five-member committee, said:

"We have no choice but to go forward. The question isn't whether or not we need highway improvements, but rather how may we get them most quickly and most economically."

John C. Lynn, legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the committee his group "does not consider that the highway situation is so hopelessly inadequate" as to warrant a tremendous expansion in federal expenditures.

Lloyd C. Halvorson, economist for the National Grange, said he couldn't speak for his entire organization in advance of its annual meeting next month but he said he suspected the grange would reject the program.

His argument also was based on the federal-states rights issue but even more so on the question of financing. He said automobile owners would have to pay $94 a year per car extra to make the program work.

Bow And Arrow Holdup

FREIBURG, Germany, Oct. 7 (AP)—Police today reported that three masked men—armed with bows and arrows—last night held up a farmer near here and robbed him of $61.88. The trio then hopped on a motorcycle and sped away.

Stray Dog Almost Puts Man To Death

DANIA, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—A stray dog was put to death here today, but he nearly took a man with him.

Dan Wininger, 39, manager of the Broward County Humane Society, had the job of putting the animal to death with a hypodermic injection.

As Winninger began to insert the needle, the dog kicked, the needle was deflected to Wininger's body, and about 5 to 8 cubic centimeters of the lethal drug entered the man's bloodstream.

In a moment Wininger was suffering dizzy spells and nearly fainted. A fellow worker Paul Goerner and Mrs. Wininger rushed him to a hospital.

He was given an antidote as well as penicillin and antitetanus shots. The hospital said he is expected to recover.

Cops Set 'Em Up Through Error

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 7 (AP)—Police dumped 234 gallons of confiscated liquor down a drain back of the city jail today.

They thought the pipe connected with city sewer lines. But it didn't. The open end of the drain soon was gushing whisky in a Negro residential section a block from the jail. About two dozen opportunists scrambled for their turn at filling bottles, pitchers, glasses and buckets.

A passerby notified police, but by the time a squad car arrived it was too late. The flow had stopped and the freeloaders were long gone.

Dutch Island Escapes Hurricane Damage

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—The island of Aruba off the northern coast of Venezuela escaped damage from hurricane Hazel today as the center of the 115-mile-an-hour tropical storm passed about 60 miles north of that important Dutch possession.

Grady Norton, Miami's chief storm forecaster, said Aruba, where the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey operates one of the world's largest refineries, felt winds of only about 30 m.p.h.

As it passed Aruba, the hurricane, still moving westward, headed out over a vast stretch of open waters of the Caribbean Sea. Norton said no threat to any other land area is expected "for a day or two."

"Just A Holdup"

Five Lose Lives In 'Copter Crash

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 7 (AP)—An Air Force helicopter crashed in a cow pasture five miles west of the Alexandria Air Force Base today killing its five occupants.

Air Force investigators said the wreckage was found in an area with sufficient room to land. Clocks in the debris were stopped at shortly after midnight, about the time a rainstorm with stiff winds swept the area.

The names of the dead, all officers, were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Alexandria AFB authorities said two were from the base here and the other three were based elsewhere.

Col. William A. Daniels, commander of the base here, said the helicopter was "pretty much of a mess" when it was found by searching sister planes about 6 a.m. today.

The craft, a seven-man Sikorsky generally used in rescue work, made a routine flight to Leesville in southwest Louisiana yesterday. It encountered bad weather on the return trip and turned back. This was the last contact it had with Alexandria.

Gunman Is Riddled By Police Bullets

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A gunman holed up in an apartment house after wounding a patrolman today and held off more than 100 police for 90 minutes before falling mortally wounded by a rain of bullets.

More than 1,000 persons watched the spectacular crime drama from behind building corners and other safe places. Dozens of residents were trapped in terror inside the Harlem apartment building.

He died a short time later in Harlem Hospital, riddled by bullets.

4,000 Foreign Medals Pose State Dept. Space Problem

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—When Congress knocked off work and went home, it left the State Department with around 4,000 problems.

The problems are the 4,000 medals that foreign countries have awarded U.S. military officers and other officials who neither can accept nor wear them until Congress gives its consent.

Since congressmen have had other things on their minds since World War II, and since more and more American officials have gone abroad, the medals have continued to pile up in the State Department.

Only exception: Congress agreed to the acceptance of Korean War medals, thereby cutting down the supply by 500 or so.

"I'm not sure how many medals we have," H. Charles Spruks, assistant chief of protocol, said today, "for we don't have time to sit around counting them. But I do know they have filled some of our safes and four of our filing cabinets, and we could certainly use that space."

The writers of the Constitution unwittingly put Spruks in the medal custodian business.

"No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States" the Constitution says, "and no person holding any office or profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

Spruks said he doesn't suppose George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and B. Franklin were worried much about the type of medals now piled up in the State Department.

Allied Troops Begin Trieste Withdrawal

TRIESTE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Allied occupation troops began pulling out of Trieste today, their peace-keeping job ended by Italian-Yugoslav agreement on division of the long-disputed strategic territory.

This agreement was approved unanimously in Belgrade today by Yugoslavia's powerful Federal Executive Council. It acted after President Tito reported that the pact, although not entirely satisfactory, would contribute to peace and improve relations with Italy.

The Italian Parliament, currently debating the agreement, is expected to give Premier Mario Scelba a vote of confidence on the issue. The agreement, a "memorandum of understanding," not a treaty, does not require formal parliamentary ratification.

Arctic To Antarctic

He got tired of the one he had—cook at a U. S. weather station on northern Ellsmere Island, 450 miles from the North Pole. Too cold, he said.

His next job?

Holdup Thwarted By Drawn Window Shade, Daring Cop

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A drawn window shade and a daring policeman today blocked an attempt by three men to rob a Queens bank of $200,000.

Patrolman John Mullins, who had been guarding a school crossing, captured one man at gunpoint. The other two escaped, one on foot and one in an automobile, dodging pistol fire by Mullins.

Police attempted to determine whether there was any connection between the 8:25 a.m. robbery attempt and a $97,000 robbery of a Mount Vernon, N.Y., bank in a similar manner two weeks ago.

The drawn shade on the rear door of the Laurelton branch of the Ridgewood Savings Bank in a residential section of Queens was a prearranged signal to warn incoming employes if something was amiss.

The three robbers, posing as window cleaners, met bank guard John Rumpfeld, first employe to arrive, and forced him at gunpoint to admit them to the building.

They forced him to admit three more employes, including bank Manager Richard Meyerose, arriving for work prior to the bank's 9 a.m. opening.

Rumpfeld told the robbers they would be "smart" to pull down the shade so nobody would see them. They fell into the trap and ordered the guard himself to lower the shade.

They ordered Meyerose to open the vault, containing $200,000, and he started to comply. Just at that time the robbers heard Asst. Manager William Kelleher drive up behind the bank.

Kelleher spotted the drawn shade and, instead of entering the building, ran to notify police.

Unemployment Shows Decline

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The government today reported a 146,000 decline among unemployed in September, bringing the nation's jobless total to 3,099,000.

Although it was not brought out in a joint report by the Commerce and Labor Departments, a comparison of the official monthly figures showed this to be the lowest total since January.

However, the September figure is more than double the 1,321,000 unemployed in September last year.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell said in their joint statement that "the job picture remained stable" in September with a continuing gradual decline in unemployment.

The total of those employed declined a bit, too—dropping 132,000 to 62,144,000. Nearly a million 'teen age students left the labor force to return to school, and nearly as many women reentered the labor force as school teachers and as helpers on the farm during the harvest season.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, said in a statement "We can not rejoice at this news" and added that "the figures do not reflect a reversal of the continued economic stagnation of the past 15 months."

Senators Blast AEC For Approving Form Of Dixon-Yates Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—A report by the Atomic Energy Commission that it has approved the form of a controversial private power contract with the Dixon-Yates group drew an angry protest from two senators today.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) chairman of a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee, and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a member, charged that the AEC had not shown "proper respect" for the subcommittee in acting on the contract.

In the name of the subcommittee, they demanded a copy of the minutes of the AEC meeting at which approval was agreed on, plus a report on how each commissioner voted.

K. D. Nichols, AEC's general manager, had just notified Langer's group that the form of the contract had been approved Oct. 5 but that no binding agreement had been made with the Dixon-Yates combination.

The AEC is negotiating with Dixon-Yates for the construction of a private power plant at West Memphis, Ark. The 107-million-dollar installation would furnish power to the Memphis area over the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority, replacing electricity TVA has switched to AEC facilities at Paducah, Ky.

Nichols' report was in answer to a request by the subcommittee for information on the exact status of the politically explosive negotiations.

Kefauver said at a subcommittee session that he objected seriously to approval of the contract form in the face of two subcommittee requests that finalization of the contract be delayed until a congressional investigation of the contract and the companies involved in it is completed.

Expressing full agreement with Kefauver, Langer added:

He then had read into the record a story in today's edition of the Wall Street Journal reporting that the AEC apparently had approved the contract and was seeking quick permission to sign it.

Cops Set 'Em Up Through Error

They thought the pipe connected with city sewer lines. But it didn't. The open end of the drain soon was gushing whisky in a Negro residential section a block from the jail. About two dozen opportunists scrambled for their turn at filling bottles, pitchers, glasses and buckets.

A passerby notified police, but by the time a squad car arrived it was too late. The flow had stopped and the freeloaders were long gone.

Dutch Island Escapes Hurricane Damage

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—The island of Aruba off the northern coast of Venezuela escaped damage from hurricane Hazel today as the center of the 115-mile-an-hour tropical storm passed about 60 miles north of that important Dutch possession.

Grady Norton, Miami's chief storm forecaster, said Aruba, where the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey operates one of the world's largest refineries, felt winds of only about 30 m.p.h.

As it passed Aruba, the hurricane, still moving westward, headed out over a vast stretch of open waters of the Caribbean Sea. Norton said no threat to any other land area is expected "for a day or two."

"Just A Holdup"

Nationalists Halt China Bombings At U. S. Request

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Nationalist China has stopped bombing attacks on the Chinese Communist mainland at the suggestion of the United States, diplomatic authorities reported today.

The attacks stopped several days ago, according to reports received here from Taipeh, the Nationalist capital on Formosa.

Officials, who were reluctant to discuss the development at all, indicated that it grew out of a determination by the U. S. government to make certain that its support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is used strictly for defensive purposes. These sources said that Washington does not want to see Chiang engage in any action that would start a major conflagration in Asia.

At the same time they said the United States wants to encourage Chiang in every way possible to defend vigorously not only Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands but also the numerous islands that his forces hold along the coast of China. The emphasis in American policy, however, is wholly on the defensive nature of these operations at this time.

The Chinese Nationalist bombing attacks on the mainland most recently began after the Communists opened major bombing and shelling assaults on the island of Quemoy Sept. 3.

The countering fire which the Nationalists employed in the bombing attacks was first cleared with the U. S. government, which gave its approval because the operations were defensive.

The American and Nationalist Chinese governments have "a gentleman's agreement" that Chiang will not order any new operations of significant importance without first consulting with Washington.

The U. S. 7th Fleet has had orders to protect Formosa against any Communist assault since June 1950, when the Korean War broke out.

Allied Troops Begin Trieste Withdrawal

TRIESTE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Allied occupation troops began pulling out of Trieste today, their peace-keeping job ended by Italian-Yugoslav agreement on division of the long-disputed strategic territory.

This agreement was approved unanimously in Belgrade today by Yugoslavia's powerful Federal Executive Council. It acted after President Tito reported that the pact, although not entirely satisfactory, would contribute to peace and improve relations with Italy.

The Italian Parliament, currently debating the agreement, is expected to give Premier Mario Scelba a vote of confidence on the issue. The agreement, a "memorandum of understanding," not a treaty, does not require formal parliamentary ratification.

Arctic To Antarctic

He got tired of the one he had—cook at a U. S. weather station on northern Ellsmere Island, 450 miles from the North Pole. Too cold, he said.

His next job?

Ike's Road Plan Target Of Heavy Farm Opposition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower's "grand plan" for a 50-billion-dollar program to modernize the nation's highway system drew heavy opposition today from two farm organizations.

The opposition, which followed the reasoning of many governors when the program was outlined to them last summer, was countered, however, with full-scale support from other organizations.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, an old Army sidekick of the President, opened a two-day hearing of a special advisory committee with a plea for help in launching Eisenhower's plan to spend five billion dollars a year for the next 10 years on a massive highway building program.

Clay, chairman of the five-member committee, said:

"We have no choice but to go forward. The question isn't whether or not we need highway improvements, but rather how may we get them most quickly and most economically."

John C. Lynn, legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the committee his group "does not consider that the highway situation is so hopelessly inadequate" as to warrant a tremendous expansion in federal expenditures.

Lloyd C. Halvorson, economist for the National Grange, said he couldn't speak for his entire organization in advance of its annual meeting next month but he said he suspected the grange would reject the program.

His argument also was based on the federal-states rights issue but even more so on the question of financing. He said automobile owners would have to pay $94 a year per car extra to make the program work.

Bow And Arrow Holdup

FREIBURG, Germany, Oct. 7 (AP)—Police today reported that three masked men—armed with bows and arrows—last night held up a farmer near here and robbed him of $61.88. The trio then hopped on a motorcycle and sped away.

New Indictment Says Lattimore Lied Under Oath

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—A federal grand jury today accused Owen Lattimore of falsely denying under oath that he had been "a follower of the Communist line" and a "promoter of Communist interests."

The controversial Far Eastern affairs specialist promptly issued a statement saying he always has been a loyal American who followed the "dictates of my own conscience and not the commands of any foreign system."

Earlier Count Voided

The new two-count indictment was obtained by the government after the courts voided the cornerstone count of an earlier indictment. This alleged Lattimore swore falsely when he told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee he had never been a sympathizer or any other kind of promoter of communism or Red interests.

Nowhere in the new indictment did the word "sympathizer" appear. The U. S. Court of Appeals in a decision last July said this word, as used in the earlier indictment was too vague.

U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover told reporters he will move later to consolidate the new indictment with the five remaining counts of the original true bill.

Brownell Won't Predict

At a news conference, a reporter asked Atty. Gen. Brownell what the government's next move would be if the new indictment is thrown out.

"I won't make any predictions on that," Brownell replied.

Lattimore said in a statement the new indictment "attempts to create the impression that I said a lot of things which I did not say." He added:

"But more important, this indictment lays bare the fact that this prosecution is a direct and immediate threat to anyone and everyone who has ever written or spoken of foreign affairs and whom the government chooses to attack for political reasons."

Crump Critical

Stray Dog Almost Puts Man To Death

DANIA, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—A stray dog was put to death here today, but he nearly took a man with him.

Dan Wininger, 39, manager of the Broward County Humane Society, had the job of putting the animal to death with a hypodermic injection.

As Winninger began to insert the needle, the dog kicked, the needle was deflected to Wininger's body, and about 5 to 8 cubic centimeters of the lethal drug entered the man's bloodstream.

In a moment Wininger was suffering dizzy spells and nearly fainted. A fellow worker Paul Goerner and Mrs. Wininger rushed him to a hospital.

He was given an antidote as well as penicillin and antitetanus shots. The hospital said he is expected to recover.

Unemployment Shows Decline

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The government today reported a 146,000 decline among unemployed in September, bringing the nation's jobless total to 3,099,000.

Although it was not brought out in a joint report by the Commerce and Labor Departments, a comparison of the official monthly figures showed this to be the lowest total since January.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell said in their joint statement that "the job picture remained stable" in September with a continuing gradual decline in unemployment.

The total of those employed declined a bit, too—dropping 132,000 to 62,144,000. Nearly a million 'teen age students left the labor force to return to school, and nearly as many women reentered the labor force as school teachers and as helpers on the farm during the harvest season.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, said in a statement "We can not rejoice at this news" and added that "the figures do not reflect a reversal or the continued economic stagnation of the past 15 months."

U. N. To Hear Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—The Security Council today called a meeting for next Thursday to consider an Israeli complaint that Egypt seized an Israeli vessel in the Suez Canal.

Five Lose Lives In 'Copter Crash

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 7 (AP)—An Air Force helicopter crashed in a cow pasture five miles west of the Alexandria Air Force Base today killing its five occupants.

Air Force investigators said the wreckage was found in an area with sufficient room to land. Clocks in the debris were stopped at shortly after midnight, about the time a rainstorm with stiff winds swept the area.

The names of the dead, all officers, were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Alexandria AFB authorities said two were from the base here and the other three were based elsewhere.

Col. William A. Daniels, commander of the base here, said the helicopter was "pretty much of a mess" when it was found by searching sister planes about 6 a.m. today.

The craft, a seven-man Sikorsky generally used in rescue work, made a routine flight to Leesville in southwest Louisiana yesterday. It encountered bad weather on the return trip and turned back. This was the last contact it had with Alexandria.

Gunman Is Riddled By Police Bullets

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A gunman holed up in an apartment house after wounding a patrolman today and held off more than 100 police for 90 minutes before falling mortally wounded by a rain of bullets.

More than 1,000 persons watched the spectacular crime drama from behind building corners and other safe places. Dozens of residents were trapped in terror inside the Harlem apartment building.

He died a short time later in Harlem Hospital, riddled by bullets.

4,000 Foreign Medals Pose State Dept. Space Problem

The problems are the 4,000 medals that foreign countries have awarded U.S. military officers and other officials who neither can accept nor wear them until Congress gives its consent.

Since congressmen have had other things on their minds since World War II, and since more and more American officials have gone abroad, the medals have continued to pile up in the State Department.

Only exception: Congress agreed to the acceptance of Korean War medals, thereby cutting down the supply by 500 or so.

"I'm not sure how many medals we have," H. Charles Spruks, assistant chief of protocol, said today, "for we don't have time to sit around counting them. But I do know they have filled some of our safes and four of our filing cabinets, and we could certainly use that space."

The writers of the Constitution unwittingly put Spruks in the medal custodian business.

"No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States" the Constitution says, "and no person holding any office or profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

Spruks said he doesn't suppose George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and B. Franklin were worried much about the type of medals now piled up in the State Department.

Holdup Thwarted By Drawn Window Shade, Daring Cop

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A drawn window shade and a daring policeman today blocked an attempt by three men to rob a Queens bank of $200,000.

Patrolman John Mullins, who had been guarding a school crossing, captured one man at gunpoint. The other two escaped, one on foot and one in an automobile, dodging pistol fire by Mullins.

Police attempted to determine whether there was any connection between the 8:25 a.m. robbery attempt and a $97,000 robbery of a Mount Vernon, N.Y., bank in a similar manner two weeks ago.

The drawn shade on the rear door of the Laurelton branch of the Ridgewood Savings Bank in a residential section of Queens was a prearranged signal to warn incoming employes if something was amiss.

The three robbers, posing as window cleaners, met bank guard John Rumpfeld, first employe to arrive, and forced him at gunpoint to admit them to the building.

They forced him to admit three more employes, including bank Manager Richard Meyerose, arriving for work prior to the bank's 9 a.m. opening.

Rumpfeld told the robbers they would be "smart" to pull down the shade so nobody would see them. They fell into the trap and ordered the guard himself to lower the shade.

They ordered Meyerose to open the vault, containing $200,000, and he started to comply. Just at that time the robbers heard Asst. Manager William Kelleher drive up behind the bank.

French Premier Stakes His Prestige On Pact's Approval

PARIS, Oct. 7 (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France today threw his popularity and prestige squarely on the parliamentary scales in favor of rearming West Germany under the nine-nation London agreements.

At the end of an hour-long appeal to the National Assembly, the Premier appeared to have tilted the balance strongly in his favor for the first vote which will probably come tomorrow night.

Prominent Socialist and Popular Republican (MRP) deputies predicted Mendes-France will get between 330 and 380 votes, well over the 314 absolute majority.

In a careful, restrained report on the London negotiations, the Premier urged the Assembly — which killed the European army plan (EDC) to endorse German entry into an integrated defense force under a revived Brussels Treaty and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization .

The Socialists, Assembly sources said, are likely to tie some strings to their approval, notably a satisfactory solution of the French-German dispute over the Saar's industrial wealth. But the Premier reiterated he felt the same way and said he intends to submit the rearmament plan and a Saar solution to Parliament for ratification simultaneously.

Mendes-France asked for parliamentary approval of the outlines of the London agreements and authority to fill in the details in the forthcoming Ministerial conferences later this month. The Assembly was not asked to vote on any treaty text at this time.

To heavy and prolonged applause, Mendes-France hailed Britain's pledges to keep troops on the continent indefinitely, and said he has no further objections to bringing West Germany into NATO as a full member.

He pointed out that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had committed his government to maintaining four divisions and a tactical air force on the continent as long as a majority of the Brussels Treaty members desire. He said this represented more than half of Britain's available military strength.

Danish Freighter Sinks

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 7 (AP)—The 1,489-ton Danish freighter Rikke Skou, carrying a crew of 20, apparently sank in the North Sea last night. A Swedish freighter radioed it had rescued eight survivors from a raft today after another ship had found a lifeboat with three dead sailors in it.

Handicapped Vet Goes On TV, Finds Fan In President

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (AP) — Ken Porter, a 38-year-old handicapped ex-Marine from Phoenix, Ariz., made his television debut last night and today found he had a pretty important fan — President Eisenhower.

Porter suffered a severe spinal injury in a tank landing at New Caledonia in the South Pacific in 1942. After months spent in hospitals he was released as 90 per cent disabled, but his injury grew worse. In 1946 his doctors told him that his spinal column and hips would have to be fused. He had the choice of spending the rest of his life standing up on crutches or sitting down in a wheelchair.

He chose to stand because, as he put it, "It gives a man independence to stand on his own feet."

Since then he has conducted a prosperous tax consultant and engraving business in Phoenix.

"Imagine," quipped Porter to newsmen today. "A yardbird like me getting a phone call from President Eisenhower."

He quoted the President as saying it was the most inspiring story he had ever heard.

Marilyn Monroe Returns To Work

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (AP)—A sober-faced Marilyn Monroe dried her tears today and threw her self into a gay comedy scene at her studio.

"The show must go on," said a studio spokesman.

"Why?" asked a newsman.

"We're $50,000 and three days behind production on the picture already. That's why."

The world's most publicized blonde was near collapse yesterday after parting from Joe DiMaggio. A source who was inside the house at the time Joe left said Marilyn was composed until Joe went upstairs for a private and final goodbye.

That departure and the ordeal of facing 100 newsmen on the front lawn almost proved too much. But a good night's sleep, with the help of sedatives, seemed to work wonders.

She was on the lot at 8:05 a.m. today, looking serious and bewildered. She was supposed to be on the set at 9 a.m. It was 10 a.m. by the time she made it. A set worker said the make-up department had a little trouble covering up eyes swollen from "days of tears."

Ironically, her first scene was one of the funniest in the movie. She got through it in great shape.

Marian Anderson To Sing With Met

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera said today Marian Anderson, famous American Negro contralto, has been signed to sing in an opera this winter, first Negro singer ever to appear with a Metropolitan cast.

Rudolf Bing, Metropolitan general manager, said Miss Anderson will sing the role of "Ulrica," a Negro fortune teller, in Verdi's "The Masked Ball" early in January.

"I'm very happy," said Miss Anderson. When a photographer asked for a smile to prove it, she complied, but added:

Tongay Is Ordered To Leave Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 7 (AP)—Russell Tongay, convicted of manslaughter at Miami in connection with the death of his Aquatot daughter, was ordered to leave the Bahamas today or be deported.

Tongay arrived here Tuesday with his son, Bubba, expecting to remain for six months. He had been in Mexico since his conviction last Jan. 25.

Mendes-France Clears Top Aides

PARIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France brought the French defense leaks scandal into the National Assembly debate today, exonerating his top ministers of any blame.

Referring to those who implied at the start of the case that his own administration could be the origin of the leak of top defense secrets to the Communists, the Premier said:

"It is a good fortune that the truth was brought to light two days before the end of the London conference, thanks to the action of the minister of the interior, Francois Mitterand.

"If the truth had not won this race against the clock, what would have been the confidence (of the other countries represented at the conference) in our signature?"

Assembly deputies, except the Communists, applauded.

The key figure in the investigation, Andre Baranes, told the examining magistrate Tuesday he had passed along some bits of old defense secrets to Communist chieftain Jacques Duclos who laughed in Baranes' face and indicated he had already received important defense information from higher sources. Duclos denied to the magistrate yesterday that he had received any secrets from Baranes.

Communist Vietminh Army To March Into Hanoi Today

HANOI, Indochina, Oct. 7 (AP) — This ancient city, once one of the brightest jewels in France's colonial crown, supinely awaits the arrival tomorrow of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's army.

Early in the morning, Communist-led Vietminh forces will march into Hanoi as French troops begin to pull back toward Haiphong on the coast. The Vietminh take over under the Geneva truce agreement will be gradual. By Sunday night, under the eyes of a tripartite international commission, the victors of Dien Bien Phu will have total possession.

Yesterday morning the Vietminh trudged into Hadong, 10 miles due south of Hanoi, without incident.

As the French withdrew and the Communist-led forces clanked in, the townspeople retreated discreetly behind closed doors. After they were reassured nothing was going to happen to them, they poked their noses out, then ventured outdoors. They put up a victory arch in the street, and Red flags burst out in profusion.

Hanoi's main street, Rue Paul Bert, is a desolate line of shuttered shops and empty cafes. The Cafe de la Paix and the Taverne Royale which front on the picturesque little lake in the center of the city were closed tight.

Six weeks ago, it was believed that several thousand French business men would remain behind to take their chances under Vietminh rule. Now there are slightly more than 60 left of the more than 6,000 who once ran the city's economy and helped make the Tonkin Delta one of the richest rice-producing regions on earth.

Boys Admit Tossing Tomatoes At Ives

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—Four high school boys confessed today that they threw tomatoes Tuesday night at Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican candidate for governor of New York.

Principal Albert B. Scholl of Watertown High School said the boys had given him a signed statement apologizing to Ives for the "thoughtless act."

Ives' reaction Tuesday night was that the tomatoes "came by indirection straight from Tammany Hall." The Democratic camp in Manhattan told a newsman in Auburn that the boys were "wholly forgiven."

As the French withdrew and the Communist-led forces clanked in, the townspeople retreated discreetly behind closed doors. After they were reassured nothing was going to happen to them, they poked their noses out, then ventured outdoors. They put up a victory arch in the street, and Red flags burst out in profusion.

Hanoi's main street, Rue Paul Bert, is a desolate line of shuttered shops and empty cafes. The Cafe de la Paix and the Taverne Royale which front on the picturesque little lake in the center of the city were closed tight.

Six weeks ago, it was believed that several thousand French business men would remain behind to take their chances under Vietminh rule. Now there are slightly more than 60 left of the more than 6,000 who once ran the city's economy and helped make the Tonkin Delta one of the richest rice-producing regions on earth.

Boys Admit Tossing Tomatoes At Ives

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—Four high school boys confessed today that they threw tomatoes Tuesday night at Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican candidate for governor of New York.

Principal Albert B. Scholl of Watertown High School said the boys had given him a signed statement apologizing to Ives for the "thoughtless act."

Ives' reaction Tuesday night was that the tomatoes "came by indirection straight from Tammany Hall." The Democratic camp in Manhattan told a newsman in Auburn that the boys were "wholly forgiven."

Job Of Wearing Out Clothes Is High In Army Popularity

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Army reported today that one of its toughest jobs continues to be among its most popular.

It always gets more men than it needs with the call: "Who wants to volunteer to wear out clothes?"

Like everything else in the Army, even a modest business like wearing out clothes rates an impressive title, and it gets one here: The Army Quartermaster Research and Development Field Evaluation Agency.

But its purpose is simple: To take clothes and equipment and see how they stand up under actual soldiering conditions.

So at Ft. Lee, Va., soldiers slide on their stomachs across gravel pits, crawl under barbed wire and across railroad tracks and inch through culverts.

The course is so tough only the hardiest and youngest are chosen. (It comes as a shock to note that the Army figures anyone over 21 is too old for this business).

Naturally, the kids don't volunteer merely because they like to crawl through culverts. There are added attractions. Knock off work at noon, and never any KP or guard duty.

In addition to the combat course, there are treadmills for testing shoes and a rain course in which the Army duplicates anything from a light drizzle to a three-inch downpour.

Since the Army operates all over the world, it runs into climatic conditions hard to duplicate at Ft. Lee. So in the winter, tests for cold-wet climates are held at Mount Washington, N.H.; for cold and dry, at Ft. Churchill, Canada; for hot and dry at Yuma, Ariz., and for hot and wet conditions, Panama.

And, ah, yes. Now that the army is coeducational, special tests are held by the WACS, seeing how those things a woman wears stands up under the elements.

"We sent some WACS up to Mount Washington one winter," a quartermaster man said. "I understand they had a fine time."

The Army has gone a step further. It has rigged up a couple of copper men, named Chauncey and Archie. They are dressed in uniforms and bivouacked under conditions too tough for mortals to bear. Such as standing outside all winter on Mount Washington.

But, said the Quartermaster man you never can be sure how anything will work out until it's actually tried on a U.S. soldier.

Cole Says Atom Book Misleading

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP) — Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee said yesterday a recently published book is "a misleading portrayal of the events affecting the development of the thermonuclear weapons by our nation."

He referred to "The Hydrogen Bomb," a book by Clay Blair Jr. and James R. Shepley, staff members of Time magazine.

Cole said the book "regrettably establishes distorted relationships among the principal persons, agencies and laboratories involved in that program by omission, part truths and oversimplifications."

Cole added in a statement issued by his office here:

"A completely accurate, fully documented chronology of thermonuclear effort—without distortion of motive, act or position of anyone concerned—would require, as a minimum, full access to all the classified information involved and full and free discussion with all the persons concerned.

"On the face of it, the authors have not had such sources available to them nor could they under our law. The historical picture presented in this work is foreshortened and in many instances, unfair; the roles invividuals played are in some cases magnified and in others minimized."

Canadian Mounties Uncover Big "Gold-Making Machine" Swindle

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 7 (AP) — A $30,000 swindle carried out through a "gold-making machine" that was actually an ancient confidence game in atomic trappings was reported this week by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

They estimated at least 30 Manitobans were taken in and said one man is under arrest. By the police account:

Useless machines were sold for sums ranging up to $2,500, with the seller retaining a partnership.

The units were box-shaped, about three feet deep. Around the inside of each box was a row of thin test tubes containing a dark grey material. This material was supposed to protect the operators from radioactive rays.

A second row of larger tubes surrounded a container for plaster of paris moulds which buyers were told were filled with a secret compound that had to be heated by radioactive rays for 18 hours before it turned into gold. Actually each mould held a small gold pellet made from gold foil.

Every day the seller would bring the partners 40 of the sealed moulds which would be inserted in the machines for a day's baking.

The following morning he would return, crack open the moulds and extract a small nugget from each and take them back to his office. For a week or so he would bring his partners about $12 daily as their share of the proceeds.

Then he would stop making cash payments and give receipts for shares in the gold, to be redeemed at a later date. The most any one man received back was $150.

Police began their investigation after hearing reports of the alleged swindle. At about the same time, they said, one of the victims accidentally broke one of the moulds before baking and found the gold pellet inside.

Fred Hossell, 65, is held on a charge of obtaining $900 by false pretenses. His bail was set at $20,000.

7½ Million In War Claims To Be Paid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The War Claims Settlement Commission is preparing to pay some 7½ million dollars as reimbursement to American citizens whose bank deposits and other credits in the Philippines were seized by Japan during World War II. The depositors included U. S. service people. Authority for the payment was provided in legislation signed recently by President Eisenhower.

Motel Price War Rages In Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—Tourists got bargain rates of $1 per person for double occupancy today as Miami's motel price war spread and one operator said the price might drop to 50 cents.

At least 25 establishments along Biscayne Blvd. displayed the $1 signs. Most were concentrated in a 10-block area but some reduced rates were in effect for about 25 blocks.

Three motels in North Miami Beach joined in the price war, which broke out when U.S. 1 Motel Assn. members decided to cut their rates to counteract $2 signs put up by other operators.

Ben Marks, a director of the association and president of the Miami Chapter, Florida Motor Courts Assn., threatened that if others went to $1, "We'll go to 50 cents."

"If necessary, we'll even pay them (the tourists) to come in," he added. "This is a battle to the bitter end."

Stowaway Can Thank Seaman Who Remembered Some Rope For Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—An 18-year-old German stowaway was alive today because a seaman remembered some rope.

The stowaway, Alfred Oestmann, blond and blue-eyed, hid in the No. 5 hold of the German freighter Barenstein Sept. 24. When the ship sailed from Bremen the hold was sealed, not to be opened until the vessel's arrival in Baltimore about a week hence.

The Barenstein docked in Brooklyn Monday. Tuesday a seaman remembered storing some rope in the No. 5 hold and figured it might come in handy. So he and some shipmates opened the hatch.

Out crawled Oestmann, after 11 days without food or water. He was dirty, dazed by the sunlight, and 60 pounds lighter than when he stowed away. He collapsed on the deck.

However, he suffered no lasting effects and food and liquids soon restored him.

Oestmann said, "I just lay down and started to dream. I knew I was going to the country where I wanted to live my life. . . .

"I knew I had to suffer to get to America, but I was glad to. I got weaker and weaker, but I kept on dreaming of how it would be."

Seamen on the freighter said the lad would have been dead before the ship reached Baltimore.

Meanwhile, his cherished dreams and his gruelling ordeal went for naught. Immigration authorities sent him back to Germany on a ship sailing yesterday.

College House Mother Finds Nude Man In Bed

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (AP)—The grey-haired house mother said she "just had a feeling that everything was not all right" when she entered her living quarters at a North Park College girls' dormitory.

Then, Miss Vivian Adell, 45, told Judge Oscar Caplan, she spied a hand protruding from under her bed.

"I thought at first it might be one of the girls playing a prank," she continued. "I took a firm hold and yanked the bedspread back."

There, she said, was a man, naked except for his shoes.

Brought to court, Cpl. Thomas Clayton, 22, of Brunswick, Md., stationed with an antiaircraft battery in Chicago, said the last thing he remembered on the night in question was having a drink at a bar.

The judge fined Clayton $100 and court costs on charges of disorderly conduct.

Government Adds New Emphasis To Motto, "In God Is Our Trust"

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Back in the pit of the depression in 1931, the United States declared officially: "In God is our trust."

Today, with other troubles confronting the nation, the government has added new emphasis to the motto.

It has, for the first time, set aside a prayer room in the national Capitol.

It has made "under God" a part of the pledge to the flag.

It has provided a new pension system and tax benefits for clergymen.

It has put the words, "In God We Trust," on 3-cent stamps.

It has weighed proposals for even more specific action affirming national religious faith.

All these things came in this year's session of Congress, which mark it as a sort of pacesetter for legislation related to God.

Government action in this realm always has been a touchy business in this country, and some of the new steps didn't come without murmurs of anxiety.

Most of the new legislation was generally acceptable to major church bodies.

"The state must not be godless," commented the Lutheran, a church magazine. "It must be neutral toward both Christians and Jews, but it cannot be neutral toward God."

Although history bulges with rulers and empires that traced their authority to God, this country's Constitution bars any laws "respecting an establishment of religion."

The idea has been interpreted as keeping the state separate from religion, so that every man's way of worship, if any, will be entirely up to him and not the lawmakers.

But on occasions, as at present, the government has sought to express its reliance on a higher power. Usually, this has been in time of stress.

The first occasion was in the Declaration of Independence, which voiced recognition of "our Creator" as the source of human rights.

In the unrest following the Civil War, the Federal Mint first began stamping the motto, "In God We Trust," on U.S. coins.

This was done, not by legislation, but by a directive from Treasury Secretary Salmon P. Chase, on suggestion of a Pennsylvania pastor. The practice has continued since.

In the economically bleak days of 1931, Congress officially adopted Francis Scott Key's century-old "Star Spangled Banner" as the official national anthem, with its declaration:

"Let this be our motto, In God is our trust."

Among the 1954 federal moves concerning religion, the only one drawing major opposition was an unsuccessful proposal by Sen. Ralph Flanders (R-Vt) to amend the Constitution to acknowledge "the authority and law of Jesus Christ."

Declared the nondenominational Christian Century:

"What enactment of such an amendment would do . . . to guarantees of religious freedom . . . and to relations between religious groups in this country, the mind can scarcely comprehend."

Lad's Plan To Beat Draft Almost Works

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (AP)—Peter P. Ropinski's feet were so flat they kept him out of Uncle Sam's Army in 1951.

And so, as federal prosecutors relate the story, when his pal, Robert F. Wyzykowski, was called in 1953 he figured Ropinski's flat feet would come in handy. Wyzykowski induced his flatfooted pal to report for his physical examination.

The hoax almost worked, but an alert draft official did some checking and found that Wyzykowski's chart showed him to be 6 feet 4. Ropinski is 5 feet 10.

'Production Line' Education Planned

SEATTLE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Talk about production line education—it was disclosed today that the University of Washington is considering a plan for conveyor belts to carry students from a parking lot to the campus center.

The planned parking area—now a garbage dump—is being filled in gradually. An architect said the most likely plan, if finally approved, would be to have one conveyor take students across an arterial boulevard and another up and over a hillside. Parking fees would pay the freight.

Benefit Dance To Be Held Nov. 26 By Jr. Civic Club

Plans to continue two annual socials were made at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club Wednesday evening at the Girl Scout House. Miss Jeanne Lippold presided.

A charity dance will be held November 26 with the proceeds to be given for the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children. It is to be at Clary Club, with Jimmy Andrews and his Orchestra playing from 9 until 1 o'clock.

The club voted to continue the "Guest Night Dinner," and have it sometime in April.

Three new members were accepted and introduced. They are Mrs. Mary Jane Metcalfe, Mrs. Patricia Sell and Mrs. Patricia O'Donnell. A donation of $10 was made to the Community Chest and the budget for the year was read and approved. It was announced that the next meeting will be at the Celanese plant. The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance and the club collect. Secretary and treasurer reports were given by Mrs. Ward N. Hauger and Mrs. Galen Metzger.

Speaking on "Segregation in Public Schools," Homer S. Higgins, director of pupil personnel of Allegany County, announced that Allegany County has the lowest record in Maryland, and probably in the United States, in having Negro pupils drop out of school before graduation. This he attributed to the fact that Allegany County has equal facilities for the white and Negro students. The speaker made it clear that in Allegany County the Negro children go to school and graduate and make good citizens.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Jeanne Dauphin, Miss Lippold, Miss Louise Lippold, Mrs. Kay Pellerzi, Mrs. Patricia Sokolowski and Miss Virginia Harmison.

Group Elects Replacements

The St. Mary's Alumnae elected two officers and selected its project for the year at the meeting Wednesday evening in the church hall.

Miss Betty Stegmaier was elected president, replacing Mrs. Robert Weisenmiller, who resigned because of ill health; and Mrs. Clay Ingram was elected vice president in place of Miss Angela Vielente, who has enlisted in the Nursing Corps.

The alumnae plans to give an electric calculator to the school this year.

The next meeting will be November 3.

Ensemble Plans FSTC Assembly

Specially selected and staged music of all types and periods, ranging from folk-songs to operetta and musical comedy, will be presented by the Knickerbockers at the assembly program of Frostburg State Teachers College Monday at 2 o'clock.

The pre-intermission "Fledermaus," staged and sung in English, contains in concentrated form some of the choicest portions of the score. Starting with a touch of Mozart, the Knickerbockers will finish with a medley of popular songs inspired by New York, "A Knickerbocker Fantasy," created especially for them. Completely devoid of standard solo groups, the entire program blends solo with group singing.

The Knickerbockers are Loraine Donahue, soprano; Ruth Pitts, alto; Adam Petroski, tenor, and Richard Brode, baritone. Donald Christmas is the pianist.

Miss Donahue placed first last year in the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs and the New England Federation of Music Clubs competitions. Last March, she appeared on a coast-to-coast broadcast after winning an Arthur Godfrey contest. She was the recipient of the New England Conservatory scholarship and has sung leading roles in summer stock.

Mr. Brode is a product of the Louisiana State University Opera Workshop and of Tanglewood. A winner of both the Baton Rouge and New Orleans Opera Guild scholarships, he has sung professionally with the New Orleans Opera Company and the Baton Rouge Symphony, and had leading roles at Tanglewood and Louisiana State. Last year he held a performing scholarship with the Mannes Opera appearing in New York.

Miss Pitts, from North Carolina, launched her career with her own radio program. She had feature roles in the South Shore Music Circus, and in 1951 toured with the Rodgers and Hammerstein show and appeared as soloist with the Oklahoma City Symphony. Prior to joining the Knickerbockers, she was with Fred Waring's "Festival of Song."

Mr. Petroski was awarded a three-year scholarship to the New England Opera Theatre, and had the lead role of Tom Rakewell in Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress," with the composer conducting.

BPW To Honor Dr. Compton, Celebrate Week Observance

The "BPW Story" will be related as the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club celebrates National Business Women's Week in honoring the club's first president, Dr. Lillian C. Compton, October 12, at a dinner. It is to be held at 6:30 at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Miss Gerardine Pritchard, president, is to be the narrator. The program includes selections from the BPW trio, composed of Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, Miss Kathleen Cumbee and Mrs. Claude Twigg; a short skit, "In the Beginning," written by Miss Mary Walsh, and enacted by Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, Miss Helen Beck, Mrs. Ethel Northcraft, Miss Dorothy Manley, Mrs. Effie Parsons, Miss Anna Durst, Mrs. Lewis Millholland, Miss Eudora Jochum, Miss Mary Jo Logsdon, Miss Mildred Ross, and Miss Edith Scharf.

Slides from the BPW history will be projected by Mrs. Ethel Davis, with remarks by Miss Jane Botsford, Mrs. Parsons, Miss Nan Livingstone and Miss Beck. Miss Mary Walsh, Miss Kathleen Swann, Miss Anna Nicht, and Dr. Compton will speak briefly. Miss Theresa Nicht will introduce guests.

Group singing is under the direction of Miss Cumbee, accompanied by Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder. The invocation will be sung by Mrs. Gladys Daniels, accompanied by Mrs. Dessie Williams.

Activities for the week will be launched on Sunday morning, when members will attend special church services at Central Methodist Church and at SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church. Following the services, a coffee will be held in the Green Room of Central YMCA at 9:30 a. m.

A card party for members and their guests will be held at Central YMCA at 8 p. m. on Wednesday.

The first in a series of four radio programs to be presented by the local club will be at 7:15 on October 15. Members of the Choral Speaking group to present the "BPW Emblem," are Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, Mrs. McKenzie, Miss Olive Simpson, Miss Scharf, Miss Jochum, Mrs. Millholland, Miss Theresa Nicht, and Miss Gerardine Pritchard, director. Miss Marian Hamilton, accompanied by Miss Patty Smith, sings "The Collect" and "The Emblem Benediction."

A display at the Cumberland Free Public Library featuring the proclamation of Business Women's Week in Cumberland, signed by Mayor Eves, has been arranged by Miss Margaret Walsh. Posters are on display in Cumberland and Frostburg.

General chairman of the week's activities is Mrs. Swartzwelder. Members of Mrs. Swartzwelder's committee are Miss Swann, Miss Simpson, Miss Theresa Nicht, Miss Logsdon, Miss Millie Gottlieb, Miss Manley, Miss O. B. Pritchard, and Miss Gerardine Pritchard, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Twigg, Mrs. Millholland, Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Daniels, and Mrs. Davis.

A charity dance will be held November 26 with the proceeds to be given for the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children. It is to be at Clary Club, with Jimmy Andrews and his Orchestra playing from 9 until 1 o'clock.

The club voted to continue the "Guest Night Dinner," and have it sometime in April.

Three new members were accepted and introduced. They are Mrs. Mary Jane Metcalfe, Mrs. Patricia Sell and Mrs. Patricia O'Donnell. A donation of $10 was made to the Community Chest and the budget for the year was read and approved. It was announced that the next meeting will be at the Celanese plant. The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance and the club collect. Secretary and treasurer reports were given by Mrs. Ward N. Hauger and Mrs. Galen Metzger.

Speaking on "Segregation in Public Schools," Homer S. Higgins, director of pupil personnel of Allegany County, announced that Allegany County has the lowest record in Maryland, and probably in the United States, in having Negro pupils drop out of school before graduation. This he attributed to the fact that Allegany County has equal facilities for the white and Negro students. The speaker made it clear that in Allegany County the Negro children go to school and graduate and make good citizens.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Jeanne Dauphin, Miss Lippold, Miss Louise Lippold, Mrs. Kay Pellerzi, Mrs. Patricia Sokolowski and Miss Virginia Harmison.

Ensemble Plans FSTC Assembly

Specially selected and staged music of all types and periods, ranging from folk-songs to operetta and musical comedy, will be presented by the Knickerbockers at the assembly program of Frostburg State Teachers College Monday at 2 o'clock.

The pre-intermission "Fledermaus," staged and sung in English, contains in concentrated form some of the choicest portions of the score. Starting with a touch of Mozart, the Knickerbockers will finish with a medley of popular songs inspired by New York, "A Knickerbocker Fantasy," created especially for them. Completely devoid of standard solo groups, the entire program blends solo with group singing.

The Knickerbockers are Loraine Donahue, soprano; Ruth Pitts, alto; Adam Petroski, tenor, and Richard Brode, baritone. Donald Christmas is the pianist.

Miss Donahue placed first last year in the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs and the New England Federation of Music Clubs competitions. Last March, she appeared on a coast-to-coast broadcast after winning an Arthur Godfrey contest. She was the recipient of the New England Conservatory scholarship and has sung leading roles in summer stock.

Mr. Brode is a product of the Louisiana State University Opera Workshop and of Tanglewood. A winner of both the Baton Rouge and New Orleans Opera Guild scholarships, he has sung professionally with the New Orleans Opera Company and the Baton Rouge Symphony, and had leading roles at Tanglewood and Louisiana State. Last year he held a performing scholarship with the Mannes Opera appearing in New York.

Miss Pitts, from North Carolina, launched her career with her own radio program. She had feature roles in the South Shore Music Circus, and in 1951 toured with the Rodgers and Hammerstein show and appeared as soloist with the Oklahoma City Symphony. Prior to joining the Knickerbockers, she was with Fred Waring's "Festival of Song."

Mr. Petroski was awarded a three-year scholarship to the New England Opera Theatre, and had the lead role of Tom Rakewell in Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress," with the composer conducting.

McKeldin Invades Shore; Byrd Goes To Frederick

One Of Quietest Days Of Campaign

[By The Associated Press]

Gov. McKeldin headed east to the Shore and H. C. Byrd went west to Frederick Thursday in their rival campaigns for Maryland. Early reports indicated it was one of the quietest days of the campaign in the last week.

The Republican governor, accompanied by Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins and Rep. Edward T. Miller, visited Kent and Queen Annes counties in another speechless sortie across the Chesapeake.

While Rollins and Miller, both Eastern Shore residents, trailed along, McKeldin shook every hand within reach and passed out book matches.

Breezing through Centreville earlier in the day, the campaign caravan barely paused for a word with local party leaders.

"He just went tearing down the street meeting everybody," said one GOP chieftain.

After the church supper McKeldin and his two running mates headed for Kennedysvillle, Galena, Massey and Millington.

Kent and Queen Annes were two of the only three counties McKeldin lost to former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. in 1950.

Byrd's chief target in Frederick County was the county fair, where he took advantage of the golden opportunity to see and be seen by one of the biggest batches of voters assembled in one place throughout the state.

He allotted most of the day to the fair, as did his campaign partners, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and attorney general candidate C. Ferdinand Sybert.

The touring trio was scheduled to buzz into Harford County for a rally at Aberdeen later tonight.

WHERE HAZEL HUFFS AND PUFFS—Cross and arrow indicate location and northwesterly direction of Hurricane Hazel, which is heading into the Caribbean about 1,200 miles southeast of the Florida mainland. The hurricane, with 115-mile winds, posed a threat to the Dutch West Indies island of Aruba off the coast of oil-rich Venezuela.

Byrd Fires New Salvo In SRC Contract Row

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Democrat H. C. Byrd said today his charge of extravagance involving a State Roads Commission contract with David M. Nichols "is amply proved by the commission's admissions."

"The contract should be rescinded," he declared.

Byrd referred in a gubernatorial campaign statement to a contract signed by Nichols, former roads commissioner, "and others" and by the commission last June.

The contract calls for Nichols and other real estate interests to receive 7½ per cent of the amount the State pays for property rights needed in construction of a tunnel under Baltimore harbor.

Byrd had charged that this would mean "unnecessary and extravagant" payment of 1½ to 3 million dollars to the real estate dealers. He contended the commisssion already has a staff which is paid for acquiring property needed for its construction projects.

The commission said Byrd's figures were "far out of line with the facts," adding the fee would amount to about $732,900 because the estimated cost of property rights for the harbor tunnel project would be closer to 10-million dollars than the 20-to-40-million figure given by Byrd.

The commission also replied that its right-of-way staff was so busy with work on the State's 12-year road building program that it could not possibly handle a project as big as the tunnel project in addition.

2nd Army To Mark 36th Anniversary

FT. MEADE, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—The 2nd Army will mark its 36th anniversary Sunday.

Gen. John J. Pershing formed it as a combat outfit in France barely a month before the World War I armistice.

Now it is an administrative unit, controlling Army affairs in seven states — Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Second Army's main functions now are inducting recruits and training them for combat, supervising Army reserve programs in its seven states, directing the training of combat units and performing administrative and house keeping functions for them and the specialist centers such as Aberdeen Proving Ground and the Army Chemical Center in Maryland.

Park Executives Post Goes To Baltimorean

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—James H. Gorges, a member of the Baltimore Board of Recreation and Parks, today was elected president of the Park Commissioners Section of the American Institute of Park Executives.

Harold E. Teachout, president of the Des Moines, Ia., Park Board, was elected vice-president, and Elo J. Urbanovsky, head of the department of horticulture and park management at Texas Tech in Lubbock, Texas, was named secretary.

The election was held in connection with the 56th annual convention of the Institute of Park Executives.

M'Keldin Has No Law Practice, Aide Tells Byrd

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 7 (AP) — The governor's office, in a reply to questions raised publicly by Dr. H. C. Byrd, said today Gov. McKeldin has no law office "and, of course, no law practice, partnership or profits."

The statement was issued by an aide in the absence of McKeldin, who was campaigning on the Eastern Shore.

Byrd, the Democratic candidate opposing McKeldin for governor in the Nov. 2 election, had issued a statement in Baltimore earlier today in which he said the public was entitled to know "the nature of the law practices" conducted by the firm of which he indicated McKeldin was still a member.

Byrd said the Republican governor shares an office with M. William Adelson, a Baltimore lawyer who "also is a licensed insurance broker, representing at least nine companies." He also said McKeldin "qualified as an insurance solicitor as far back as June, 1941."

The governor's aide said McKeldin had discontinued his partnership with Adelson when he took office and said of the "insurance solicitor" charge: "The governor never renewed his insurance authority since he became governor."

Byrd also said in his statement:

"I think he (the governor) should also see to it that Mr. Adelson makes public the amount and nature of all fees Mr. Adelson has received in any matters in which the State of Maryland was interested, directly or indirectly," said Byrd.

The home, from which its owner has moved, is on the edge of a 40-acre development over an area said to be laced with plugged wells. Across the street is the city's largest elementary school with an enrollment of 1,224. Fire officials said tests have shown the gas mixture in the dwelling could be ignited by the flick of a light switch.

Official Admits Conditions Bad At Spring Grove

CATONSVILLE, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—Dr. T. Glyne Williams, clinical director of Spring Grove State Mental Hospital, acknowledged today conditions in the main building are bad, but added it is not the hospital's fault.

Dr. Williams made his statement in reply to bitter criticism from a prominent St. Mary's County woman, Mrs. Stuart Edmonds, of Clements.

She charged the maximum security ward was a dirty, unkept "snakepit" and removed her son who was under treatment for encephalitis (inflammation of the brain).

"I feel that if my boy remained in maximum security section another week his case would have been hopeless," Mrs. Edmonds had said.

Dr. Williams said today hospital authorities have been trying "for four or five years" to get the main building replaced with a new one."

He said the building is old, improperly lighted and furnished, badly overcrowded and in need of more nursing personnel.

He denied, however, it was dirty.

The hospital official said he would welcome a proposed visit of legislators. He pointed out that the more persons tour the hospital, the easier it would be to get appropriations to replace the building.

McKeldin Invades Shore; Byrd Goes To Frederick

One Of Quietest Days Of Campaign

[By The Associated Press]

Gov. McKeldin headed east to the Shore and H. C. Byrd went west to Frederick Thursday in their rival campaigns for Maryland. Early reports indicated it was one of the quietest days of the campaign in the last week.

The Republican governor, accompanied by Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins and Rep. Edward T. Miller, visited Kent and Queen Annes counties in another speechless sortie across the Chesapeake.

While Rollins and Miller, both Eastern Shore residents, trailed along, McKeldin shook every hand within reach and passed out book matches.

Breezing through Centreville earlier in the day, the campaign caravan barely paused for a word with local party leaders.

"He just went tearing down the street meeting everybody," said one GOP chieftain.

After the church supper McKeldin and his two running mates headed for Kennedysvillle, Galena, Massey and Millington.

Kent and Queen Annes were two of the only three counties McKeldin lost to former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. in 1950.

Byrd's chief target in Frederick County was the county fair, where he took advantage of the golden opportunity to see and be seen by one of the biggest batches of voters assembled in one place throughout the state.

He allotted most of the day to the fair, as did his campaign partners, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and attorney general candidate C. Ferdinand Sybert.

The touring trio was scheduled to buzz into Harford County for a rally at Aberdeen later tonight.

WHERE HAZEL HUFFS AND PUFFS—Cross and arrow indicate location and northwesterly direction of Hurricane Hazel, which is heading into the Caribbean about 1,200 miles southeast of the Florida mainland. The hurricane, with 115-mile winds, posed a threat to the Dutch West Indies island of Aruba off the coast of oil-rich Venezuela.

Byrd Fires New Salvo In SRC Contract Row

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Democrat H. C. Byrd said today his charge of extravagance involving a State Roads Commission contract with David M. Nichols "is amply proved by the commission's admissions."

"The contract should be rescinded," he declared.

Byrd referred in a gubernatorial campaign statement to a contract signed by Nichols, former roads commissioner, "and others" and by the commission last June.

The contract calls for Nichols and other real estate interests to receive 7½ per cent of the amount the State pays for property rights needed in construction of a tunnel under Baltimore harbor.

Byrd had charged that this would mean "unnecessary and extravagant" payment of 1½ to 3 million dollars to the real estate dealers. He contended the commisssion already has a staff which is paid for acquiring property needed for its construction projects.

The commission said Byrd's figures were "far out of line with the facts," adding the fee would amount to about $732,900 because the estimated cost of property rights for the harbor tunnel project would be closer to 10-million dollars than the 20-to-40-million figure given by Byrd.

The commission also replied that its right-of-way staff was so busy with work on the State's 12-year road building program that it could not possibly handle a project as big as the tunnel project in addition.

2nd Army To Mark 36th Anniversary

FT. MEADE, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—The 2nd Army will mark its 36th anniversary Sunday.

Gen. John J. Pershing formed it as a combat outfit in France barely a month before the World War I armistice.

Now it is an administrative unit, controlling Army affairs in seven states — Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Second Army's main functions now are inducting recruits and training them for combat, supervising Army reserve programs in its seven states, directing the training of combat units and performing administrative and house keeping functions for them and the specialist centers such as Aberdeen Proving Ground and the Army Chemical Center in Maryland.

The election was held in connection with the 56th annual convention of the Institute of Park Executives.

Vast Influx Of New Voters Complicates N. M. Election

By JACK BELL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Oct. 7 (AP)—A mushroom population growth triggered by the atomic and hydrogen bombs has cast a cloud of uncertainty over vital Senate and House election contests in New Mexico.

This erstwhile sleepy "land of enchantment" is abustle with the tremendous job of developing, producing and transporting the hydrogen weapon and its satellite guided missiles. It has not escaped a uranium fever akin to that of gold rush days.

From New England have come engineers; from California, scientists and technicians; from the Deep South, researchers; and from practically every state, staff members and workers.

Los Alamos, once a bare spot on the desert, now houses 12,000 persons who—like employe of Sandia's Special Joint Weapons Operations Base and Kirtland's Air Force center—have brought along political ideas foreign to New Mexico's traditional Democratic convictions.

Because these new inhabitants have proved themselves unpredictable at the ballot boxes, Democratic Sen. Clinton P. Anderson finds himself in the midst of a vigorous fight with Gov. Ed Mechem, two - term Republican governor running for a seat which conceivably could tip the balance between Democratic and Republican control of the Senate.

Democratic Reps. John J. Dempsey and Antonio M. Fernandez apparently are less seriously challenged by two Republican nominees in a curious free-for-all contest where the two top vote getters of the four will be elected at large.

In the race to succeed Mechem as governor, John Simms Jr., Democrat, currently is being given the edge by most forecasters over Republican Alvin Stockton.

It has become fashionable in political circles here to say that as go the "Heights" in Albuquerque, where many of the unpredictables of the atomic developments live, so will go the state.

The five precincts which compose the "Heights" went heavily for President Eisenhower when he carried the state by 25,500 votes in 1952 in a record-breaking total of 237,800 ballots. The five precincts gave Eisenhower Bermalillo County, in which Albuquerque is located, and which cast roughly one fourth of the state's total vote.

Otherwise confident Democrats say frankly they can't assess the current Eisenhower popularity in relation to this year's Senate and House races. Republicans reported privately they felt certain any loss would be measured at a maximum of 10 per cent, but were uncertain how far the total vote would fall below 1952's record.

Poet Joins Russian Anti-Drink Campaign

MOSCOW, Oct. 7 (AP) — A satirical poet, Sergei Vassiliev, has joined in the Soviet Union's campaign against excessive drinking.

Pravda, usually the height of Communist dignity, has published a 72-line slangy verse from his pen excoriating a worker, Fedot, who went to pot from "drinking, drinking, drinking—morning, noon and night."

Vassiliev's advice was: "His friends must not drink with him; they must not give him money for drink; in general, he should have no companions."

"Enchanted Rock" between Fredericksburg and Llamo, Tex., is a piece of granite some 500 feet high and covers about a square mile.

New Jet Bomber With Fighter's Agility Tested

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—A new twin-jet bomber with the agility of a fighter plane and the ability to attack enemy targets at low level in darkness performed publicly for the first time yesterday.

It is the B57B, latest model of the Martin Canberra.

The Air Force said the first unit to receive the new plane, "within the next few months," will be the 345th Tactical Bomb Group of the 405th Fighter Bomber Wing here.

The long, low-slung, sleek black craft took off within an amazingly short distance, climbed, dived and maneuvered like a fighter half its size. It raced past observers at this headquarters of the Tactical Air Command at low level at better than 500 miles an hour.

Actual performance figures are classified. However, George Cooke, sales officer for the Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore, told reporters the new model was "considerably faster" than its parent aircraft, the British-built English Electric Canberra, which itself has set records for jet-plane speed.

Cooke added that the two-engine B57B is in a speed class with the six-jet Boeing B47 medium bomber. The Air Force rates the B47 as being in the 600-miles-an-hour category.

Like many smaller, lighter fighter craft, the B57B presumably has the ability to carry atomic bombs.

Cooke said four napalm tanks may be carried under the wings in addition to eight 5-inch high velocity aircraft rockets, four on each side. The plane mounts eight 50-caliber machine guns, firing out of the forward edges of the wings.

The B57B has a wing span of 64 feet, a length of 65½ feet and a height of 16 feet.

Quake Rocks E. Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Anatolian News Agency reported a violent five-second earthquake at Palu in eastern Turkey late tonight. There were no casualties.

Palu is 65 miles southeast of Erzincan where 30,000 people died in the great quake of 1938.

Vast Influx Of New Voters Complicates N. M. Election

By JACK BELL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Oct. 7 (AP)—A mushroom population growth triggered by the atomic and hydrogen bombs has cast a cloud of uncertainty over vital Senate and House election contests in New Mexico.

This erstwhile sleepy "land of enchantment" is abustle with the tremendous job of developing, producing and transporting the hydrogen weapon and its satellite guided missiles. It has not escaped a uranium fever akin to that of gold rush days.

From New England have come engineers; from California, scientists and technicians; from the Deep South, researchers; and from practically every state, staff members and workers.

Los Alamos, once a bare spot on the desert, now houses 12,000 persons who—like employe of Sandia's Special Joint Weapons Operations Base and Kirtland's Air Force center—have brought along political ideas foreign to New Mexico's traditional Democratic convictions.

Because these new inhabitants have proved themselves unpredictable at the ballot boxes, Democratic Sen. Clinton P. Anderson finds himself in the midst of a vigorous fight with Gov. Ed Mechem, two-term Republican governor running for a seat which conceivably could tip the balance between Democratic and Republican control of the Senate.

Democratic Reps. John J. Dempsey and Antonio M. Fernandez apparently are less seriously challenged by two Republican nominees in a curious free-for-all contest where the two top vote getters of the four will be elected at large.

In the race to succeed Mechem as governor, John Simms Jr., Democrat, currently is being given the edge by most forecasters over Republican Alvin Stockton.

It has become fashionable in political circles here to say that as go the "Heights" in Albuquerque, where many of the unpredictables of the atomic developments live, so will go the state.

The five precincts which compose the "Heights" went heavily for President Eisenhower when he carried the state by 25,500 votes in 1952 in a record-breaking total of 237,800 ballots. The five precincts gave Eisenhower Bermalillo County, in which Albuquerque is located, and which cast roughly one fourth of the state's total vote.

Otherwise confident Democrats say frankly they can't assess the current Eisenhower popularity in relation to this year's Senate and House races. Republicans reported privately they felt certain any loss would be measured at a maximum of 10 per cent, but were uncertain how far the total vote would fall below 1952's record.

Poet Joins Russian Anti-Drink Campaign

MOSCOW, Oct. 7 (AP) — A satirical poet, Sergei Vassiliev, has joined in the Soviet Union's campaign against excessive drinking.

Pravda, usually the height of Communist dignity, has published a 72-line slangy verse from his pen excoriating a worker, Fedot, who went to pot from "drinking, drinking, drinking—morning, noon and night."

Vassiliev's advice was: "His friends must not drink with him; they must not give him money for drink; in general, he should have no companions."

New Jet Bomber With Fighter's Agility Tested

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—A new twin-jet bomber with the agility of a fighter plane and the ability to attack enemy targets at low level in darkness performed publicly for the first time yesterday.

It is the B57B, latest model of the Martin Canberra.

The Air Force said the first unit to receive the new plane, "within the next few months," will be the 345th Tactical Bomb Group of the 405th Fighter Bomber Wing here.

The long, low-slung, sleek black craft took off within an amazingly short distance, climbed, dived and maneuvered like a fighter half its size. It raced past observers at this headquarters of the Tactical Air Command at low level at better than 500 miles an hour.

Actual performance figures are classified. However, George Cooke, sales officer for the Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore, told reporters the new model was "considerably faster" than its parent aircraft, the British-built English Electric Canberra, which itself has set records for jet-plane speed.

Cooke added that the two-engine B57B is in a speed class with the six-jet Boeing B47 medium bomber. The Air Force rates the B47 as being in the 600-miles-an-hour category.

Like many smaller, lighter fighter craft, the B57B presumably has the ability to carry atomic bombs.

Cooke said four napalm tanks may be carried under the wings in addition to eight 5-inch high velocity aircraft rockets, four on each side. The plane mounts eight 50-caliber machine guns, firing out of the forward edges of the wings.

The B57B has a wing span of 64 feet, a length of 65½ feet and a height of 16 feet.

Quake Rocks E. Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Anatolian News Agency reported a violent five-second earthquake at Palu in eastern Turkey late tonight. There were no casualties.

Palu is 65 miles southeast of Erzincan where 30,000 people died in the great quake of 1938.

Going, Going, Almost Gone Is Little Red Schoolhouse

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The little red schoolhouse is on the way out, and regardless of what songwriters may think, educators are glad of it.

The National Conference on Rural Education was held here this week, and this statistic was happily tossed about:

In 1948 there were 75,000 one-room schools in this country. Now there are only 48,000.

Going, going, gone, in the yellow bus to the big, new consolidated schoolhouse.

"For the first time in the history of our country," Willard E. Goslin of George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., told a reporter, "we have said the farm boy has as much right to go to school as the city boy has.

"Oh, we've always said that, in theory. The kid who lives 20 miles out was free to attend school—if he could find a way to get there."

Goslin says this country has passed through three stages in its attitude toward education.

At first, any talk of education meant rural education since that's about all there was. Then the cities grew and education went urban and the ideal school was the big city or suburban school.

"Only recently have we understood that a good school is one that serves its community best," Goslin said. "It would be silly, don't you see, for a school in the cotton delta country to be doing exactly the same thing as a city school."

Taking them all into consideration, Goslin says he doesn't think country schools have caught up with city schools completely.

"Too many teachers with only a couple of years of college, and too many tiny high schools with 100 pupils or less, where students don't have much of a choice in what they can take.

"But you can say this," Goslin said. "Some rural schools are every bit as good as city schools and I see no reason why a potential young scientist can't come from a country school as well as from a city system."

A rural school, by the way, is defined as one which is in farm territory or in a town of 2,500 or less. They teach 13,500,000 of the nation's 30,700,000 school age youngsters.

Although Goslin has spent most of his life in cities (as superintendent in suburban St.Louis, in Minneapolis and in Pasada, Calif.), he still believes the country boys and girls offer a good bet on this nation's future.

"There's something about living in the country that gives you an earthy understanding, a better preparation for the business of living. You can tell the city boy about the birds and the bees, don't you see, and it still remains a theory. To the country boy, it's a reality."

Here, though, Goslin may be prejudiced. He came from a farm near Harrisburg, Mo. (pop. 150).

"I was in the first high school class we ever had there," said the man who now deplores tiny high schools. "Our total enrollment was six."

Foster Mother Of 10 Gambles Life, Wins

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A red-haired Canadian farm wife's heart had room enough for almost any child who came her way. But the heart wasn't big enough for her.

So the woman, Mrs. Ivey Bailey, 42, of Sutton, Ont., gambled her life in a delicate heart-enlarging operation against the future of her 10 foster children.

Today her battle was won.

"I'm getting along just wonderfully," she declared. "After I pick up my strength, I'll be better than ever."

Mrs. Bailey started raising a second family nearly 10 years ago after her own four sons were well on the way to manhood. It started when she adopted a little girl, Heather.

Shortly afterwards, the Children's Aid Society in Sutton asked her to make a foster home for a 2-year-old boy for as long as he needed it. The lad's still with her—and so are eight more children urged on her by the society.

In addition, she made a home for 14 other youngsters who later were able to return to their own parents.

REALLY DRIVEN TO DRINK!

REFUSED another drink in a cafe in Apollo, Pa., John Baustert, 28, left, remarking to the bartender, "I'll be seeing you." He meant it. A few minutes later he drove his truck through the cafe's front window, shoving seven wooden booths into the kitchen and bringing the vehicle to a halt alongside the bar. "Now can I have a drink?" he inquired. He couldn't. Police Chief George Brubaker arrested him for drunken driving instead. (International Soundphoto)

"Sound Effects" Didn't Faze Her

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP) — It was her first day on the job in Washington, but Mrs. Yolanda Juan measured up. Just like the boy on the burning deck.

Mrs. Juan is a Chinese announcer for the Voice of America and she was reading news and commentary in Mandarin dialect in a broadcast to China this week, when the studio fire alarm sprang into action.

The gong was banging away and the red lights flashing, but she just kept reading. Such things as President Eisenhower's comment on the independence of Cambodia... Secretary Dulles' pleased views on unity in Europe ... The Thai ambassador's report on Communist actitivy in Thailand ...

The U.S. Information Agency explained today:

"The disturbance was caused by a trial run of a fire-warning system being installed on the second floor of the building where the new Washington studios of the Voice of America are quartered.

"The test was made at 7:23 a.m. during the Voice's regular morning broadcast to China from 7 to 7:30 a.m., so Chinese listeners heard the fire gongs about 8:23 p.m., Chinese time."

Asked whether Mrs. Juan offered her listeners any explanation for the sound effects, a Voice spokesman said:

"No. She thought it was a bona fide fire alarm."

by Bob Considine

(Editor's note: Following is the fourth of a series of five special articles by Bob Considine telling the story of America's free press in commemoration of National Newspaper Week.)

NEW YORK (INS)—"The United States has, in truth, printer's ink in its very veins," the Times of London said in a recent and somewhat startled look at U. S. newspapers and their influence. "Newspapers are a part of national legend, and journalists right from the earliest days move across the pages of American history as regularly—and in many cases as glamorously—as do in English history the great names of the ancient noble families.

"The editor in any given community is a leading figure and enjoys a prestige and an income far higher than the doctor, civil servant, or lawyer. (The American, incidentally, often writes to his editor with his problems before approaching a lawyer.)

"In Washington the reporter patronizes the official—even the President himself — whereas in Whitehall the reverse tends to be the case. All too often the British reporter approaches the civil servant from a position of educational and social inferiority. Quite the opposite is true in America, where the reporter is usually the equal, if not the superior, in education and polish of the man whose brains he is supposedly trying to pick."

An overestimate, perhaps, but a statement indicative of the giant stride the American newspaper industry has made through generations. Enroute, probably in the earliest round of its battle for a free hand in the shaping of its destiny, it left behind it the source whence it sprang—British journalism. Now, as the Times of London puts it, it is closer to the "first estate" than the "fourth." Its responsibilities keep pace.

The road of the American newspaper to its present place was a thorny one. Never in history have forces stopped trying to deprive the press of its duty to lay the truth before the people. America became the first country of a truly free press just as it became the first free country. But ancient prejudices against the distribution of printed truth dogged progress here.

The battle continues. One of the more recent efforts to clamp the cold hand of government censorship on the world's last free press was made in the report of the so-called Commission on the Freedom of the Press, sponsored by Henry Luce of Time, Inc., and Dr. Robert Hutchins. Had its finding become law, your newspaper today would be an American version of "Pravda," wholly beholden to Washington for guidance.

In colonial times an editor spent almost as much time in jail as in his printshop.

The first newspaper ever printed in America, Public Occurrences, issued in Boston in 1690, was suppressed by royal authority the day it appeared. Seems it contained "reflections of a very high nature." The country's fourth paper, the New England Courant, appeared in 1721 in Boston under the editorial direction of James Franklin. So outspoken was it against British rule that James Franklin was forced out as editor. He placed his young brother Benjamin in the job. Benjamin Franklin later moved on to found one of the most influential voices for liberty, the Pennsylvania Gazette.

Turning point of freedom of the press came with the acquittal of John P. Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekly Journal. His trial in 1734-35 decided the right of colonial newspapers to record and discuss the activities of the government, and the right of juries to judge the intent of publication rather than merely the fact. It marked the cutting of the noose from which all hopes of a free press, dangled, "the greater the truth the greater the libel."

The founding fathers included publishers who made it clear from the Declaration of Independence till their deaths that the press must not be the tool of groups seeking to prolong an evil stay in power.

Thomas Jefferson said:

"Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter." And James Madison write, "To the press alone, checkered as it is with abuses, the world is indebted for all the triumphs which have been gained by reason and humanity over error and oppression."

Eleven of the 14 states ratified between 1789 and 1791 the first of the initial ten amendments to the Constitution, with its famed words, "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

But there was not always smooth sailing after that. Not until 1896 did a court declare it illegal to jail a reporter for refusing to reveal the source of a story. And not until New Jersey acted in 1934 was it against the law to assault a reporter or cameraman at work on a story.

Sunday newspapers are today as much a part of the Sabbath as religious services and rest. But once they were bitterly fought. The first to appear was "L'Independant," New Orleans French tri-weekly, which broke the ice in 1835. The lead was timidly followed and under attack for many years. In 1857 the New York Sabbath Committee called for an end to the "Sunday news crying nuisance, the most obtrusive and least defensible violation of the Sabbath."

Newspaper Week, 1954, finds the free press better prepared to defend itself. It has only to look at the pathetic parroting Iron Curtain press to know that vigilance must be maintained.

ANDRE BARANES, French Communist newspaperman, leaves the Military Tribunal in Paris where he was a key witness in the sensational spy scandal. He testified that he had handed defense secrets to Red leader Jacques Duclos but was told the Communists had the same information from other sources. The secrets Baranes said he passed on involved proceedings of the National Defense Committee, top military planning body, during the siege of Dienbienphu.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (INS) — Right at this moment, June Allyson is talking to Harry Cohn and Jerry Wald about making a musical version of "It Happened One Night."

This is momentous casting, since it's a remake of a picture that won both Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert Academy Awards, and marks June's return to musicals. June has been so busy playing wives—happy, and recently unhappy in "The Shrike" — that she hasn't made a musical in a long, long time.

And let me tell you something very important: it looks as if Dick Powell, June's ever lovin' husband, may direct her. Jerry Wald is talking to Dick about it. In fact, I saw them deep in conversation together a few nights ago.

The shock of Leonard Goldstein's untimely death so stunned young Robert Jacks and Leonard's twin brother, Robert, that it is only this week that they've felt able to carry on the plans of Panoramic Pictures, the firm which Leonard launched. And I think it is very fitting that they should now be going into the type of production that a practical showman such as Leonard would have loved doing.

The first on the agenda for Panoramic Pictures is a Zane Gray story, "Robber's Roost," which will star George Montgomery.

The only man I know in the whole world who works around the clock is Larry Finley. What do you think is going to happen now? He'll be at the Mocambo as the guest of honor for a week starting October 19. Oh, yes, he'll do his stuff assisted by Bill Jordan. This is because October 19 is Larry's third year as a disc jockey, and it's the first anniversary of putting on his radio show from Larry Finley's place.

In addition to that, he does TV now and a few dozen other things. If you think you're busy—and I think I am—just talk to pretty Mrs. Larry Finley, who also is a very good announcer herself.

I've been wondering what had become of Angela Lansbury, whom I haven't seen on screen for a couple of years. Well, Angela has been having babies and making TV appearances but now she's coming back to pictures, and high time, too.

Angela will be in Universal-International's "The Purple Mask" with Tony Curtis and Coleen Miller (Ted Briskin's fiancee). Nature never designed any girl more suited to period costumes than the luscious Lansbury.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bob Hope wants to know what all the shooting's about? He says he has one more picture to make at Paramount and has no plans to leave the studio.

The first date Corinne Calvet made when she returned from Europe was with her ex, John Bromfield. They were at the Luau, as lovey-dovey as they were in the early days of their courtship.

Another once-married pair who are seeing each other more and more is Marj and Al Hall. And I wish to goodness they'd kiss and make-up!

Gloria Stokowski is going to do TV after all. She'll be on Ginger Rogers' first TV appearance in "Shadow Play," starting October 18 in New York with Otto Preminger directing.

Helen Hayes' husband of many years, Charles MacArthur, one of the best reporters in the world, is writing a new play, which, of course, will star Helen.

Janet Leigh is a happy girl. She and Tony Curtis have moved into their first home at last. And, by the way, they still haven't denied that they're expecting baby.

Sitting in a corner at Sportsman's Lodge was Susan Hayward and Dick Egan. So good to see a smile on Susan's face once again.

Joan Crawford found a diamond bracelet in the gutter at "A Star Is Born" premiere and promptly returned it to its owner, Mrs. Harry M. Warner.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Exercise can be a waste of time unless it is done with a purpose. What portion of your figure needs smoothing, firming, or curbing? That's where you should concentrate exercise—on the spot!

This is good practice for firming the bosom: Pressing palms together, lift your arms high overhead. Turn palms outward and drop your arms to the sides, at shoulder level. Bend elbows and touch palms again. Now start them upward a second time. Do this quickly, with plenty of push, 12 times.

For smoothing waist and hips, try this: Sit on the floor, back straight, using your hands as props behind your body. Bring knees up to chest, letting your body rock slightly back; keep the weight on your hands. Raise legs straight and high, heels out. Lower legs slowly to floor, and let the torso follow, swinging arms forward to touch your toes. Twenty times for this one.

No Spare Tire!

A "spare tire" is of no value to any woman's appearance. Discard it with exercises like this one: Lie flat on your back, arms at your sides, knees bent so the soles of your feet are flat on the floor. Slowly raise your head and trunk up to a half sitting position (without using arms or hands as levers). Hold for a count of five, then lower yourself slowly to the floor. This exercise creates a terrific pull on your abdominal muscles, so start with just five times a day and work up to 20.

For Thighs

Inner thighs flabby? This is firming: Stand with feet parallel, abdomen pulled in. Raise the right heel, bringing up the right hipbone; keep your spine straight. Bring up the right toe and move foot sideways, s-l-o-w-l-y. You'll feel a pull in the inner thigh as you force the foot higher. Hold for a count of five, tightening inner thigh muscles all the time, before you touch foot to floor again. Repeat with left foot. Five lifts on each side.

Time to treat a figure problem is when your mirror tells you it's about to become a problem. Don't wait until you have to work and work to regain lost contours! If you've already waited too long, don't despair . . . give the problem your best effort, and the solution will come.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (INS) — Right at this moment, June Allyson is talking to Harry Cohn and Jerry Wald about making a musical version of "It Happened One Night."

This is momentous casting, since it's a remake of a picture that won both Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert Academy Awards, and marks June's return to musicals. June has been so busy playing wives—happy, and recently unhappy in "The Shrike" — that she hasn't made a musical in a long, long time.

And let me tell you something very important: it looks as if Dick Powell, June's ever lovin' husband, may direct her. Jerry Wald is talking to Dick about it. In fact, I saw them deep in conversation together a few nights ago.

The shock of Leonard Goldstein's untimely death so stunned young Robert Jacks and Leonard's twin brother, Robert, that it is only this week that they've felt able to carry on the plans of Panoramic Pictures, the firm which Leonard launched. And I think it is very fitting that they should now be going into the type of production that a practical showman such as Leonard would have loved doing.

The first on the agenda for Panoramic Pictures is a Zane Gray story, "Robber's Roost," which will star George Montgomery.

The only man I know in the whole world who works around the clock is Larry Finley. What do you think is going to happen now? He'll be at the Mocambo as the guest of honor for a week starting October 19. Oh, yes, he'll do his stuff assisted by Bill Jordan. This is because October 19 is Larry's third year as a disc jockey, and it's the first anniversary of putting on his radio show from Larry Finley's place.

In addition to that, he does TV now and a few dozen other things. If you think you're busy—and I think I am—just talk to pretty Mrs. Larry Finley, who also is a very good announcer herself.

I've been wondering what had become of Angela Lansbury, whom I haven't seen on screen for a couple of years. Well, Angela has been having babies and making TV appearances but now she's coming back to pictures, and high time, too.

Angela will be in Universal-International's "The Purple Mask" with Tony Curtis and Coleen Miller (Ted Briskin's fiancee). Nature never designed any girl more suited to period costumes than the luscious Lansbury.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bob Hope wants to know what all the shooting's about? He says he has one more picture to make at Paramount and has no plans to leave the studio.

The first date Corinne Calvet made when she returned from Europe was with her ex, John Bromfield. They were at the Luau, as lovey-dovey as they were in the early days of their courtship.

Another once-married pair who are seeing each other more and more is Marj and Al Hall. And I wish to goodness they'd kiss and make-up!

Gloria Stokowski is going to do TV after all. She'll be on Ginger Rogers' first TV appearance in "Shadow Play," starting October 18 in New York with Otto Preminger directing.

Just heard from Rome that Ricardo Montalban was hurt when he was thrown from a chariot during a racing scene in "Courtesan of Babylon," in which he is appearing with Rhonda Fleming.

Helen Hayes' husband of many years, Charles MacArthur, one of the best reporters in the world, is writing a new play, which, of course, will star Helen.

Janet Leigh is a happy girl. She and Tony Curtis have moved into their first home at last. And, by the way, they still haven't denied that they're expecting baby.

Sitting in a corner at Sportsman's Lodge was Susan Hayward and Dick Egan. So good to see a smile on Susan's face once again.

Joan Crawford found a diamond bracelet in the gutter at "A Star Is Born" premiere and promptly returned it to its owner, Mrs. Harry M. Warner.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Exercise can be a waste of time unless it is done with a purpose. What portion of your figure needs smoothing, firming, or curbing? That's where you should concentrate exercise—on the spot!

This is good practice for firming the bosom: Pressing palms together, lift your arms high overhead. Turn palms outward and drop your arms to the sides, at shoulder level. Bend elbows and touch palms again. Now start them upward a second time. Do this quickly, with plenty of push, 12 times.

For smoothing waist and hips, try this: Sit on the floor, back straight, using your hands as props behind your body. Bring knees up to chest, letting your body rock slightly back; keep the weight on your hands. Raise legs straight and high, heels out. Lower legs slowly to floor, and let the torso follow, swinging arms forward to touch your toes. Twenty times for this one.

No Spare Tire!

A "spare tire" is of no value to any woman's appearance. Discard it with exercises like this one: Lie flat on your back, arms at your sides, knees bent so the soles of your feet are flat on the floor. Slowly raise your head and trunk up to a half sitting position (without using arms or hands as levers). Hold for a count of five, then lower yourself slowly to the floor. This exercise creates a terrific pull on your abdominal muscles, so start with just five times a day and work up to 20.

For Thighs

Inner thighs flabby? This is firming: Stand with feet parallel, abdomen pulled in. Raise the right heel, bringing up the right hipbone; keep your spine straight. Bring up the right toe and move foot sideways, s-l-o-w-l-y. You'll feel a pull in the inner thigh as you force the foot higher. Hold for a count of five, tightening inner thigh muscles all the time, before you touch foot to floor again. Repeat with left foot. Five lifts on each side.

Time to treat a figure problem is when your mirror tells you it's about to become a problem. Don't wait until you have to work and work to regain lost contours! If you've already waited too long, don't despair . . . give the problem your best effort, and the solution will come.

Frostburg Man Is Named Farm Census Crew Head

Walter Patterson, of Frostburg, has been named a crew leader in Allegany County for the 1954 farm census which begins November 8.

His appointment was announced yesterday by R. L. Snowgrass, field supervisor of the Bureau of Census in Baltimore.

Patterson, who will direct a force of 12 enumerators slated to canvass all county farms, reports Monday to the census agriculture field office in Baltimore for a week of training.

According to Snodgrass, the crew leader is one of the key people in the field of the Census of Agriculture. It is his responsibility to train the enumerators and supervise their work; plan and allocate work assignments; review the work of the enumerators and take remedial action where necessary, and to conduct difficult enumerations.

Patterson, after attending the training conference, will return to his district to spend three weeks recruiting enumerators, checking enumeration district boundaries, and training enumerators in preparation for the start of the census.

An agricultural census is taken every five years. After farmers receive questionnaires, they will be visited by the enumerators if assistance is needed to complete the forms.

The names of 25 county residents were submitted to the Bureau through James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

Hunting Mishap Reported

A young West Virginia hunter was shot Wednesday on Creek Ridge, near Pattersons Creek, when another nimrod mistook him for legalized game. The accident was the first reported in this district since the West Virginia hunting season opened last week.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital here with some 60 shotgun pellet wounds was Donald Ash Welker, 20, of Pattersons Creek. Attaches said his condition was "not serious," adding that the wounds covered his entire right side from the head to the knees.

Cpl. W. F. Tribett of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Keyser, who is investigating, said Welker apparently had fallen in a brushy spot while hunting on Creek Ridge.

The young man, Cpl. Tribett said, was shot by Thomas Pyles, 67-year-old hunter from Fort Ashby, as he was arising from the ground. Pyles, Cpl. Tribett stated, explained that he thought he was shooting at game. The accident took place just before noon Wednesday.

Held in connection with the stabbing of another man, Joseph Washington of 1018 Gay Street was charged with assault yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Taken into custody with Washington Tuesday night was Charles H. Williams, 1012 Gay Street, who received treatment at Memorial Hospital for a small puncture wound of the abdomen. Police reported the stabbing occurred at the Washington home.

According to Dick, the defendant used a pair of scissors on Williams when the latter attempted to "break up" an argument between Washington and his wife.

PSC Gets New Schedule Of Gas Firm

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has filed a new rate schedule with the Public Service Commission as a result of the recent PSC ruling authorizing an adjustment in Maryland charges.

The schedule is designed to produce $366,000 yearly in additional revenue from its 20,000 state customers.

The company had requested a $418,000 increase. The PSC in a two to one decision, reduced the request and directed the company to draw up rates that would produce the lesser amount.

Up 14 Per Cent

District Manager C. C. Robbins said the new rates will raise C&A's annual revenues about 14 per cent. The percentage effect on individual bills will depend on gas usage.

Bills for three out of every five residential customers will go up about 57 cents a month, Robbins said. That is the actual increase on 5,000 cubic feet — the average volume used for cooking, water heating and clothes-drying or refrigeration.

Total increase for a house-heating customer who also uses gas for other household purposes mentioned will be about $30 a year or, Robbins pointed out, around $3 a month under the company's new 10-month budget plan.

Effective October 15

The new rates will become effective with meter readings made on and after October 15.

Monthly payments for heating customers who have asked to be billed in the budget plan will not be changed at the present, Robbins said. If their heating cost turns out to be greater than the present budget payments, the difference will be paid in July or August when gas usage is the lowest, he added.

The schedule of new monthly rates for all customers—residential, commercial and industrial—runs as follows:

First 1,000 cubic feet or less $1050.

Next 298,000 cubic feet .77 per 1,000.

Next 70,000 cubic feet, .53 per 1,000.

Next 9,000,000 cubic feet, .46 per 1,000.

Next 10,000,000 cubic feet .42 per 1,000.

Conference Is Held On New Water Line

Officials of the City of Cumberland and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company conferred yesterday on plans for a water supply for the company's new plant at North Branch.

Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum held the conference with Ralph D. Bole, chief engineer for the company, at the site which is now being graded.

Mayor Eves said the discussion included the point at which the company will make its hookup for water lines on company property providing for sanitary and emergency fire fighting purposes.

He said Bole expressed satisfaction with the preliminary plans for the water line which is being engineered by the city.

Two Calls Checked By City Firemen

City firemen answered two early morning calls yesterday, one of them a false alarm.

Box 38 near Ort Brothers Bakery was pulled about 6:32 a. m., but when East Side firemen reported to the scene they learned it was a false alarm.

About 18 minutes later West Side firemen went to 672 Fayette Street where the motor in a hot air furnace apparently caught a filter afire. Smoke filled a couple of the upstairs rooms, firemen said, and the filter was scorched.

Germans Buy House On Camden Avenue

Robert W. Richardson, former vice president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and his wife, now residents of Cook County, Ill., have sold their former home at 837 Camden Avenue.

The property was purchased by Arthur W. German, new operator of radio station WTBO, and his wife, Clara Louise, according to a deed filed for record in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

How do you stop these home firebugs?

Chief Parker advises that "One of the best ways is to have your home inspected for fire hazards by experts — your firemen. Your fire department can help you spot and correct those unsafe conditions which could cause a fire in your home."

Magazine To Feature Story On Mooseheart

Paul W. Allen, governor of Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday reminded members of the lodge that the November issue of McCall's magazine will carry a full-length feature article entitled "Mooseheart, the City of Orphans."

The story of the unusual Moose Child City 40 miles west of Chicago has been written by James Poling, noted magazine writer, and illustrated with many candid photographs by Genevieve Naylor, news and fashion photographer.

Lighting Modernized

The report states that since April recommendations were made concerning the Union Street Building, the parking lot has been modernized, that lighting conditions have been modernized and that interior repairs to the plaster had been made. However, interior and exterior painting has not been done but the contract has been let. The basement room used by the County Board of Education was cited as a fire hazard and the Grand Jury recommended that immediate steps be taken to rectify this situation.

At Sylvan Retreat, the inspection committee found 84 inmates and 38 employes. The physical condition of the property was termed good. The interior paint in a few places was pealing and flaked due to a leaking roof, but the superintendent stated that the contract to repair the roof had been let. Raymond Messmer, superintendent, was commended for the good condition generally existing.

Thirty-nine residents and 16 employes were counted at the County Home. The building was found to be clean, neat, attractive and in good repair. Mrs. Earl D. Grim, the stewardess, was commended for the good conditions found there.

Fewer Employes

At the County Infirmary, the committee from the Grand Jury found 96 patients and 70 employes, four fewer than were employed in April. Concerning the previous Grand Jury's recommendation that the sun porch be closed or roofed, the committee suggested that it be so constructed that it could be used as additional bed space. All facilities and departments were found to be clean and orderly. Earl D. Grim, the superintendent, drew commendation for the conditions.

The final section of the report commended State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for his cooperation, Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis, who served throughout the deliberations, and County Investigator E. R. Lilya, who the jury said very efficiently prepared his information.

James L. Weber and Roy H. Knotts served as Grand Jury clerks.

Maryland Reduces Traffic Deaths

During September in Maryland, there were 35 traffic deaths, 33 of which were in the counties and two in Baltimore City.

These figures are compiled and released by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission. The report notes that this number represents a 24 per cent reduction from the same month last year, when 46 people lost their lives in highway collisions.

Economically, this reduction in loss of life is measured in dollar volume by the Commission's experts. They calculate that in addition to the saving of suffering and heartache, the reduction in traffic results means a saving to the State of Maryland of $1,100,000.

The interior paint in a few places was pealing and flaked due to a leaking roof, but the superintendent stated that the contract to repair the roof had been let. Raymond Messmer, superintendent, was commended for the good condition generally existing.

Thirty-nine residents and 16 employes were counted at the County Home. The building was found to be clean, neat, attractive and in good repair. Mrs. Earl D. Grim, the stewardess, was commended for the good conditions found there.

Fewer Employes

At the County Infirmary, the committee from the Grand Jury found 96 patients and 70 employes, four fewer than were employed in April. Concerning the previous Grand Jury's recommendation that the sun porch be closed or roofed, the committee suggested that it be so constructed that it could be used as additional bed space. All facilities and departments were found to be clean and orderly. Earl D. Grim, the superintendent, drew commendation for the conditions.

The final section of the report commended State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for his cooperation, Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis, who served throughout the deliberations, and County Investigator E. R. Lilya, who the jury said very efficiently prepared his information.

James L. Weber and Roy H. Knotts served as Grand Jury clerks.

Maryland Reduces Traffic Deaths

During September in Maryland, there were 35 traffic deaths, 33 of which were in the counties and two in Baltimore City.

These figures are compiled and released by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission. The report notes that this number represents a 24 per cent reduction from the same month last year, when 46 people lost their lives in highway collisions.

Economically, this reduction in loss of life is measured in dollar volume by the Commission's experts. They calculate that in addition to the saving of suffering and heartache, the reduction in traffic results means a saving to the State of Maryland of $1,100,000.

Flying Bedsteads And Magic Carpets

The thinkers who are designing aircraft other than the conventional type seem determined, in their nomenclature, to educate the public in terms of prosaic household furnishings. Within a few days British aircraft engineers have unveiled a "Flying Bedstead," while Americans have come through with a "Magic Carpet."

Both aircraft, still in the experimental stage, have significance far beyond the whimsical names and the outlandish appearance both present.

Both are attempts to break away from conventional means of landing and takeoff, and both use the jet thrust principle to help. The British "bedstead," which stands on four pipestem legs and looks for all the world like its namesake, uses jet thrust to heave itself into the air. Once airborne, the thrust is directed backwards to provide for forward flight.

Engineers of Bell Aircraft appear to have advanced somewhat farther than the British in applying jet thrust to their "Magic Carpet." They have contrived the jets to provide vertical push for what appears to be a conventional plane. The British prototype ship is, at present, only a frame and engine, with a place for a pilot.

Neither of the two ships sits on its tail in the manner of the propeller-driven fighter which has been flown for the Navy. The Navy's interest, of course, is in getting a plane which will take off from confined spaces, such as small platforms on shipboard.

Success in this experiment would convert any Navy combat craft, in effect, into an aircraft carrier, but without the disadvantages of tremendous size and vulnerability. The principal tactical disadvantage of the tail sitter is that it is vulnerable while gliding down backwards to make a landing.

The ultimate in design would be a plane which could take off from anyone's back yard and then zoom off to its mission. That is what aircraft engineers have in mind.

Leaks

In a colloquy between Senator Herman Welker and Senator Guy M. Gillette, the following came out:

"Mr. Welker. I believe the distinguished and able senator from Iowa, when he was chairman of the subcommittee, discovered one source of the 'leaks'. He heard someone approach the door. The senator from Iowa tiptoed up, jerked open the door, and then discovered, as I recall, someone who was at least more than casually interested in our executive hearings. Is that a correct statement?"

"Mr. Gillette. Mr. President, that is a correct statement."

It would seem that a government could so organize itself that neither in the executive nor the legislative branch would there be leaks. Apparently all governments are having the same troubles. The French are in the midst of a scandal arising from leaks to the Communists by officials on a high level. No matter how the MacLean-Burgess situation is covered up by the British, the fact stands that in spite of their long traditions and high quality civil service, leaks have occurred in the British Foreign Office and it was a British subject, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who leaked the atom bomb to the Rosenberg spy ring. Dr. Otto John who, as early as June 1952, was known to be a Soviet secret agent and also a correspondent of British Socialists, was in a central position to leak to Russia out of Bonn. Jules Moch, the French Socialist, was reported as long as three years ago to be opposed to the American concept of the European community, to favor neutralism; yet he has been in a position to be familiar with the details of Allied operations.

Every newspaperman, who deals with such matters, does have the experience that much of his stock-in-trade is his ability to get confidential information from government officials. It used to be an unbreakable rule that what was given in confidence was kept in confidence and was only used as background but was not published. These days such information is leaked with the object of hurting an opponent. Sometimes this goes too far into the realm of what should not be told and sometimes includes documentation that should be withheld. What does one do when into his possession, from an authoritative person, comes a document which is of public significance but is rubber-stamped "confidential" or some such thing?

Complaints are made about Senator McCarthy that he, chairman of a permanent committee of the Senate, appointed to investigate the executive branch of the government, appealed to government employes for information. What about those senators and representatives who leak the proceedings of executive sessions of congressional committees? What about public officials who leak the most confidential data in their offices to favored newspapermen in a barter for preferred treatment?

Senator Gillette caught someone listening at a closed door, something which is not justified by any moral code. In the colloquy which I have quoted, neither Senator Gillette nor Senator Welker named the eavesdropper, which they might have done to advantage, but such a miserable person is not as guilty as the senator who makes a deal to tell what goes on at such meetings. He is guilty of gross impropriety.

One wonders about many things like that. What is the difference between a monitored telephone call and a wiretap? From a moral standpoint, there can be none unless both parties are aware of the fact. The monitored telephone call may or may not be legal; it is definitely immoral. Senator Herman Welker believes that the monitored telephone call is a crime. Of it, he said:

"Yet we stand here in these great temples of marble, where people get the odor of marble and think they are great, and we see no resolution of censure introduced in regard to those who tap wires when the other person has not been notified."

He is so right about that, but nothing will be done because so many who could do something about it use wiretaps and monitor calls. The law requires a beep when the call is taken down by an instrument. What is the difference between taking it down mechanically or by a stenographer's hand? There are all sorts of devices on the market and they are so inexpensive that there must be quite a number of buyers of them.

Where Do You Think We Should Put This One?

Stay-At-Home Voters' Attitude Influences Elections

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The most important piece of political information today which can have a decided influence on the outcome of the congressional elections is related to the attitude of the stay-at-home voters.

This affects both parties. Hence the political organization which can get to the polls the larger number of stay-at-home voters with a predeliction toward that party can win the election.

Scientific surveys made in areas where voters were interviewed both before and after election substantiate the fact that stay-at-home voters often overbalance those who switch from one party to the other.

Thus, field representatives of the Bureau of Applied Research of Columbia University did a concentrated study on Erie County, Ohio, with particular reference to the hotly contested Willkie-Roosevelt election in 1940. The findings read in part as follows:

Serious Problem

"Non-voting is a serious problem in a democracy. It is therefore worthwhile to look at these non-voters somewhat more closely. The great majority of them were deliberate non-voters; in October during the last interview before election, 29 per cent intended to vote and knew for whom they would vote, seven per cent intended to vote but did not yet know for whom, and 64 per cent did not intend to vote. In other words, two out of three cases of non-voting were intentional and premeditated, according to the voters' own statements. But even in the other groups there were some non-voters who resembled the premeditated ones . . .

"As a net result, three-quarters of the non-voters stayed away from the polls deliberately because they were thoroughly unconcerned with the election. . . . Only a small number of people were kept from the polls by a last minute emergency."

The widespread fallacy that many people switch from one party to the other during a campaign is dealt with on the basis of research results by the Columbia survey as follows:

"The notion that the people who switch parties during the campaign are mainly the reasoned, thoughtful, conscientious people who were convinced by the issues of the election is just plain wrong. Actually, they were mainly the opposite. . . . Some people were converted by campaign propaganda but they were few indeed. . . .

"In summary, then, the people who did most of the reading and listening not only read and heard most of their own partisan propaganda but were the most resistant to conversion because of their strong predispositions. And the people who were most open to conversion — the ones the campaign managers most wanted to reach — read and listened least. Those inter-related facts represent the bottleneck of conversion."

Another scientific study made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan analyzed the 1948 and 1952 presidential elections, and found that in 1952, while party allegiance was a strong factor in the Democratic vote, it was less important in the Republican vote. Issues such as Korea and corruption were mentioned more frequently than the personality of the candidate. The survey says:

Percentages Tell Story

"The much lower reference to traditional party allegiance on the part of the Eisenhower supporters in 1952 no doubt derived in part from the fact that a large proportion of Eisenhower's support came from the people who had previously been Democratic supporters or non-voters."

What often confuses the picture is the conspicuous fact that Stevenson, though losing in 1952, actually polled more votes than had been received by either a Republican or Democratic candidate in any previous presidential election, with the exception of 1936. But Stevenson got only 44.3 per cent of the whole vote.

Thus, the total vote may remain the same or may even increase for each party but the percentages tell the story. Truman got 50.1 per cent of the vote in Ohio in 1948 and carried the state. Taft two years later got 57.5 per cent of the vote, yet the total vote was about the same as in 1948. It has been fantastically assumed that 200,000 Truman Democrats just switched to Taft, but the truth would seem to be that these Democrats who had voted for Truman stayed at home in 1950, while the Republicans got out 200,000 of their indifferent vote.

This is corroborated by the 1952 result when Mike Di Salle, the defeated candidate, polled 349,000 more votes than the Democratic nominee for the Senate in 1950 and about 111,000 more than Truman did in 1948.

Meanwhile, Senator Bricker in 1952 picked up 233,000 more votes than Taft got in 1950 and about 433,000 more votes than Dewey got in 1948.

Key To Campaign

Another way of stating it is that there were 582,000 more votes cast for senator in 1952 than in 1950 and the Democratic candidate got 349,000 of these while Bricker got 233,000.

Where did all those votes come from? New voters just coming of age wouldn't account for such a big percentage gain over 1948. The only conclusion which seems logical is that large proportions of the "stay-at-homes" in both parties who hadn't been voting were aroused sufficiently in later elections to go to the polls.

That's the key to the 1954 congressional campaign. For nearly all of the "switchers," based on scientific surveys, have already made up their minds and cannot be converted. It's those who haven't been interested at all who can, if persuaded to vote, influence the result depending on the work done by the party organization or its precinct workers.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Results in Maine make us wonder whether this is an administration or a sub-lease.

In another 30 days we will harvest the rest of the per capita opinion. Vermont is already in the bag with both ends sewed up.

Surprising to discover Democrats so far north in the moulting season, Is there no little Holland boy to hold his thumb in the Mason-Dixon dike?

Our local Democrats in New York and New Jersey are looking toward 1954 with compound optimism. Young Roosevelt and Averell Harriman do not see eye-to-eye nor who-to-who.

Like all the Roosevelts young Franklin brings his own bat and glove to the game. But he never wants to catch.

New Jersey was the first to give the Dior look a pressure of 60 pounds all around. Governor Meyner is as Democratic as an all-night lunch wagon.

Demmies figured the best defense is an attack provided it's not hay fever. But it took plenty of moxie for Adali to blame the Republicans for everything that happened in Truman's administration.

Mentally Retarded Youngsters Require Special Care

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

One per cent of the general population in the United States is said to be mentally retarded. Only one-tenth of this group requires institutional care; the remainder must have close supervision and many can be taught to care for themselves.

At the turn of the century, heredity was thought to play a major role because the histories of several mentally retarded families had been widely publicized. We now know that in most instances the brain is damaged prior to birth through no fault of the father or mother. Furthermore, the extent of the damage varies. It may be so serious the youngster cannot survive or so borderline as to be little more than "dull normal."

There are several types of mental retardation. The Mongoloid, cretin, hydrocephalic, and microcephalic can be recognized at birth by their characteristic appearance. The cause of Mongolism is not known although many theories have been proposed.

Cretinism is traceable to a deficiency of the thyroid gland and much can be done with early treatment. The microcephalic comes into the world with an abnormally small skull whereas in hydrocephaly there is an excess of fluid surrounding the brain or within its folds.

Mental retardation occurs in a variety of other conditions. Children with cerebral palsy may be affected along this line when damage to the brain tissue involves areas of intellectual functioning. Damage also follows an attack of encephalitis, meningitis, syphilis, or injury during delivery. The Rh factor of German measles during the early months of pregnancy also will affect the brain.

When retardation is not evident at birth, several months or years may elapse before it is discovered. The condition of youngsters who are overly fretful, placid to the point of showing no interest in their environment, and those who make no attempt to sit up or grasp an object is detected as a rule in the first six months of life.

At the other end of the line the "dull normals" go through kindergarten or first grade before suspicions are aroused when they are not promoted or are unable to keep up with other pupils.

Most of these youngsters are affectionate and have no worries. They need special care and education, which may be difficult to obtain except in larger centers. According to Dr. Walter Jacob of the Training School at Vineland, N. J., "Jobs containing several steps seem to look like several jobs to them." As a result, "each must be taught separately."

RECURRING INFECTION

Mrs. Y. writes: My husband has a pilonidal cyst that fills up every eight or nine months. He does not want to be operated on but I'm worried that it will get worse and cause real trouble. What do you advise?

REPLY

If you can't convince your husband that the cyst should be removed, who can? This condition is more annoying than serious. Infection tends to come and go and the only cure is surgery.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Vince Flaherty recalls the day a rookie photographer caused one of baseball's wierdest plays at Griffith Stadium in Washington. A runner was poised on third base, ready to score the winning tally and, when the batter lofted a towering drive to right center, it looked like it was time to rake in the marbles. Catcher Rick Ferrell braced himself for the throw from the outfield, and the rookie photographer, focusing his camera, crept closer and closer behind him to catch the action at home plate.

The ball and the runner arrived simultaneously. Ferrell made a wild jab and slapped the ball on the photographer's nose just as the runner's slide sent the camera flying ten feet into the air.

U. N. Given Credit For Helping Andean Indians Resettle On Lake Titicaca

Drew Pearson

EN ROUTE THROUGH SOUTH AMERICA — Jottings from a South American Notebook — In Washington you don't hear much about the United Nations except the rantings of Vishinsky or debates over Red China. But down here the U.N. is doing a great job for the Andean Indians of Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia. . . . Enrique de Lozada, a long time in the U.S.A. with the U.N. and the Nelson Rockefeller Committee, is working with Bill Dillingham of Philadelphia and Swarthmore, Pa., to resettle several thousand Indians. Up on Lake Titicaca, highest lake in the world, they have established an Indian farm co-op. Since the U.N. didn't want to work on land expropriated by the government which might later be litigated under the new land reform, Lozada persuaded his friend, J. Sanfines, to give the Indians 1,000,000 acres of land. The Indians then got acquisitive, also took 400 head of Holsteins and 1,500 head of Herefords. They had been caring for them for years, they said, so the cattle should go with the land. . . . But Dillingham finally persuaded the Indians to pay for the cattle on the installment plan and, believe it or not, they are now ahead with their payments. . . . Captain Sanfines, the man who donated the million acres, is a former student of Iowa State university and West Point who later put the Bolivian army to work at irrigation, welldrilling and health projects instead of politics. However, he rowed with the new "national revolutionary movement" and is now in exile. . . . What President Paz needs most is to get some of this energetic young blood back.

Diving in Titicaca — The man who knows most about Lake Titicaca is Victor Andrade, now Bolivian ambassador to Washington. He was exiled to an island by the previous conservative regime, found the water terribly cold but the only way to get a bath. . . . Braving the cold of Lake Titicaca shortly will be William Mardorf, U. S. frogman who has signed a contract with the Bolivian government to dive for Inca gold thrown into the lake several hundred years ago. Mardori has spotted one area where the Incas worshipped the sun gods by throwing gold in the water, and if the shores of the lake are not too steep he may recover a fortune. Most of the lake is extremely deep, however, and the gold may have slid down beyond recovery . . . Mardorf will not use a conventional diving suit. Oxygen can't be pumped down to him at such high altitudes. He will wear a navy frog suit with three oxygen tanks strapped to his back. Under the suit he will wear plenty of heavy underwear, for his chief problem is icy water. He hopes to stay under two hours on each dive. . . . Previous Bolivian governments would sign no contracts for the recovery of INCA gold for fear of Indian uprisings. The Paz government is so popular with the Indians it fears no revolts.

Ike Would Love This — Biggest trout in the world are in Lake Titicaca — 30 to 40 pounds. They came originally from the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries in Washington. . . . The Peruvian and Bolivian governments, which share the lake, got together in 1939 and decided to stock the lake with trout; so Paul Diez de Medina, then with the Bolivian embassy and diplomatic correspondent for the Washington Star, sent the fingerlings down by boat. They died en route. Next shipment was sent by air and lived. For 10 years no one fished them and they grew to be the biggest trout in the world, also the most voracious. They are rapidly devouring all other fish in the lake. . . . American missionaries are doing a fine job in South America. Near Montero, Bolivia, I met Fathers Foley and O'Brien of the Maryknoll Fathers. With friendly simplicity they are conducting schools and hospitals for the Indians. Also doing fine jobs, though I didn't get a chance to see them, are the Methodists and Seventh Day Adventists.

Jails Are Full — One great problem of President Paz is the number of political prisoners in Bolivian jails. U. S. Ambassador Eddie Sparks has remonstrated with Paz, urged him to release the prisoners. Replies the president: "You remember what happened to my friend President Villaroel? They hung him from a lamppost. It was very uncomfortable. I don't want that to happen to me." . . . Actually President Paz is in an almost impregnable political position — thanks to the Indians. As I traveled with him across Bolivia I saw delegation after delegation come to meet him, deluge him with flowers. . . . When Senator Capehart of Indiana visited La Paz about a year ago, opposition politicians staged an incipient revolt hoping to discourage U. S. funds for Bolivia. Two leaders of the Paz cabinet were seized and kept in hotel rooms. Whereupon Indians came down from the plateau above La Paz, crowded the streets carrying rifles. The white population would have been massacred if anything had happened to one hair of President Paz's head; and they didn't disperse until Paz came out on his balcony and told them to go home. . . . Paz now has his own private Indian army, thanks to the fact that nearly all Indians carry rifles. The regular Bolivian army is in the background, used chiefly for engineering and health cleanups. Previously the army was a political weapon, used to seat and unseat presidents.

Americans Build Friendship — Ambassador Sparks has done an outstanding job in South America, but will be replaced next week by Ambassador Jerry Drew. The high altitude necessitates frequent rotation of U. S. envoys. . . . Unofficial envoys are the crews and personnel of Panagra. They penetrate to the farthest jungles of Bolivia, have won lots of friends for the U.S.A. . . . Some Panagra planes fly over such wild areas that Indians try to shoot them down with bows and arrows. . . . Les Thayer, radio expert for the Macco Pan Pacific Company, found it difficult to use telephone wires along the new American-built highway connecting the lowlands with the Andes. Reason: The Indians took the telephone wires down to make bracelets. . . . Macco Pan Pacific deserves credit not only for building the highway but improving U. S. relations. Max Winters, in charge of the project, fired any American who mistreated the natives. He evolved excellent esprit de corps among both Bolivians and Americans.

Talking Pork Chops

By Joseph Alsop

HERRIN, Ill. In the most significant senatorial race of this year's crucial campaign, Sen. Paul H. Douglas is still talking like an economics professor; but his topic gets him audiences all the same.

The Douglas topic is what old-fashioned politicians used to call "pork chops"—which means jobs, wages, prices and living conditions. Anyone who discusses pork chops is bound to get a hearing down here in Southern Illinois, for the very simple reason that pork chops are pretty short in this part of the state.

By a quirk of fate that may prove harsh to the Republican party, all of Illinois south of Springfield has been parched by a remorseless drought. In endless cornfields, the crop stands burned and dwarfed, with yields shockingly below the abundant normal. Other crops have suffered too, and there is little feeding stuff for the many farmers who fatten cattle for the market.

Since this is the drought's second year, the weaker trees along the roadsides are beginning to turn brown and die. By the same token, the hard-time resources of the poorer farm families are as exhausted as the reserves of water in the powdery, tawny soil. "Up north in the black earth prairies," they tell you, "the farmers have had a fine year, but down here in the south it's real rough."

Coal Mines Down

Business is not good down here either. Where there is general manufacturing, employment has held up. But in Lawrence, over on the Indiana border, the oil production that is the local lifeblood has just been cut back by 30 per cent. In Egypt — the group of counties forming the state's extreme southern tip—almost all the coal mines are shut down except the simple, locally owned "gopher" mines. In this drab but somehow cozy small town of Herrin, they say that very nearly one man in every three is jobless in Williamson County.

For obvious reasons, then, Paul Douglas has been giving the heaviest play to Southern Illinois, plus the populous industrially depressed Rock Island-Moline area with its idling farm implement factories. He campaigns in a station wagon, roaring through county after county in a motorized parade of local supporters; stopping to say a few words and shake hands awkwardly but warmly in the little towns, and halting in bigger places like Herrin for county-wide meetings.

After doing his stuff in Bush and Hurst, Cambria and Jettie Vaughn, Colp, Carterville and Marion, Douglas came to Herrin in the dusk, through streets largely emptied by the supper hour. It had been a killing day, but he seemed perfectly ready for another exactly like it while he "rested" for an hour or so in his room in the little hotel.

Resting in this particular case meant getting a meal and a drink; talking to half a dozen voluble, enthusiastic Williamson County leaders, and in between whiles explaining his campaign strategy—which is to concentrate on Cook County and the disaffected downstate areas, while refraining stirring up the animals in the more prosperous and staunchly Republican farm counties of Northern Illinois.

Then it was time for the meeting, held in a glare of electric lights in the main street, with the inevitable doughboy statue — the standard small town model—just showing against the sky at the end of the block. Some 400 farmers and railwaymen in dungarees, lady Democrats in neat dresses and glittering eyeglasses, and townsfolk and party workers had gathered to hear Douglas and the other candidates.

Douglas, winding up a rather long rally, spoke earnestly and heavily. There was a moment of drama, when he "defied the Texas oil barons to come into Illinois and spend their worst." There was one poorish joke. But mostly he talked about the local need for water for industrial and irrigation purposes; about measures to relieve the depressed coal industry (with a side glance at conditions in the Ruhr), about social security and unemployment relief and other welfare measures with pork chop significance. The audience ate up this rather heavy diet with visible relish.

A lot can happen between now and election. Furthermore Southern Illinois is only one sector, and by no means the biggest sector, of this very big state. But the local lesson remains that where pork chops are short, very little else counts.

Flying Bedsteads And Magic Carpets

The thinkers who are designing aircraft other than the conventional type seem determined, in their nomenclature, to educate the public in terms of prosaic household furnishings. Within a few days British aircraft engineers have unveiled a "Flying Bedstead," while Americans have come through with a "Magic Carpet."

Both aircraft, still in the experimental stage, have significance far beyond the whimsical names and the outlandish appearance both present.

Both are attempts to break away from conventional means of landing and takeoff, and both use the jet thrust principle to help. The British "bedstead," which stands on four pipestem legs and looks for all the world like its namesake, uses jet thrust to heave itself into the air. Once airborne, the thrust is directed backwards to provide for forward flight.

Engineers of Bell Aircraft appear to have advanced somewhat farther than the British in applying jet thrust to their "Magic Carpet." They have contrived the jets to provide vertical push for what appears to be a conventional plane. The British prototype ship is, at present, only a frame and engine, with a place for a pilot.

Neither of the two ships sits on its tail in the manner of the propeller-driven fighter which has been flown for the Navy. The Navy's interest, of course, is in getting a plane which will take off from confined spaces, such as small platforms on shipboard.

Success in this experiment would convert any Navy combat craft, in effect, into an aircraft carrier, but without the disadvantages of tremendous size and vulnerability. The principal tactical disadvantage of the tail sitter is that it is vulnerable while gliding down backwards to make a landing.

The ultimate in design would be a plane which could take off from anyone's back yard and then zoom off to its mission. That is what aircraft engineers have in mind.

Leaks

In a colloquy between Senator Herman Welker and Senator Guy M. Gillette, the following came out:

"Mr. Welker. I believe the distinguished and able senator from Iowa, when he was chairman of the subcommittee, discovered one source of the 'leaks'. He heard someone approach the door. The senator from Iowa tiptoed up, jerked open the door, and then discovered, as I recall, someone who was at least more than casually interested in our executive hearings. Is that a correct statement?"

"Mr. Gillette. Mr. President, that is a correct statement."

It would seem that a government could so organize itself that neither in the executive nor the legislative branch would there be leaks. Apparently all governments are having the same troubles. The French are in the midst of a scandal arising from leaks to the Communists by officials on a high level. No matter how the MacLean-Burgess situation is covered up by the British, the fact stands that in spite of their long traditions and high quality civil service, leaks have occurred in the British Foreign Office and it was a British subject, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who leaked the atom bomb to the Rosenberg spy ring. Dr. Otto John who, as early as June 1952, was known to be a Soviet secret agent and also a correspondent of British Socialists, was in a central position to leak to Russia out of Bonn. Jules Moch, the French Socialist, was reported as long as three years ago to be opposed to the American concept of the European community, to favor neutralism; yet he has been in a position to be familiar with the details of Allied operations.

Every newspaperman, who deals with such matters, does have the experience that much of his stock-in-trade is his ability to get confidential information from government officials. It used to be an unbreakable rule that what was given in confidence was kept in confidence and was only used as background but was not published. These days such information is leaked with the object of hurting an opponent. Sometimes this goes too far into the realm of what should not be told and sometimes includes documentation that should be withheld. What does one do when into his possession, from an authoritative person, comes a document which is of public significance but is rubber-stamped "confidential" or some such thing?

Complaints are made about Senator McCarthy that he, chairman of a permanent committee of the Senate, appointed to investigate the executive branch of the government, appealed to government employes for information. What about those senators and representatives who leak the proceedings of executive sessions of congressional committees? What about public officials who leak the most confidential data in their offices to favored newspapermen in a barter for preferred treatment?

Senator Gillette caught someone listening at a closed door, something which is not justified by any moral code. In the colloquy which I have quoted, neither Senator Gillette nor Senator Welker named the eavesdropper, which they might have done to advantage, but such a miserable person is not as guilty as the senator who makes a deal to tell what goes on at such meetings. He is guilty of gross impropriety.

One wonders about many things like that. What is the difference between a monitored telephone call and a wiretap? From a moral standpoint, there can be none unless both parties are aware of the fact. The monitored telephone call may or may not be legal; it is definitely immoral. Senator Herman Welker believes that the monitored telephone call is a crime. Of it, he said:

"Yet we stand here in these great temples of marble, where people get the odor of marble and think they are great, and we see no resolution of censure introduced in regard to those who tap wires when the other person has not been notified."

He is so right about that, but nothing will be done because so many who could do something about it use wiretaps and monitor calls. The law requires a beep when the call is taken down by an instrument. What is the difference between taking it down mechanically or by a stenographer's hand? There are all sorts of devices on the market and they are so inexpensive that there must be quite a number of buyers of them.

Where Do You Think We Should Put This One?

Stay-At-Home Voters' Attitude Influences Elections

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The most important piece of political information today which can have a decided influence on the outcome of the congressional elections is related to the attitude of the stay-at-home voters.

This affects both parties. Hence the political organization which can get to the polls the larger number of stay-at-home voters with a predeliction toward that party can win the election.

Scientific surveys made in areas where voters were interviewed both before and after election substantiate the fact that stay-at-home voters often overbalance those who switch from one party to the other.

Thus, field representatives of the Bureau of Applied Research of Columbia University did a concentrated study on Erie County, Ohio, with particular reference to the hotly contested Willkie-Roosevelt election in 1940. The findings read in part as follows:

Serious Problem

"Non-voting is a serious problem in a democracy. It is therefore worthwhile to look at these non-voters somewhat more closely. The great majority of them were deliberate non-voters; in October during the last interview before election, 29 per cent intended to vote and knew for whom they would vote, seven per cent intended to vote but did not yet know for whom, and 64 per cent did not intend to vote. In other words, two out of three cases of non-voting were intentional and premeditated, according to the voters' own statements. But even in the other groups there were some non-voters who resembled the premeditated ones . . .

"As a net result, three-quarters of the non-voters stayed away from the polls deliberately because they were thoroughly unconcerned with the election. . . . Only a small number of people were kept from the polls by a last minute emergency."

The widespread fallacy that many people switch from one party to the other during a campaign is dealt with on the basis of research results by the Columbia survey as follows:

"The notion that the people who switch parties during the campaign are mainly the reasoned, thoughtful, conscientious people who were convinced by the issues of the election is just plain wrong. Actually, they were mainly the opposite. . . . Some people were converted by campaign propaganda but they were few indeed. . . .

"In summary, then, the people who did most of the reading and listening not only read and heard most of their own partisan propaganda but were the most resistant to conversion because of their strong predispositions. And the people who were most open to conversion — the ones the campaign managers most wanted to reach — read and listened least. Those inter-related facts represent the bottleneck of conversion."

Another scientific study made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan analyzed the 1948 and 1952 presidential elections, and found that in 1952, while party allegiance was a strong factor in the Democratic vote, it was less important in the Republican vote. Issues such as Korea and corruption were mentioned more frequently than the personality of the candidate. The survey says:

Percentages Tell Story

"The much lower reference to traditional party allegiance on the part of the Eisenhower supporters in 1952 no doubt derived in part from the fact that a large proportion of Eisenhower's support came from the people who had previously been Democratic supporters or non-voters."

What often confuses the picture is the conspicuous fact that Stevenson, though losing in 1952, actually polled more votes than had been received by either a Republican or Democratic candidate in any previous presidential election, with the exception of 1936. But Stevenson got only 44.3 per cent of the whole vote.

Thus, the total vote may remain the same or may even increase for each party but the percentages tell the story. Truman got 50.1 per cent of the vote in Ohio in 1948 and carried the state. Taft two years later got 57.5 per cent of the vote, yet the total vote was about the same as in 1948. It has been fantastically assumed that 200,000 Truman Democrats just switched to Taft, but the truth would seem to be that these Democrats who had voted for Truman stayed at home in 1950, while the Republicans got out 200,000 of their indifferent vote.

This is corroborated by the 1952 result when Mike Di Salle, the defeated candidate, polled 349,000 more votes than the Democratic nominee for the Senate in 1950 and about 111,000 more than Truman did in 1948.

Meanwhile, Senator Bricker in 1952 picked up 233,000 more votes than Taft got in 1950 and about 433,000 more votes than Dewey got in 1948.

Key To Campaign

Another way of stating it is that there were 582,000 more votes cast for senator in 1952 than in 1950 and the Democratic candidate got 349,000 of these while Bricker got 233,000.

Where did all those votes come from? New voters just coming of age wouldn't account for such a big percentage gain over 1948. The only conclusion which seems logical is that large proportions of the "stay-at-homes" in both parties who hadn't been voting were aroused sufficiently in later elections to go to the polls.

That's the key to the 1954 congressional campaign. For nearly all of the "switchers," based on scientific surveys, have already made up their minds and cannot be converted. It's those who haven't been interested at all who can, if persuaded to vote, influence the result depending on the work done by the party organization or its precinct workers.

Baering Down On The News

Results in Maine make us wonder whether this is an administration or a sub-lease.

In another 30 days we will harvest the rest of the per capita opinion. Vermont is already in the bag with both ends sewed up.

Surprising to discover Democrats so far north in the moulting season, Is there no little Holland boy to hold his thumb in the Mason-Dixon dike?

Our local Democrats in New York and New Jersey are looking toward 1954 with compound optimism. Young Roosevelt and Averell Harriman do not see eye-to-eye nor who-to-who.

Like all the Roosevelts young Franklin brings his own bat and glove to the game. But he never wants to catch.

New Jersey was the first to give the Dior look a pressure of 60 pounds all around. Governor Meyner is as Democratic as an all-night lunch wagon.

Demmies figured the best defense is an attack provided it's not hay fever. But it took plenty of moxie for Adali to blame the Republicans for everything that happened in Truman's administration.

Mentally Retarded Youngsters Require Special Care

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

One per cent of the general population in the United States is said to be mentally retarded. Only one-tenth of this group requires institutional care; the remainder must have close supervision and many can be taught to care for themselves.

At the turn of the century, heredity was thought to play a major role because the histories of several mentally retarded families had been widely publicized. We now know that in most instances the brain is damaged prior to birth through no fault of the father or mother. Furthermore, the extent of the damage varies. It may be so serious the youngster cannot survive or so borderline as to be little more than "dull normal."

There are several types of mental retardation. The Mongoloid, cretin, hydrocephalic, and microcephalic can be recognized at birth by their characteristic appearance. The cause of Mongolism is not known although many theories have been proposed.

Cretinism is traceable to a deficiency of the thyroid gland and much can be done with early treatment. The microcephalic comes into the world with an abnormally small skull whereas in hydrocephaly there is an excess of fluid surrounding the brain or within its folds.

Mental retardation occurs in a variety of other conditions. Children with cerebral palsy may be affected along this line when damage to the brain tissue involves areas of intellectual functioning. Damage also follows an attack of encephalitis, meningitis, syphilis, or injury during delivery. The Rh factor of German measles during the early months of pregnancy also will affect the brain.

When retardation is not evident at birth, several months or years may elapse before it is discovered. The condition of youngsters who are overly fretful, placid to the point of showing no interest in their environment, and those who make no attempt to sit up or grasp an object is detected as a rule in the first six months of life.

At the other end of the line the "dull normals" go through kindergarten or first grade before suspicions are aroused when they are not promoted or are unable to keep up with other pupils.

Most of these youngsters are affectionate and have no worries. They need special care and education, which may be difficult to obtain except in larger centers. According to Dr. Walter Jacob of the Training School at Vineland, N. J., "Jobs containing several steps seem to look like several jobs to them." As a result, "each must be taught separately."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Vince Flaherty recalls the day a rookie photographer caused one of baseball's wierdest plays at Griffith Stadium in Washington. A runner was poised on third base, ready to score the winning tally and, when the batter lofted a towering drive to right center, it looked like it was time to rake in the marbles. Catcher Rick Ferrell braced himself for the throw from the outfield, and the rookie photographer, focusing his camera, crept closer and closer behind him to catch the action at home plate.

The ball and the runner arrived simultaneously. Ferrell made a wild jab and slapped the ball on the photographer's nose just as the runner's slide sent the camera flying ten feet into the air.

The camera was deposited in the nearest ash can, and the photographer, when he emerged from the hospital, was transferred to activities in women's club circles.

U. N. Given Credit For Helping Andean Indians Resettle On Lake Titicaca

Drew Pearson

EN ROUTE THROUGH SOUTH AMERICA — Jottings from a South American Notebook — In Washington you don't hear much about the United Nations except the rantings of Vishinsky or debates over Red China. But down here the U.N. is doing a great job for the Andean Indians of Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia. . . . Enrique de Lozada, a long time in the U.S.A. with the U.N. and the Nelson Rockefeller Committee, is working with Bill Dillingham of Philadelphia and Swarthmore, Pa., to resettle several thousand Indians. Up on Lake Titicaca, highest lake in the world, they have established an Indian farm co-op. Since the U.N. didn't want to work on land expropriated by the government which might later be litigated under the new land reform, Lozada persuaded his friend, J. Sanfines, to give the Indians 1,000,000 acres of land. The Indians then got acquisitive, also took 400 head of Holsteins and 1,500 head of Herefords. They had been caring for them for years, they said, so the cattle should go with the land. . . . But Dillingham finally persuaded the Indians to pay for the cattle on the installment plan and, believe it or not, they are now ahead with their payments. . . . Captain Sanfines, the man who donated the million acres, is a former student of Iowa State university and West Point who later put the Bolivian army to work at irrigation, welldrilling and health projects instead of politics. However, he rowed with the new "national revolutionary movement" and is now in exile. . . . What President Paz needs most is to get some of this energetic young blood back.

Diving in Titicaca — The man who knows most about Lake Titicaca is Victor Andrade, now Bolivian ambassador to Washington. He was exiled to an island by the previous conservative regime, found the water terribly cold but the only way to get a bath. . . . Braving the cold of Lake Titicaca shortly will be William Mardorf, U. S. frogman who has signed a contract with the Bolivian government to dive for Inca gold thrown into the lake several hundred years ago. Mardorf has spotted one area where the Incas worshipped the sun gods by throwing gold in the water, and if the shores of the lake are not too steep he may recover a fortune. Most of the lake is extremely deep, however, and the gold may have slid down beyond recovery . . . Mardorf will not use a conventional diving suit. Oxygen can't be pumped down to him at such high altitudes. He will wear a navy frog suit with three oxygen tanks strapped to his back. Under the suit he will wear plenty of heavy underwear, for his chief problem is icy water. He hopes to stay under two hours on each dive. . . . Previous Bolivian governments would sign no contracts for the recovery of INCA gold for fear of Indian uprisings. The Paz government is so popular with the Indians it fears no revolts.

Ike Would Love This — Biggest trout in the world are in Lake Titicaca — 30 to 40 pounds. They came originally from the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries in Washington. . . . The Peruvian and Bolivian governments, which share the lake, got together in 1939 and decided to stock the lake with trout; so Paul Diez de Medina, then with the Bolivian embassy and diplomatic correspondent for the Washington Star, sent the fingerlings down by boat. They died en route. Next shipment was sent by air and lived. For 10 years no one fished them and they grew to be the biggest trout in the world, also the most voracious. They are rapidly devouring all other fish in the lake. . . . American missionaries are doing a fine job in South America. Near Montero, Bolivia, I met Fathers Foley and O'Brien of the Maryknoll Fathers. With friendly simplicity they are conducting schools and hospitals for the Indians. Also doing fine jobs, though I didn't get a chance to see them, are the Methodists and Seventh Day Adventists.

Jails Are Full — One great problem of President Paz is the number of political prisoners in Bolivian jails. U. S. Ambassador Eddie Sparks has remonstrated with Paz, urged him to release the prisoners. Replies the president: "You remember what happened to my friend President Villaroel? They hung him from a lamppost. It was very uncomfortable. I don't want that to happen to me." . . . Actually President Paz is in an almost impregnable political position — thanks to the Indians. As I traveled with him across Bolivia I saw delegation after delegation come to meet him, deluge him with flowers. . . . When Senator Capehart of Indiana visited La Paz about a year ago, opposition politicians staged an incipient revolt hoping to discourage U. S. funds for Bolivia. Two leaders of the Paz cabinet were seized and kept in hotel rooms. Whereupon Indians came down from the plateau above La Paz, crowded the streets carrying rifles. The white population would have been massacred if anything had happened to one hair of President Paz's head; and they didn't disperse until Paz came out on his balcony and told them to go home. . . . Paz now has his own private Indian army, thanks to the fact that nearly all Indians carry rifles. The regular Bolivian army is in the background, used chiefly for engineering and health cleanups. Previously the army was a political weapon, used to seat and unseat presidents.

Americans Build Friendship — Ambassador Sparks has done an outstanding job in South America, but will be replaced next week by Ambassador Jerry Drew. The high altitude necessitates frequent rotation of U. S. envoys. . . . Unofficial envoys are the crews and personnel of Panagra. They penetrate to the farthest jungles of Bolivia, have won lots of friends for the U.S.A. . . . Some Panagra planes fly over such wild areas that Indians try to shoot them down with bows and arrows. . . . Les Thayer, radio expert for the Macco Pan Pacific Company, found it difficult to use telephone wires along the new American-built highway connecting the lowlands with the Andes. Reason: The Indians took the telephone wires down to make bracelets. . . . Macco Pan Pacific deserves credit not only for building the highway but improving U. S. relations. Max Winters, in charge of the project, fired any American who mistreated the natives. He evolved excellent esprit de corps among both Bolivians and Americans.

Talking Pork Chops

By Joseph Alsop

HERRIN, Ill.

In the most significant senatorial race of this year's crucial campaign, Sen. Paul H. Douglas is still talking like an economics professor; but his topic gets him audiences all the same.

The Douglas topic is what old-fashioned politicians used to call "pork chops"—which means jobs, wages, prices and living conditions. Anyone who discusses pork chops is bound to get a hearing down here in Southern Illinois, for the very simple reason that pork chops are pretty short in this part of the state.

By a quirk of fate that may prove harsh to the Republican party, all of Illinois south of Springfield has been parched by a remorseless drought. In endless cornfields, the crop stands burned and dwarfed, with yields shockingly below the abundant normal. Other crops have suffered too, and there is little feeding stuff for the many farmers who fatten cattle for the market.

Since this is the drought's second year, the weaker trees along the roadsides are beginning to turn brown and die. By the same token, the hard-time resources of the poorer farm families are as exhausted as the reserves of water in the powdery, tawny soil. "Up north in the black earth prairies," they tell you, "the farmers have had a fine year, but down here in the south it's real rough."

Coal Mines Down

Business is not good down here either. Where there is general manufacturing, employment has held up. But in Lawrence, over on the Indiana border, the oil production that is the local lifeblood has just been cut back by 30 per cent. In Egypt — the group of counties forming the state's extreme southern tip—almost all the coal mines are shut down except the simple, locally owned "gopher" mines. In this drab but somehow cozy small town of Herrin, they say that very nearly one man in every three is jobless in Williamson County.

For obvious reasons, then, Paul Douglas has been giving the heaviest play to Southern Illinois, plus the populous industrially depressed Rock Island-Moline area with its idling farm implement factories. He campaigns in a station wagon, roaring through county after county in a motorized parade of local supporters; stopping to say a few words and shake hands awkwardly but warmly in the little towns, and halting in bigger places like Herrin for county-wide meetings.

After doing his stuff in Bush and Hurst, Cambria and Jettie Vaughn, Colp, Carterville and Marion, Douglas came to Herrin in the dusk, through streets largely emptied by the supper hour. It had been a killing day, but he seemed perfectly ready for another exactly like it while he "rested" for an hour or so in his room in the little hotel.

Resting in this particular case meant getting a meal and a drink; talking to half a dozen voluble, enthusiastic Williamson County leaders, and in between whiles explaining his campaign strategy—which is to concentrate on Cook County and the disaffected downstate areas, while refraining stirring up the animals in the more prosperous and staunchly Republican farm counties of Northern Illinois.

Then it was time for the meeting, held in a glare of electric lights in the main street, with the inevitable doughboy statue — the standard small town model—just showing against the sky at the end of the block. Some 400 farmers and railwaymen in dungarees, lady Democrats in neat dresses and glittering eyeglasses, and townsfolk and party workers had gathered to hear Douglas and the other candidates.

Douglas, winding up a rather long rally, spoke earnestly and heavily. There was a moment of drama, when he "defied the Texas oil barons to come into Illinois and spend their worst." There was one poorish joke. But mostly he talked about the local need for water for industrial and irrigation purposes; about measures to relieve the depressed coal industry (with a side glance at conditions in the Ruhr), about social security and unemployment relief and other welfare measures with pork chop significance. The audience ate up this rather heavy diet with visible relish.

A lot can happen between now and election. Furthermore Southern Illinois is only one sector, and by no means the biggest sector, of this very big state. But the local lesson remains that where pork chops are short, very little else counts.

Rice Diet For Treatment Of High Blood Pressure Now Offers More Variety

By now, nearly everyone knows of the remarkable success of many physicians in supplementing their medical prescriptions by a special rice diet in the treatment of high blood pressure (hypertension).

Doctors and their high blood pressure patients attest to the excellent and sometimes almost miraculous results obtained by combining proper medical treatment with the famed rice diet for high blood pressure. However, the patients complained that the rice diet was too monotonous, offering too little variety of other foods to go with the necessary rice.

Of course, all treatments for high blood pressure should be taken only under the direct care and supervision of a physician. But, if your physician approves, the following rice diet for the treatment of high blood pressure may offer a wider and more interesting variety of additional foods:

BREAKFAST

½ cup boiled rice (cooked in unsalted water), may eat with corn syrup, sugar or fruit juice.
One or more bananas.

MID-MORNING

Lemonade, made with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, water and sugar.

LUNCH

½ cup boiled rice (cooked in unsalted water), may eat with corn syrup, sugar or fruit juice.
One orange.
Fresh cooked vegetables only, one cup of any of the following:
Corn
Green Pepper
Squash
Pumpkin (without rind)
White Potato (Without skin)
One cup of dry beans may also be used instead of a fresh vegetable.
Fresh fruits only, one cup of any of the following:
Apple (without skin)
Apricot
Banana
Blackberries
Blueberries
Cherries (sweet)
Grapefruit
Lemon
Orange
Peaches (without skin)
Pineapple
Plum
Prunes
Raspberries
Strawberries
Watermelon

Worth Whistling About Child's Lunch At Home

Tuna-Apple Sandwich, made with enriched bread, served with a hearty soup, form the basis of the school child's lunch.

Whether mother blows the whistle for the sand-lot crowd or the noon dismissal bell releases them from school, youngsters arrive at the luncheon table starved. Their healthy appetites make it easy for mother to get a generous one-third to one-half of the day's needed food requirements into this meal.

Here is a pattern menu that earns high marks nutritionally—a hearty soup, flavor-filled sandwiches in quantity to fit appetites, fresh vegetable sticks, milk, and a cake dessert. This Tuna-Apple Sandwich, made with enriched bread, has a filling of chopped, unpeeled apples, blended with lemon juice and mayonnaise to which tuna is added.

Should mother need to be away from home at noon, freshly made sandwiches could be wrapped in moisture-vapor proof paper and stored in the refrigerator. The soup could be heated by an older child or poured from a vacuum bottle. Animal croutons, cut from bread and toasted, are mother's surprise.

Tuna-Apple Sandwich

½ cup tuna, flaked
1 cup finely chopped unpeeled apples
½ tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
8 slices enriched bread
¼ cup butter or margarine

Combine flaked tuna, apples, lemon juice and mayonnaise or salad dressing. Butter bread. Make 4 sandwiches, using ½ cup filling for each sandwich.

Yield: 1 cup or filling for 4 sandwiches.

Cream Of Tomato Soup

3½ cups fresh or canned (No. 2½ can) tomatoes
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon sugar, if desired
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt

Cook together the tomatoes and onion — about 20 minutes for fresh tomatoes, 10 for canned. Press through sieve. Melt the butter or margarine; blend in flour and sugar (if used). Gradually add sieved tomatoes. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Gradually add tomato mixture to milk, stirring constantly. Heat rapidly to serving temperature. Add salt. Serve at once.

6 servings. ½ cup milk per serving.

Quick Cream of Tomato Soup. Combine 2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes with 3 cups milk. Heat rapidly to serving temperature. Add 1 teaspoon salt, a litle pepper, and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

This is a new idea for a ground beef skillet-meal: Cook 1 pound ground beef, 2 cups cooked white rice, 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper in a skillet until the meat is browned. Add 1 cup whole kernel yellow corn, 1 cup sliced onions, 1 cup tomatoes and 1 cup tomato juice. Cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes.

Coyotes have special places to meet and sing their weird songs after nightfall, but they never use the same meeting ground two nights in succession.

Rice Diet For Treatment Of High Blood Pressure Now Offers More Variety

By now, nearly everyone knows of the remarkable success of many physicians in supplementing their medical prescriptions by a special rice diet in the treatment of high blood pressure (hypertension).

Doctors and their high blood pressure patients attest to the excellent and sometimes almost miraculous results obtained by combining proper medical treatment with the famed rice diet for high blood pressure. However, the patients complained that the rice diet was too monotonous, offering too little variety of other foods to go with the necessary rice.

Of course, all treatments for high blood pressure should be taken only under the direct care and supervision of a physician. But, if your physician approves, the following rice diet for the treatment of high blood pressure may offer a wider and more interesting variety of additional foods:

BREAKFAST

½ cup boiled rice (cooked in unsalted water), may eat with corn syrup, sugar or fruit juice.
One or more bananas.

MID-MORNING

Lemonade, made with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, water and sugar.

LUNCH

½ cup boiled rice (cooked in unsalted water), may eat with corn syrup, sugar or fruit juice.
One orange.
Fresh cooked vegetables only, one cup of any of the following:
Corn
Squash
Pumpkin (without rind)
White Potato (Without skin)
One cup of dry beans may also be used instead of a fresh vegetable.
Fresh fruits only, one cup of any of the following:
Apricot
Banana
Blackberries
Blueberries
Cherries (sweet)
Grapefruit
Lemon
Orange
Pineapple
Plum
Prunes
Raspberries
Strawberries
Watermelon

MID-AFTERNOON

DINNER

½ cup boiled rice (cooked in unsalted water), may eat with corn syrup, sugar or fruit juice.
Cooked vegetables, ½ cup of any of those listed above.
Fruits, ¾ cup of any of those listed above.

EVENING

One cup of pineapple juice.

Vitamins and iron should be added to this diet. Consult your physician.

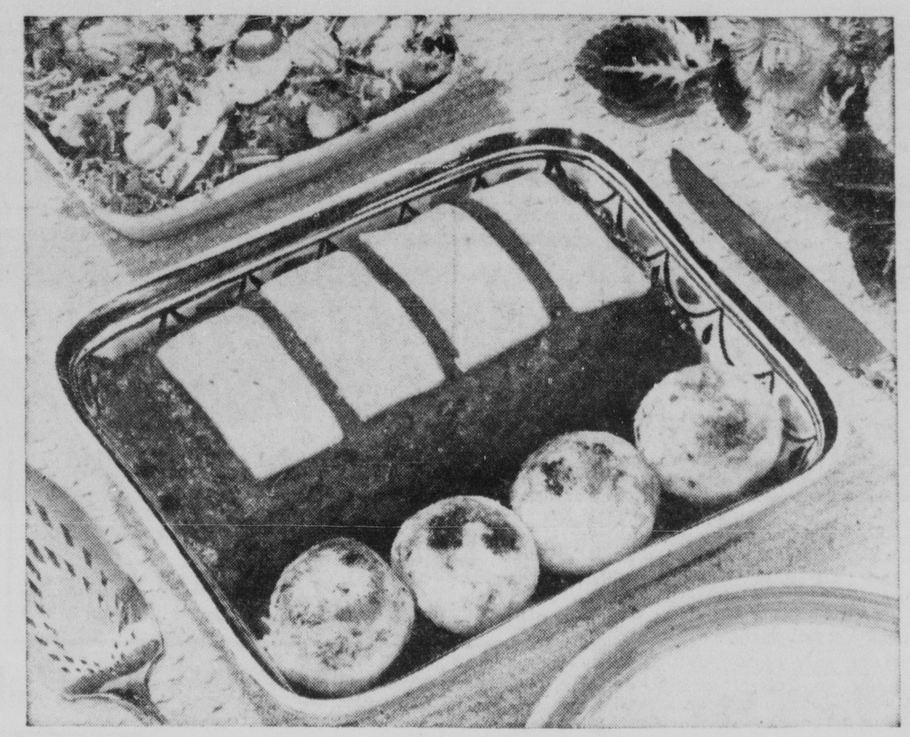
Use Plentiful Ground Beef In Delicious Meat Loaves



Homemakers can get a real lift out of meat shopping these days. All kinds of bright and beautiful beef cuts are in the meat counter to greet the eye—and best of all, attractive price tags are attached to most of them.

Ground beef is one of today's best beef buys because it can be made from so many different cuts and types of beef. Much of the ground beef these days is from the lean beef now coming to market from the ranges of the West.

For many families, ground beef for dinner several times a week is none too often. The trick is in varying the way it's served—jumbo hamburgers one night, a casserole dish another, meat loaf a third. You'll give your family a treat when you serve them this Italian Meat Loaf with its cheery blend of flavors and colors.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef chuck
3 cups soft bread cubes
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon thyme
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Basil
1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
½ cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 slices American cheese (2 oz.)

Soak bread cubes in milk; add thyme, salt, pepper, ½ teaspoon basil and ¼ cup of the tomato sauce. Stir with a fork to break up bread cubes. Fry onions in the butter or margarine until golden; add to bread crumb mixture. Gently combine meat and bread crumb mixture, mixing lightly with a fork; turn into a 2 quart loaf pan. Bake at 350°F. for 1 hour; then drain off fat. Cool slightly and turn out into a shallow baking pan. Combine remaining tomato sauce with ¼ teaspoon basil and spoon over loaf. Top with slices of cheese cut in half. Return to oven and continue baking for 15 minutes. (If desired, whole cooked potatoes may be placed around meat to brown last 15 minutes. Brush with melted butter.) 6 servings.

Meat Loaf Surprises

1. Piquant Loaf: Before baking, cover loaf with a mixture of 3 tablespoons brown sugar, ¼ cup catsup, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and 1 teaspoon dry mustard.

2. Potato Frosted: After meat loaf has finished baking, let stand 10 minutes, then drain off any juice (and save for other cooking uses). Unmold meat loaf on a cookie sheet and "frost" with about 2½ cups of highly seasoned mashed potatoes. Return to the oven and bake at 450°F. for 5 to 10 minutes or until a golden brown.

3. Mushroom Meat Loaf: Brown some chopped fresh or canned mushrooms in a little fat with some chopped onion. Sprinkle heavily with paprika and add to a standard meat loaf mixture.

1. In a Sandwich: Slice and serve between toasted buttered hamburger buns with a little catsup or pickle relish.

2. In Spaghetti Sauce: Chop meat loaf in fine pieces and heat in a can of tomato sauce. Season with onion powder, salt and pepper and one or two of the following: soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, chili powder, herbs. Serve over hot spaghetti.

3. In a Casserole: Cube the meat and layer with cooked, seasoned noodles or macaroni. Over layers pour tomato soup to which some grated cheese and a few herbs have been added. Lift up layers so soup will run through. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake.

Novel "Swiss Steak"

Family Round Steak Dinner

1 round steak, cut about 1 inch thick
Flour, salt, pepper, fat
1 clove garlic,
Basil, thyme or marjoram; seasoning salt
2 onions
3 potatoes
1 cup bouillon

Cut steak into 4 to 6 serving-size pieces. With a meat pounder or the edge of a heavy saucer, pound meat on both sides. Combine ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and coat steak pieces. Brown garlic in 2 tablespoons hot fat; remove garlic and in the fat brown steaks. Place steaks in a large casserole or Dutch oven and sprinkle lightly with basil, thyme or marjoram. Add ¼ cup water, cover and bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour.

Top meat with a layer of sliced onions and a layer of 1-inch thick potato slices; sprinkle with salt, pepper and seasoning salt. Stir 1 tablespoon flour into the hot fat in which the steaks were browned; add bouillon, made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in 1 cup hot water. Cook, stirring until thickened; then pour over steak and vegetables. Cover and continue baking at 350 degree F. until meat and vegetables are tender, about 1 hour. 4 to 6 servings.

Frankfurter Quick Dish

For dinner, here's an easy frankfurter and macaroni dish:

Fry franks in a little hot fat until brown; serve with easy-style macaroni and cheese. (Cook macaroni until tender in boiling salted water. Drain and put in a double boiler. Add some grated sharp cheese and enough milk to moisten. Heat until cheese melts. Season.)

Frankfurter And Potato Soup

2 cups diced potatoes
1 small onion, sliced
1½ cups boiling water
2 frankfurters
1¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Cook potatoes and onion in boiling water until soft. Put through a ricer or mash slightly. Cut frankfurters into ¼-inch slices. Add frankfurters, seasonings, and milk to potato mixture. Heat thoroughly, add parsley, and serve.

4 servings. ½ cup milk per serving.

For variety. Salami or other luncheon meat, cut in pieces, may be used instead of frankfurters. Allow one slice per person. Or sprinkle the soup with chopped cooked ham before serving. Fresh sausage also may be used. Crumble the meat and fry until crisp before adding it to the soup.

The "Boston Tea Party" occurred in 1773.

For many families, ground beef for dinner several times a week is none too often. The trick is in varying the way it's served—jumbo hamburgers one night, a casserole dish another, meat loaf a third. You'll give your family a treat when you serve them this Italian Meat Loaf with its cheery blend of flavors and colors.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef chuck
3 cups soft bread cubes
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon thyme
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Basil
1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
½ cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 slices American cheese (2 oz.)

Soak bread cubes in milk; add thyme, salt, pepper, ½ teaspoon basil and ¼ cup of the tomato sauce. Stir with a fork to break up bread cubes. Fry onions in the butter or margarine until golden; add to bread crumb mixture. Gently combine meat and bread crumb mixture, mixing lightly with a fork; turn into a 2 quart loaf pan. Bake at 350°F. for 1 hour; then drain off fat. Cool slightly and turn out into a shallow baking pan. Combine remaining tomato sauce with ¼ teaspoon basil and spoon over loaf. Top with slices of cheese cut in half. Return to oven and continue baking for 15 minutes. (If desired, whole cooked potatoes may be placed around meat to brown last 15 minutes. Brush with melted butter.) 6 servings.

Here are some seasoning hints which will convert any plain meat loaf into one with a slightly different twist:

Meat Loaf Surprises

1. Piquant Loaf: Before baking, cover loaf with a mixture of 3 tablespoons brown sugar, ¼ cup catsup, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and 1 teaspoon dry mustard.

2. Potato Frosted: After meat loaf has finished baking, let stand 10 minutes, then drain off any juice (and save for other cooking uses). Unmold meat loaf on a cookie sheet and "frost" with about 2½ cups of highly seasoned mashed potatoes. Return to the oven and bake at 450°F. for 5 to 10 minutes or until a golden brown.

3. Mushroom Meat Loaf: Brown some chopped fresh or canned mushrooms in a little fat with some chopped onion. Sprinkle heavily with paprika and add to a standard meat loaf mixture.

1. In a Sandwich: Slice and serve between toasted buttered hamburger buns with a little catsup or pickle relish.

2. In Spaghetti Sauce: Chop meat loaf in fine pieces and heat in a can of tomato sauce. Season with onion powder, salt and pepper and one or two of the following: soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, chili powder, herbs. Serve over hot spaghetti.

3. In a Casserole: Cube the meat and layer with cooked, seasoned noodles or macaroni. Over layers pour tomato soup to which some grated cheese and a few herbs have been added. Lift up layers so soup will run through. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake.

Novel "Swiss Steak"

Family Round Steak Dinner

1 round steak, cut about 1 inch thick
Flour, salt, pepper, fat
1 clove garlic,
Basil, thyme or marjoram; seasoning salt
2 onions
3 potatoes
1 cup bouillon

Cut steak into 4 to 6 serving-size pieces. With a meat pounder or the edge of a heavy saucer, pound meat on both sides. Combine ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and coat steak pieces. Brown garlic in 2 tablespoons hot fat; remove garlic and in the fat brown steaks. Place steaks in a large casserole or Dutch oven and sprinkle lightly with basil, thyme or marjoram. Add ¼ cup water, cover and bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour.

Top meat with a layer of sliced onions and a layer of 1-inch thick potato slices; sprinkle with salt, pepper and seasoning salt. Stir 1 tablespoon flour into the hot fat in which the steaks were browned; add bouillon, made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in 1 cup hot water. Cook, stirring until thickened; then pour over steak and vegetables. Cover and continue baking at 350 degree F. until meat and vegetables are tender, about 1 hour. 4 to 6 servings.

Frankfurter Quick Dish

For dinner, here's an easy frankfurter and macaroni dish:

Fry franks in a little hot fat until brown; serve with easy-style macaroni and cheese. (Cook macaroni until tender in boiling salted water. Drain and put in a double boiler. Add some grated sharp cheese and enough milk to moisten. Heat until cheese melts. Season.)

Frankfurter And Potato Soup

2 cups diced potatoes
1 small onion, sliced
1½ cups boiling water
2 frankfurters
1¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Cook potatoes and onion in boiling water until soft. Put through a ricer or mash slightly. Cut frankfurters into ¼-inch slices. Add frankfurters, seasonings, and milk to potato mixture. Heat thoroughly, add parsley, and serve.

4 servings. ½ cup milk per serving.

For variety, Salami or other luncheon meat, cut in pieces, may be used instead of frankfurters. Allow one slice per person. Or sprinkle the soup with chopped cooked ham before serving. Fresh sausage also may be used. Crumble the meat and fry until crisp before adding it to the soup.

Casserole Made With Cubed Ham

Ham-Noodle-Mushroom Casserole

- 2 cups cubed cooked ham
- 1 8-ounce package broad noodles
- Water
- 1 3-ounce can mushrooms
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ cup enriched flour
- 2 cups milk (or milk and mushroom liquid)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento

Add milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add salt, pepper, pimiento, parsley and ham. Arrange the cooked noodles in a greased 1½-quart casserole. Add ham mixture, arrange mushrooms on top. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

Chili For Fall Menu

When fall days begin to get cool you think about hot, filling foods to serve hungry youngsters and grown-ups. That's the time for Chili con Carne with Beans—a complete meal as it comes from the can. Make it piping hot to fill the bill for cool weather eating. If your youngsters come home at noon plan Chili con Carne for lunch on your busiest days every week. Spicy Chili con Carne needs only crackers, crisp relishes, and coffee or milk to provide a wholesome meal for all the family. Chili con Carne makes a wonderful hot dish for teen agers to serve at club meetings and after-game get togethers.

Chili con Carne is also packed without Beans. This all meat product may be combined with other foods to make splendid casseroles and a multitude of Mexican dishes.

Three And A Half Chili

- 1-15½ oz. can Chili con Carne without Beans
- 1-15½ oz. can Mexican Style Beans
- 1 No. 2 can Tomatoes
- ½ package Tenderoni

Cook Tenderoni according to directions on package. Combine Chili, Beans, Tomatoes, and heat well. Add cooked, drained Tenderoni. Serve in bowls. Six servings.

Chili Pie

- 1 cup yellow corn meal
- 2-15½ oz. cans Chili con Carne without Beans
- 1 No. 303 can Stewed Tomatoes
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup Pitted Ripe Olives, sliced
- ¾ cup grated American cheese

Make corn meal into corn meal mush following directions on package. Pour about ⅔ of corn meal mush into a 2-quart casserole. Pour remaining ⅓ into small, flat pan.

When corn meal mush has cooled in casserole, pour in the Chili con Carne. Sprinkle top with chopped onion and sliced olives.

Cut corn meal mush from flat pan into long narrow strips and transfer to top of casserole. Bake in oven at 350°F. for 25 minutes. Sprinkle cheese on top and bake 5 minutes longer. Six servings.

It's fun making this tempting casserole main dish — it will be fun to hear your family call for more! The eggs are deviled for a creamy-smooth filling then baked to golden goodness atop an exciting casserole of tuna, cheese and mushroom soup — with red-ripe pimiento for eye appeal.

INGREDIENTS:

- 4 hard-cooked eggs
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1, 10-½-oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1, 6½ oz. chunk-style tuna
- 1 cup cooked and seasoned green peas
- 2 tablespoons chopped whole canned pimiento
- 1-½ cups water (use water in which peas cooked)
- ½ cup grated American cheese

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 heaping cups of white, fluffy, perfectly cooked rice, put 1 cup uncooked white rice, 2 cups cold water and 1 teaspoon salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid or stir rice while it is cooking. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn heat off. The rice is now ready to use.

METHOD: Cut hard-cooked eggs in half, lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash with a fork. Add mayonnaise, salt, pepper, mustard and Worchestershire sauce. Mix until yolks are smooth. Refill egg whites with the yolk mixture.

Mix together the rice, mushroom soup, tuna, green peas, pimiento and water. Pour mixture into individual casseroles or into a greased 2-quart oven dish. Arrange the deviled eggs, sunny-side up, over the rice. Sprinkle grated cheese over the eggs. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until the cheese melts and browns. This recipe makes 8 servings or 8 individual casseroles.

Main Dishes For Freezing

Preparing main dishes, such as stews, meat loaves and casserole combinations for storage in the home freezer can be a real time-saver and convenience.

However, it will pay you to look out for a few "do's and don'ts" in this modern way of storing frozen foods, says nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service.

The specialist says a number of main dishes have been tested and judged for eating quality after different periods of time in frozen storage by U.S. Department of Agriculture foods research specialists.

The results are now available in a new booklet, "Freezing Combination Main Dishes" (HG-40). The booklet gives recipes in 16 to 25 portion sizes and provides two-way directions — how to proceed if you wish to serve part of the food right away, and how to freeze the remainder and later complete its preparation for serving.

Single copies of the booklet may be had from the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

In general, prepare pre-cooked foods for freezing as you would for serving right away. You'll need to avoid holding them in the freezer too long. For tip-top quality and economical use of freezer space, two or three months in storage is long enough, though most dishes will hold their quality fairly well for six months.

Leave vegetables and macaroni slightly undone for freezing. If cooked well-done, these foods are likely to be too soft when reheated.

Freeze meat pies or turnovers with pasty crusts unbaked. Crusts baked after freezing have fresher flavor and are more flaky and tender than those baked and then frozen.

Don't add a crumb or cheese topping to a food before freezing. Such toppings are best added when the food is reheated.

Cool quickly a cooked main dish that is to be frozen by setting the uncovered pan of food in ice or in very cold water. Quick cooling stops the cooking and so helps keep the natural flavor, color and texture of the foods. It also holds back or prevents bacteria growth that may cause spoilage.

Barbecue Tips To Give To Dad

When it's barbecue time dad often takes over. Here's a word of advice to pass on to dad. Barbecuing is actually broiling done over hot coals. For that reason, the same as when using the broiler in your range, cook the meat slowly.

Whether using an outdoor fireplace or portable grill, rub the grill with fat before starting to cook the meat. Fat on the meat may be used for this purpose.

Dad can show off his skill with any one of these favorite barbecue meats—club, rib, T-bone, porterhouse or sirloin steak. Choose the first three for individual serving, the latter for serving 2 to 6 depending upon the thickness. Have any steak cut at least one inch thick. Lamb chops and ham slices should be at least ¾ inch thick. Other barbecue choice are lamb or steak kabobs, hamburgers, frankfurters and cubed steaks. Follow a reliable broiling time-table to determine cooking time.

Easy Macaroni And Cheese

8 ounces elbow macaroni
1½ cups sharp cheese, cut in ½ inch cubes
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
Paprika
Butter

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse. In a buttered oblong baking pan alternate layers of macaroni and cheese, sprinkling each layer with a little of the salt and pepper. Pour milk over all. Sprinkle top with paprika and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., for about 40 minutes or until golden brown on top. Serves 6-8.

Golden Corn Stuffing For Pork Rolls

Golden Filled Pork Rolls

8 pork arm steaks, cut ½ inch thick
Salt
Pepper
1 No. 303 can cream-style corn
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon dry basil
½ teaspoon sage

Remove bones from pork steaks. Season with salt and pepper. Combine remaining ingredients, mix lightly and spread on steaks. Roll each steak like a jelly roll and tie or fasten with a skewer. Place rolls in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 hour. 8 servings.

Make a meat and corn casserole by mixing together 1½ cups yellow corn, 3 cups cooked, white rice, 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, ½ cu catsup, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper and one cup water or juice from corn. Pour into a baking dish. Top with slices of luncheon meat and finally, slices of cheese on the luncheon meat. Bake at 350° F for 30 minutes.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

Country Casserole

Country Casserole makes the meal. This dish begins with diced, cooked ham remaining from dinner, the day before. Combine a cup of diced ham with three cups soft bread cubes and one and one-half cups milk and two beaten eggs. For zest, add chopped onion, green pepper, prepared mustard and prepared horseradish, to taste. Bake in a greased one-quart casserole in a 350° oven for one hour.

Tomato-Peanut Butter Soup

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon grated onion
¼ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
Pepper
1½ teaspoons salt
½ cup peanut butter
2 cups sieved cooked tomatoes

Melt butter or margarine and add flour, stirring until smooth. Add seasonings and blend part of hot mixture with peanut butter; combine with the rest of the hot mixture. Heat tomatoes and add slowly, stirring constantly.

5 servings. Over ½ cup milk per serving.

Cream Of Pea Soup

2½ cups cooked or canned peas and liquid (No. 2 can)
Slice of onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook peas, liquid, and onion slowly 10 minutes. Put through a sieve or food press. Make white sauce: Melt butter or margarine and blend in flour. Add milk slowly and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir peas and onion mixture into the white sauce. Add salt and pepper and heat just to boiling. 4 servings. ½ cup milk per serving.

Mushroom Stuffed Tomatoes

Once a year—during the height of the tomato season—you can indulge in the riotous use of fresh tomatoes. Stuffing them with a variety of fillings is a way to surprise your family. Try Mushroom Stuffed Tomatoes. For 8 large, firm tomatoes—tops sliced off and centers scooped out—make filling as follows: Fry ⅓ cup chopped bacon and in the drippings, brown 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion and ¼ cup chopped celery. Blend with 1 quart of toasted ½-inch bread cubes and add 1 can of condensed mushroom soup. Stuff tomato shells with the mushroom mixture. Top each with ½ tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350° F. for 30 minutes.

Oyster Stew

1 pint oysters
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 quart milk
1 teaspoon salt
Paprika

Look over the oysters and take out any bits of shell. Melt the butter or margarine, add the oysters and their liquid, and cook until the edges of the oysters begin to curl — about 3 minutes. Add milk and salt, and heat just to boiling. Sprinkle each serving with paprika.

4 servings. 1 cup milk per serving.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Keyser Citizens To Have Use Of Proposed Armory

General Assures Mayor Public Can Use Facility

KEYSER—Mayor John C. Freeland is in receipt of a letter from Brigadier General Charles R. Fox, adjutant general of the West Virginia National Guard, with offices in Charleston, stating that if the proposed armory is built in Keyser, the armory and grounds will be placed at the service of citizens of Keyser. The general said he had received a letter from First Lieutenant William L. Gardner, commanding officer of the National Guard Battery in Keyser, that there was some doubts as to the availability of the armory for public use, if and when it is constructed here.

General Fox said, in his letter, that use of the armory and site generally is for recreational and other activities of citizens of Keyser:

"I am pleased to answer in the affirmative, in this regard, with the only stipulation, that if the use would require direct outlay of state funds, the users would have to defray these additional expenses. In this respect I am considering the use of the inside drill floor for basketball, since there would be a direct cost to the state for utilities and maintenance. There would be no need for charge for use of outdoor tennis courts, basketball courts, baseball diamonds and similar facilities, unless they were lighted at night at state expense.

"I wish to assure you that it is our intent to encourage use of our facilities by the local citizenry, since we want them to believe in the National Guard and accept it as their own."

This matter was discussed at the recent meeting of the mayor and council members in an informal session at which several citizens of Keyser were present.

The city officials are hoping that public spirited property owners will decide to give a grant of the land for the National Guard site. A letter has been sent to one former local citizen who owns considerable property, asking for his cooperation in deeding a site as a memorial for the building of the guard armory and equipping the land around the armory. Other local citizens have also been asked to add to the amount of land that may be used.

A's Transfer Faces Opposition Of AL Teams

Arnold Offers Yanks Sum For K-C Territory

Washington, Detroit On Record Against Philadelphia Shift

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (AP) — Arnold Johnson, Chicago banker, said today he would pay the New York Yankees a "reasonable amount" for their Kansas City territory if he is able to buy the Philadelphia A's and shift the club to the Midwestern city.

The Yankees, whose principal farm club, the Blues of the American Assn., play in Kansas City, today threatened to block the proposed switch of the A's unless the payment was adequate for territorial rights.

Johnson, already aware the Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers are on record as opposing the A's shift, declined to state what he would regard as an adequate payment to the Yankees.

Six of the eight league clubs must approve a franchise shift.

"I have known right along I must make restitution to the Yankees and to the American Assn.," said Johnson. "I intend to be fair about it."

Dan Topping, Yankee president, has pointed out that Baltimore of the International League received between $300,000 and $350,000 when the St. Louis Browns were shifted to that city a year ago.

Topping qualified his statement concerning territorial compensation with the comment it should not be interpreted as opposition to the A's transfer.

"I will say that we have set next Tuesday as a deadline for this move," Topping told the Kansas City Star. "If nothing happens then, we believe we should go ahead with building the Blues for Kansas City next year."

Roy Mack has vigorously opposed the desire of his father, Connie and brother Earle to sell to Johnson. Clark Griffith of Washington and Spike Briggs of Detroit openly have expressed antipathy to an A's shift to Kansas City.

It may be that Johnson will wash his hands of the whole affair if his architectural engineering experts, now surveying Blues' stadium to make it a big league park, report the project cannot be completed before the 1955 baseball season begins.

Record Series Payoff Received

Giants Get $11,147; Indians $6,712 Each

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Twenty-eight players on the New York Giants plus their trainer and their clubhouse attendant received a record $11,147.90 each for winning the World Series.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced the breakdown today for 327 players and club personnel on eight teams who participated in the all-time high in World Series money.

A full Giants' share was $2,867.22 more than the previous record payoff to the New York Yankees in 1953. It was $4,435.40 more than a full share of the losing Cleveland Indians.

The Cleveland share was $6,712.50 each, a record for a loser. The Indians cut their melon into 35½ shares (34 full shares, 1 half share and 4 quarter shares) and also gave out $8,600 in cash. The Giants divided 32 1-6 shares (30 full shares, 3 half shares and 2 one-third shares) and doled out $11,750 in gifts.

In all the players' share of the total World Series receipts was a record $881,763.72, including $83,000 for a pre-game television program. The previous high was $691,341.61 last year.

Syracuse Wins, 1-0

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 7 (AP) — Jim (Bear) Owens pitched a neat two-hitter tonight as the Syracuse Chiefs gained a 1-0 victory over the Louisville Colonels to square the Little World Series at two victories apiece.

Navy To Take To Air Lanes

Plan Pass Attack Against Stanford

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Navy's football squad flew out to California today and Coach Eddie Erdelatz plans on their being in the air against Stanford Saturday.

Passing, he thinks, is going to provide the best chance of scoring against Stanford which tied Illinois, boasted running attack into knots last Saturday.

Stanford's show of line strength isn't entirely the reason that Erdelatz is looking up.

"We started the season intending to pass first and run second," he recalled. "But William and Mary changed our plans when we found we could run so well against them. We didn't start to throw when we should have against Dartmouth last Saturday and when we did that was the ball game."

The Navy backs ran for 352 yards against William and Mary. They didn't tie the score at 7-7 with Dartmouth until the third period and then swarmed for five touchdowns mostly on passing in the last quarter. They gained 225 yards on aerials.

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 7—Petersburg's Vikings broke the victory ice here today by punching out a 12-6 triumph over Franklin High's Panthers in a Potomac Valley Conference encounter.

The win was the first in four starts this season for Coach Jesse Riggleman's eleven while Franklin went down to defeat for the fourth time in five games, snapping a one-game win skein for the Panthers who defeated the West Virginia School for Deaf eleven last week, 27-6.

Petersburg now has a 1-1 record in the conference while Franklin's mark stands at 1-2 with PVC opponents.

Rumers also tallied Petersburg's winning touchdown in the third period when he smashed over from the two after the Vikings had marched 88 yards. A third Petersburg score on a 20-yard run by Don Graham was nullified by a penalty and the Vikings were held for downs another time on the Franklin two-yard line late in the second stanza.

The Panthers retaliated after Petersburg's initial score in the second quarter by returning the following kickoff to the Petersburg 43 and marching from there to their only six-pointer. Harry Knicely tossed a five-yard pass to Dave Jones for the touchdown.

Franklin threatened as the second half began by driving to the Petersburg 12 after the kickoff but the Viking line stiffened and held for downs. Petersburg then began its long march for the winning score.

The drive was featured by a 40-yard pass and run play when Dick Huffman threw to Wayne Barr who in turn lateraled to Andy Frye. The play was stopped on the Franklin 12. The Vikings then picked up a first down to set the stage for Rumer's two yard plunge for the touchdown.

In the fourth quarter Petersburg twice stopped Franklin efforts for the tying touchdown by intercepting passes inside the Petersburg 20. Rumers caught the first toss on the two and Frye the second on the 15. The score:

Minor Baseball Leagues Are Faced With Fight For Their Existance

Most Majors Stars From Lower Loops

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—The National League is riding high with its first World Series winner since 1946 and the American League shows a healthy increase at the gate, despite its lack of balance. But the minors are crying the blues.

In the hilarity of the World Series press room at Cleveland there was a somber note. George Trautman, head of the minors, wore a serious expression as he huddled with Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League.

"This is a very serious situation," said Rowland. "We are in a fight for our lives and too few people realize it." Trautman echoed his words, adding, "We need all the help we can get.

"You fellows are all excited about a fellow named Dusty Rhodes. That's fine, just as it should be. But did you ever stop to think that he came out of the minor leagues, and not any semi-pro industrial league or college?

It's Same Story

"It's the same story with most of the players in the series. If it wasn't for the minors, they would not be here today. You can name on the fingers of one hand, the Hall of Fame members who didn't play in the minors."

Trautman was right. The backbone of the majors always has been the minors, Class D and C in particular, where the boys learn their trade.

The minors have been drying up fast. Several that operated in 1954 probably won't try again. The December meetings at Houston promise plenty of fireworks.

Even before the meetings, the fireworks have started. Frank Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth, Va., club of the Piedmont League is preparing to sue the majors for 50 million dollars, claiming they had invaded minor league territory with radio and television versions of their games.

Rescinded Protection Rule

If the suit does come up, it will find baseball in a strange position. Several years ago the majors had a rule protecting home territory against "invasion" by radio or TV. On word from the Justice Department, they hurriedly rescinded the rule. Special radio bureaus in league headquarters quickly were dissolved in fear that they would be accused of "restraint in trade" in violation of the monopoly laws.

Various versions of the old rule on restricting radio have been jammed through minor league conventions but turned down by the majors on advice of their lawyers.

One minor league official, who did not want his name used, charged the majors wanted to see the minors collapse so they could reorganize the best cities into three or four major leagues and set up a few "feeder" circuits.

Whatever the answer, there is no question about the minors being in for a rough ride. To a fellow who doesn't claim to know all the answers, it would seem obvious there can be no majors without the minors.

Sugar Ray May Return To Ring

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—George Gainford, manager of Ray (Sugar) Robinson when he held the world welter and middleweight titles, said today the former champion had started workouts and was considering a possible return to the ring.

Robinson retired in 1952. Gainford said that the former champion, who has switched to the stage as a dancer, had been doing road work here for some time and had rented a camp at Greenwood Lake, N.J., as a training camp, starting Monday.

Church Loop Meets Oct. 11 In Frostburg

Frostburg Methodist Defending Champion

FROSTBURG, Oct. 7—The Frostburg Church Basketball League will hold its first meeting of the season, Monday, October 11th at 7:30 p. m. in the social rooms of Salem Reformed Church on Broadway.

Last season a record number of 6 churches of the Frostburg area took part in the seventh campaign for the League. Churches represented last year were: Presbyterian, St. Josephs, English Baptist, Welsh Baptist, Klondyke Presbyterian, Carlos Methodist, Eckhart Methodist, Frostburg Methodist, Eckhart Baptist, Midland Methodist, Salem Reformed, St. Michaels, Congregational, St. Johns Episcopal, Zion Reformed and St. Paul's Lutheran.

1948—St. Michaels
1949—Welsh Baptist
1950—Presbyterian
1951—St. Michaels
1952—English Baptist
1953—St. Paul's Lutheran.

St. Michael's is the only church having two legs on the Charles Hill Trophy which must be taken over by the first team to secure three league titles. It is hoped that all the above teams and any more that might be interested in becoming a member of the Frostburg League will be represented at this first meeting on Monday.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Is Named By Committee

Richardson, Seixas, Trabert Are Picked

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—The same four tennis players who carried the burden in last year's unsuccessful effort to bring back the Davis Cup from Australia will try again next December. But this time the United States may try to build for the future by sending along a couple of newcomers to gain experience.

The Davis Cup Selection Committee today named William F. Talbert of New York, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., to the team which will go to Australia in December. For the second year Talbert will be captain and, if necessary, a playing member of the team.

Bob Perry of Los Angeles, who went along last year but was used only for practice matches, wasn't mentioned today. Instead the committee, headed by Lawrence A. Baker of New York, offered the suggestion that two younger players be sent to Australia for experience in international competition. If the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. follows this suggestion, the players will be named later.

The American team will meet Sweden, the European Zone champion, in the inter-zone matches at Brisbane, Dec. 16-18. The winner then will play Australia in the challenge round Dec. 27-29.

Seixas and Trabert played both singles and doubles in last year's 3-2 loss to Australia in the challenge round, a series they lost on the final day after leading 2-1.

Valley Booters Host Flintstone In WMI Contest

Coach Johnny Meyers' defending champion Valley High School booters will seek their third straight Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory when they host Flintstone today at Lonaconing.

The Black Knights are currently tied for the loop lead with Beall High's Mountaineers, each having won its first two league starts. Beall will be idle today.

Flintstone, coached by Orville Jackson, will be seeking its first WMI victory. The game will get underway at 3:30 p. m.

Schute's Hike Cities Service Bowling Lead

Schute's Roofers increased their Cities Service Bowling League lead yesterday by trimming the C&A Gas Company, 3-0, while the Baltimore Pike Fire Company was taking over second place with a 2-1 decision over Queen City Dairy.

The Dairymen dropped from the runner-up spot to third while Super Concrete Company bettered its last place record with a 2-1 win over fourth-place McIntyre's.

High scorers were E. McKay, Schute's, 179-524; G. Grapes, Super Concrete, 175-513; J. LaGratta, Q. C. Dairy, 193-509; H. Wilson, Baltimore Pike, 156-459; and J. Bender, McIntyre's, 180-427. The standings:

Bert Bell Warns Of Rough Play

NFL Czar Reminds Officials Of Rules

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP)—National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell today sent a directive to referees and coaches in the pro league "re-emphasizing" the rules governing rough play.

The directive, which Bell ordered read by referees to their crew of officials and by coaches to players said:

"Any use of the forearm, elbows or knees shall be penalized under the unnecessary roughness rule and any striking of an opponent or malicious unnecessary roughness shall be penalized under the same rule and the player disqualified.

The directive was an outgrowth of last Sunday's 24-24 tie game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams. Forty-Niners supporters charged that dirty play by the Rams resulted in injuries to two of their players which will leave the players on the sideline for the rest of the season.

Ram Coach Hampton Pool denied the charges.

A's Transfer Faces Opposition Of AL Teams

"It's the same story with most of the players in the series. If it wasn't for the minors, they would not be here today. You can name on the fingers of one hand, the Hall of Fame members who didn't play in the minors."

Trautman was right. The backbone of the majors always has been the minors, Class D and C in particular, where the boys learn their trade.

The minors have been drying up fast. Several that operated in 1954 probably won't try again. The December meetings at Houston promise plenty of fireworks.

Even before the meetings, the fireworks have started. Frank Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth, Va., club of the Piedmont League is preparing to sue the majors for 50 million dollars, claiming they had invaded minor league territory with radio and television versions of their games.

Rescinded Protection Rule

If the suit does come up, it will find baseball in a strange position. Several years ago the majors had a rule protecting home territory against "invasion" by radio or TV. On word from the Justice Department, they hurriedly rescinded the rule. Special radio bureaus in league headquarters quickly were dissolved in fear that they would be accused of "restraint in trade" in violation of the monopoly laws.

Various versions of the old rule on restricting radio have been jammed through minor league conventions but turned down by the majors on advice of their lawyers.

One minor league official, who did not want his name used, charged the majors wanted to see the minors collapse so they could reorganize the best cities into three or four major leagues and set up a few "feeder" circuits.

Whatever the answer, there is no question about the minors being in for a rough ride. To a fellow who doesn't claim to know all the answers, it would seem obvious there can be no majors without the minors.

Sugar Ray May Return To Ring

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—George Gainford, manager of Ray (Sugar) Robinson when he held the world welter and middleweight titles, said today the former champion had started workouts and was considering a possible return to the ring.

Robinson retired in 1952. Gainford said that the former champion, who has switched to the stage as a dancer, had been doing road work here for some time and had rented a camp at Greenwood Lake, N.J., as a training camp, starting Monday.

Church Loop Meets Oct. 11 In Frostburg

Frostburg Methodist Defending Champion

FROSTBURG, Oct. 7—The Frostburg Church Basketball League will hold its first meeting of the season, Monday, October 11th at 7:30 p. m. in the social rooms of Salem Reformed Church on Broadway.

Last season a record number of 6 churches of the Frostburg area took part in the seventh campaign for the League. Churches represented last year were: Presbyterian, St. Josephs, English Baptist, Welsh Baptist, Klondyke Presbyterian, Carlos Methodist, Eckhart Methodist, Frostburg Methodist, Eckhart Baptist, Midland Methodist, Salem Reformed, St. Michaels, Congregational, St. Johns Episcopal, Zion Reformed and St. Paul's Lutheran.

1948—St. Michaels
1949—Welsh Baptist
1950—Presbyterian
1951—St. Michaels
1952—English Baptist
1953—St. Paul's Lutheran.

St. Michael's is the only church having two legs on the Charles Hill Trophy which must be taken over by the first team to secure three league titles. It is hoped that all the above teams and any more that might be interested in becoming a member of the Frostburg League will be represented at this first meeting on Monday.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Is Named By Committee

Richardson, Seixas, Trabert Are Picked

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—The same four tennis players who carried the burden in last year's unsuccessful effort to bring back the Davis Cup from Australia will try again next December. But this time the United States may try to build for the future by sending along a couple of newcomers to gain experience.

The Davis Cup Selection Committee today named William F. Talbert of New York, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., to the team which will go to Australia in December. For the second year Talbert will be captain and, if necessary, a playing member of the team.

Bob Perry of Los Angeles, who went along last year but was used only for practice matches, wasn't mentioned today. Instead the committee, headed by Lawrence A. Baker of New York, offered the suggestion that two younger players be sent to Australia for experience in international competition. If the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. follows this suggestion, the players will be named later.

The American team will meet Sweden, the European Zone champion, in the inter-zone matches at Brisbane, Dec. 16-18. The winner then will play Australia in the challenge round Dec. 27-29.

Seixas and Trabert played both singles and doubles in last year's 3-2 loss to Australia in the challenge round, a series they lost on the final day after leading 2-1.

Bert Bell Warns Of Rough Play

NFL Czar Reminds Officials Of Rules

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP)—National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell today sent a directive to referees and coaches in the pro league "re-emphasizing" the rules governing rough play.

The directive, which Bell ordered read by referees to their crew of officials and by coaches to players said:

"Any use of the forearm, elbows or knees shall be penalized under the unnecessary roughness rule and any striking of an opponent or malicious unnecessary roughness shall be penalized under the same rule and the player disqualified.

The directive was an outgrowth of last Sunday's 24-24 tie game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams. Forty-Niners supporters charged that dirty play by the Rams resulted in injuries to two of their players which will leave the players on the sideline for the rest of the season.

Ram Coach Hampton Pool denied the charges.

LaSalle Tests Unbeaten Parsons Here; Ft. Hill At Beall

Panthers Vie For 5th Grid Win Tonight

District Scoring Leaders Play With Visitors At Stadium

LaSalle High's Explorers will test an unbeaten Parsons, W. Va., High eleven tonight at Fort Hill stadium as Coach Norman Geatz' charges attempt to snap a two-game losing streak.

A large crowd is expected to see the local gridders in their second home game this season tonight at 8 o'clock. LaSalle hopes to get back on the winning track against a team which has rolled to four straight triumphs with a 38-point-plus scoring average.

Rated one of the top Class A teams in West Virginia Coach Robert Sullivan's Parsons Panthers are sparked by a veteran backfield combination which has the three top district scoring leaders.

Fairbanks Leads Scorers

Halfback Terry Fairbanks has tallied 50 points for Parsons in their four games. Fullback Jim Bowley has six touchdowns and Quarterback Bill Rosenau has 30 markers.

Parsons has rolled over four opponents, beating University High of Morgantown, 13-7; Keyser 32-14; Kingwood 39-6; and Belington 38-7. This is Sullivan's third year at the helm of the Purple and Gold Panthers.

Co-captains for the visitors will be veteran guard Dick Felton and Rosenau.

The Panthers belong to the strong Tri Valley Conference which contains such teams as University High, Belington, Philippi, Doddridge High of West Union, St. Mary's of Clarksburg, Bridgeport, Kingwood and Roosevelt-Wilson of Clarksburg. Parsons is making a strong bid for the conference title this year with wins already registered over Kingwood, Belington and UHS.

LaSalle, upended in its last two starts by Fort Hill and St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove, Pa., has drilled hard for tonight's encounter hoping to snap the losing skein while handing Parsons its initial setback.

Last year the Explorers defeated the Panthers in Parsons by a 14-0 score in their initial meeting.

Hull Eleven Seeks First Win Tonight

Sentinels Have Won Two In Row Against Frostburg Eleven

It will be the pupil vs. the teacher once again tonight when Ray Hull's Beall High Mountaineers host the Fort Hill Sentinels at 8 o'clock under the arcs at Beall stadium in Frostburg.

Hull, who took over the Beall football reins three years ago after being assistant to Coach Bill Hahn of Fort Hill for several seasons, has failed to guide his Mountaineers to victory over the Sentinels in their two meetings to date. Fort Hill defeated Beall 26-6 in 1952 and 41-0 last year.

Idle last week, the Mountaineers have had two weeks to prepare for their important battle with the Hahnmen tonight and a capacity crowd is expected to see the two teams battle.

Hull said his veteran squad, which has lost three straight decisions to Martinsburg, 6-0, Allegany, 20-0, and Keyser 19-6, has looked much sharper the past several days and he hopes to register his first win against a Hahn-coached eleven.

Fort Hill, meanwhile, has shown promise of being one of the powerhouses in the area and will be rebounding from a tough 12-6 loss last week at the hands of Martinsburg. The Sentinels have defeated Front Royal, Va., 41-6 and LaSalle, 27-7.

Fort Hill also will be playing without the services of its two regular ends, George McKenney and Ken Poling, both of whom are on the disabled list.

Other games today find Ridgeley at Moorefield in a Potomac Valley Conference engagement, Berkeley Springs at Harpers Ferry, Charles Town at Martinsburg, Frederick at Rockville, University High at Romney and Potomac State at Salem.

Hull, who took over the Beall football reins three years ago after being assistant to Coach Bill Hahn of Fort Hill for several seasons, has failed to guide his Mountaineers to victory over the Sentinels in their two meetings to date. Fort Hill defeated Beall 26-6 in 1952 and 41-0 last year.

Idle last week, the Mountaineers have had two weeks to prepare for their important battle with the Hahnmen tonight and a capacity crowd is expected to see the two teams battle.

Hull said his veteran squad, which has lost three straight decisions to Martinsburg, 6-0, Allegany, 20-0, and Keyser 19-6, has looked much sharper the past several days and he hopes to register his first win against a Hahn-coached eleven.

Fort Hill, meanwhile, has shown promise of being one of the powerhouses in the area and will be rebounding from a tough 12-6 loss last week at the hands of Martinsburg. The Sentinels have defeated Front Royal, Va., 41-6 and LaSalle, 27-7.

Fort Hill also will be playing without the services of its two regular ends, George McKenney and Ken Poling, both of whom are on the disabled list.

Texans Seek To Upset Top Sooners Team

Rice-Wisconsin Tilt To Be Televised; Purdue Meets Duke

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Oklahoma's football forces invade Dallas tomorrow for their annual battle with Texas and reports claim the Longhorns are primed to drop the Sooners from their perch as the Nation's No. 1 team.

This get-together is the highlight of the season in those parts, regardless of the caliber of the teams. This year it's bound to be even tougher with the Texans on the way back after losing to Notre Dame.

Purdue, riding the heights after upsetting Notre Dame last Saturday, entertains Duke and the sixth-ranking southerners may prove every bit as tough a foe as the Irish.

The big game tonight is at Los Angeles where Southern California, regarded in some quarters as even better than UCLA, takes on the Texas Christian aggregation that almost licked Oklahoma.

In the South unbeaten Mississippi visits yet-to-win Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech entertains improving Louisiana State. Maryland starts the comeback trail at Wake Forest.

A line on the relative strength of the two service academies may come out of the Dartmouth-Army game at West Point. Dartmouth was swamped 42-7 by Navy a week ago. The Middies head overland to California to meet Stanford.

Other games:

Auburn at Kentucky, Chattanooga at Tennessee, Clemson at Florida, South Carolina at Furman, Georgia at North Carolina, Mississippi State at Tulane, North Carolina State at William and Mary.

Last season Kravitz smacked 11 home runs, 13 doubles and 2 triples. He hit .292 in 82 games. Peterson hit .282 in 79 games. Montemayor had a .309 average for 137 games and a 92 RBI record. He smashed 24 home runs, 30 doubles and 6 triples.

Prison Guard Title Contender

Billy Smith To Meet Johnson In 10-Rounder

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP) — Biardwalk Billy Smith, a prison guard who'd like to give up the job, gets a chance to stamp himself as the logical contender for the light heavyweight championship tomorrow night in a nationally-televised 10-rounder with Harold Johnson at the arena.

The bout will be televised over NBC-TV network at 10 p.m. EST. A radio blow-by-blow will be carried by NBC radio network.

Oakland or Boardwalk Billy, whichever you prefer, has been campaigning since 1941. He's won 51, lost 17 and fought to three draws and four no contests.

Originally from Oakland, Calif., he's now a prison guard in Atlantic County, N. J.

Johnson, who's been campaigning since 1948, has won 42 and lost six, including five losses in six tries with Archie Moore.

Ted May Settle Suit Out Of Court

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP) — The separate maintenance suit against Ted Williams, retired Boston Red Sox outfielder, by his wife, Doris, may be settled out of court.

"There is a good chance the financial differences might be ironed out and the entire affair settled," Mrs. Williams' attorney, L. Earl Curry, said today.

But this doesn't mean the couple will go back together. At her home in Perrine, Fla., today, Mrs. Williams said "absolutely not. I haven't seen him since January."

Mrs. Williams sued for separate maintenance, a property settlement and custody of their daughter, Barbara Joyce, 6. She is not asking a divorce.

Special May Be Showdown Race For 3-Year-Olds

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Pimlico proposed today to turn its Special this year into a showdown race for the championship of the 3-year-old division.

It will invite only 3-year-olds to the mile and three sixteenth race on Nov. 20 and hopes the contenders for the year's title will accept.

The situation prompted Pimlico to change its Special from an open event, which it had been since 1940. However, the change is in keeping with the original idea of Alfred G. Vanderbilt who started the Special in 1937 when he was president of Pimlico.

Texans Seek To Upset Top Sooners Team

Rice-Wisconsin Tilt To Be Televised; Purdue Meets Duke

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Oklahoma's football forces invade Dallas tomorrow for their annual battle with Texas and reports claim the Longhorns are primed to drop the Sooners from their perch as the Nation's No. 1 team.

This get-together is the highlight of the season in those parts, regardless of the caliber of the teams. This year it's bound to be even tougher with the Texans on the way back after losing to Notre Dame.

Purdue, riding the heights after upsetting Notre Dame last Saturday, entertains Duke and the sixth-ranking southerners may prove every bit as tough a foe as the Irish.

Television audiences will sit in on the Rice-Wisconsin game at Madison where the unbeaten Badgers and their one-man gang, Alan Ameche, are favored over the 11th ranking Owls. Wisconsin was third in this week's AP poll.

UCLA, which dumped Maryland a week ago, travels north for a Pacific Coast engagement with the University of Washington.

The big game tonight is at Los Angeles where Southern California, regarded in some quarters as even better than UCLA, takes on the Texas Christian aggregation that almost licked Oklahoma.

Big Ten battles include Ohio State at Illinois, Iowa at Michigan, Michigan State at Indiana, and Northwestern at Minnesota, with the visitors favored in all but the Minnesota clash.

In the South unbeaten Mississippi visits yet-to-win Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech entertains improving Louisiana State. Maryland starts the comeback trail at Wake Forest.

A line on the relative strength of the two service academies may come out of the Dartmouth-Army game at West Point. Dartmouth was swamped 42-7 by Navy a week ago. The Middies head overland to California to meet Stanford.

Other games:

VMI at Boston College, Virginia at Penn State, George Washington at West Virginia, Yale at Columbia, Harvard at Cornell, Penn at Princeton, Notre Dame at Pittsburgh.

Auburn at Kentucky, Chattanooga at Tennessee, Clemson at Florida, South Carolina at Furman, Georgia at North Carolina, Mississippi State at Tulane, North Carolina State at William and Mary.

Pirates Purchase Three New Players

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates said today they purchased two catchers and an outfielder from the New Orleans club of the Class AA Southern Association.

Last season Kravitz smacked 11 home runs, 13 doubles and 2 triples. He hit .292 in 82 games. Peterson hit .282 in 79 games. Montemayor had a .309 average for 137 games and a 92 RBI record. He smashed 24 home runs, 30 doubles and 6 triples.

Prison Guard Title Contender

Billy Smith To Meet Johnson In 10-Rounder

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP) — Biardwalk Billy Smith, a prison guard who'd like to give up the job, gets a chance to stamp himself as the logical contender for the light heavyweight championship tomorrow night in a nationally-televised 10-rounder with Harold Johnson at the arena.

Johnson, of Philadelphia, has a little bit at stake, too. Now ranked as No. 1 contender for a shot at Archie Moore, muscular Harold could use a win to recoup from the knockout suffered in his title bout with Moore in their recent battle.

The bout will be televised over NBC-TV network at 10 p.m. EST. A radio blow-by-blow will be carried by NBC radio network.

Oakland or Boardwalk Billy, whichever you prefer, has been campaigning since 1941. He's won 51, lost 17 and fought to three draws and four no contests.

Originally from Oakland, Calif., he's now a prison guard in Atlantic County, N. J.

Johnson, who's been campaigning since 1948, has won 42 and lost six, including five losses in six tries with Archie Moore.

Ted May Settle Suit Out Of Court

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—The separate maintenance suit against Ted Williams, retired Boston Red Sox outfielder, by his wife, Doris, may be settled out of court.

"There is a good chance the financial differences might be ironed out and the entire affair settled," Mrs. Williams' attorney, L. Earl Curry, said today.

But this doesn't mean the couple will go back together. At her home in Perrine, Fla., today, Mrs. Williams said "absolutely not. I haven't seen him since January."

Mrs. Williams sued for separate maintenance, a property settlement and custody of their daughter, Barbara Joyce, 6. She is not asking a divorce.

Special May Be Showdown Race For 3-Year-Olds

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Pimlico proposed today to turn its Special this year into a showdown race for the championship of the 3-year-old division.

It will invite only 3-year-olds to the mile and three sixteenth race on Nov. 20 and hopes the contenders for the year's title will accept.

The championship is not settled yet, mostly because three different thoroughbreds won a leg of the Triple Crown, the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

The situation prompted Pimlico to change its Special from an open event, which it had been since 1940. However, the change is in keeping with the original idea of Alfred G. Vanderbilt who started the Special in 1937 when he was president of Pimlico.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Back in the '30s a young writer named Nathanael West wrote a slim novel called "Miss Lonelyhearts" about a man who wrote an advice to the lovelorn column for a newspaper.

The idea of a man writing this kind of sludge is pretty funny to start with, but West made the situation even more piquant because his Miss Lonelyhearts was an especially bitter and cynical young man who got himself into the most preposterous involvements with some of the people who wrote him those tear-stained letters. It was a very sardonic, bitter book and also in parts a very funny one and it left an acrid taste in the mouth that the reader would not easily forget. West was killed in an automobile accident in 1940 when he was 36. A comparatively small segment of the reading public ever read him or even heard of him but those who had formed a small but devoted cult.

This bunch may be interested in knowing there is on television a series called "Dear Phoebe" (NBC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST Fridays) similar to "Miss Lonelyhearts" not only in its central situation, that of a man writing an advice to the lovelorn column, but also in the played by Peter Lawford, a person-spirit of the proceedings. Of course the bitterness and savagery of West is a little too strong for popular consumption and it has been toned down a bit. Still, I think those who enjoyed "Miss Lonelyhearts" will get quite a kick out of "Dear Phoebe."

The city room of the "Los Angeles Daily Blade," in which all this nonsense takes place, is a manic spot, the like of which has probably not been seen since the days of "The Front Page." Into it one day wanders a young ex-college instructor named Bill Hastings who is straightaway assigned the task of writing the advice to the lovelorn column under the name of Phoebe Goodheart. Hastings is able young Briton, whose mannerisms are a combination of Rex Harrison and Cary Grant, and who brings to the role just the mixture of arrogance and elfishness it must have to be at all believable.

While he is pursuing his feminine and highly unlikely chores, he pursues a young newspaperwoman (Marcia Henderson) who has the highly masculine job of reporting the activities of football players and baseball players and such all. There is also a waspish managing editor, Mr. Fosdick, who delights in making his staff as miserable as possible and is very proud of his total lack of scruple. In one scene, the staff gathers to watch a baseball manager beat him up, meanwhile making happy little wagers as to whether he'll get killed.

There is also a copy boy named Humphrey who is a masterpiece of adolescent superiority. These four —and everyone on "The Blade," for that matter—operate under the assumption that the world outside this particular city room is peopled entirely by squares, knaves or idiots or maybe a combination of all three.

The people they write about—a doltish football player or a hillbilly baseball player with a mind the size of a pea—are just so many duckpins to be bowled over with wisecracks or pawns used in their stratagems against one another. Lawford prances through these shenanigans—capturing a kissing bandit or placing a hex on a ballplayer and wrecking his batting average—with great authority and debonair charm.

The dialogue, a mixture of insult, non-sequiturs and sheer malevolence, is fast, furious and funny which it has to be to cover up some of the basic incredibility of the situations. "Dear Phoebe" is also immeasurably helped by a first rate cast in every part. The producer-writer is Alex Gottlieb and the director Don Weiss and they both do a bangup job.

Tito Sports Black Eye

Aides explained he had been struck by a bunch of flowers tossed at him by an enthusiastic young girl while he was riding through Sarajevo yesterday in an open car.

Daily Bridge Lesson

THWART BAD LUCK

IN BRIDGE, as in most other activities, it is always well to seek good fortune. But at the same time it is wise to guard yourself against bad luck if possible. The ideal playing plan is one so gauged that it assures your prosperity by fending off any adversity which may threaten you. In simpler terms, look for a safety play somewhere in the hand which will enable you to stand a bad break later in either that suit or another.

| ♠ A2 ♥ 10954 2 ♦ AKQ3 ♣ J5 | N W E S | ♠ KQ106 3 ♥ A ♦ J82 ♣ 10642 |
| | ♠ J975 ♥ J8 ♦ 975 ♣ KQ73 | |

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|

| Pass | 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♦ |
| Pass | 3 ♠ | Pass | 4 ♠ |

If East had played as well as he bid on this deal, his side would have had a nice game. His call of 3-Spades, one more than necessary, was a good one. After hearing West's diamond bid, he read his partner as probably short in clubs, thereby limiting losers in that suit. If he had bid only a minimum 2-Spades then, West would have passed. But the strong invitation implicit in 3-Spades caused West to bid the game in that suit.

South scored the club K, then decided to seek heart winners in his partner's hand by leading the J, which drew the encouraging 7 as East won with the A. Now East counted tricks, expecting five in spades, four in diamonds and the one he already had in hearts, to make the needed ten. He then led to the spade A, scored the K and Q and was shocked to find this leaving the good J with South. Now sure to lose two more club tricks, his contract was doomed.

Foresight could have prevented the disaster. East could have limited his club loss, after getting in with the heart A, by leading a club. The defense, on winning could have led a spade. But the A could have won, the diamond J would have been an entry and a club then could have been ruffed by the spade 2. That would have assured the contract. And if the spades had divided as East hoped, the safety play would have brought an extra trick.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is correct defense against South's 4-Hearts after West leads the club 4 to the J, Q and a ruff, South takes the spade finesse and leads the heart 4?

Advice To The Lovelorn

Back in the '30s a young writer named Nathanael West wrote a slim novel called "Miss Lonelyhearts" about a man who wrote an advice to the lovelorn column for a newspaper.

The idea of a man writing this kind of sludge is pretty funny to start with, but West made the situation even more piquant because his Miss Lonelyhearts was an especially bitter and cynical young man who got himself into the most preposterous involvements with some of the people who wrote him those tear-stained letters. It was a very sardonic, bitter book and also in parts a very funny one and it left an acrid taste in the mouth that the reader would not easily forget. West was killed in an automobile accident in 1940 when he was 36. A comparatively small segment of the reading public ever read him or even heard of him but those who had formed a small but devoted cult.

This bunch may be interested in knowing there is on television a series called "Dear Phoebe" (NBC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST Fridays) similar to "Miss Lonelyhearts" not only in its central situation, that of a man writing an advice to the lovelorn column, but also in the played by Peter Lawford, a person-spirit of the proceedings. Of course the bitterness and savagery of West is a little too strong for popular consumption and it has been toned down a bit. Still, I think those who enjoyed "Miss Lonelyhearts" will get quite a kick out of "Dear Phoebe."

The city room of the "Los Angeles Daily Blade," in which all this nonsense takes place, is a manic spot, the like of which has probably not been seen since the days of "The Front Page." Into it one day wanders a young ex-college instructor named Bill Hastings who is straightaway assigned the task of writing the advice to the lovelorn column under the name of Phoebe Goodheart. Hastings is able young Briton, whose mannerisms are a combination of Rex Harrison and Cary Grant, and who brings to the role just the mixture of arrogance and elfishness it must have to be at all believable.

While he is pursuing his feminine and highly unlikely chores, he pursues a young newspaperwoman (Marcia Henderson) who has the highly masculine job of reporting the activities of football players and baseball players and such all. There is also a waspish managing editor, Mr. Fosdick, who delights in making his staff as miserable as possible and is very proud of his total lack of scruple. In one scene, the staff gathers to watch a baseball manager beat him up, meanwhile making happy little wagers as to whether he'll get killed.

There is also a copy boy named Humphrey who is a masterpiece of adolescent superiority. These four —and everyone on "The Blade," for that matter—operate under the assumption that the world outside this particular city room is peopled entirely by squares, knaves or idiots or maybe a combination of all three.

The people they write about—a doltish football player or a hillbilly baseball player with a mind the size of a pea—are just so many duckpins to be bowled over with wisecracks or pawns used in their stratagems against one another. Lawford prances through these shenanigans—capturing a kissing bandit or placing a hex on a ballplayer and wrecking his batting average—with great authority and debonair charm.

The dialogue, a mixture of insult, non-sequiturs and sheer malevolence, is fast, furious and funny which it has to be to cover up some of the basic incredibility of the situations. "Dear Phoebe" is also immeasurably helped by a first rate cast in every part. The producer-writer is Alex Gottlieb and the director Don Weiss and they both do a bangup job.

Tito Sports Black Eye

Aides explained he had been struck by a bunch of flowers tossed at him by an enthusiastic young girl while he was riding through Sarajevo yesterday in an open car.

Daily Bridge Lesson

THWART BAD LUCK

IN BRIDGE, as in most other activities, it is always well to seek good fortune. But at the same time it is wise to guard yourself against bad luck if possible. The ideal playing plan is one so gauged that it assures your prosperity by fending off any adversity which may threaten you. In simpler terms, look for a safety play somewhere in the hand which will enable you to stand a bad break later in either that suit or another.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ 8 4♥ K Q 7 6 3♦ 10 6 4♣ A 9 8 | |
| ♠ A 2♥ 10 9 5 4 2♦ A K Q 3♣ J 5 | NW ES | ♠ K Q 10 6 3♥ A♦ J 8 2♣ 10 6 4 2 |
| | ♠ J 9 7 5♥ J 8♦ 9 7 5♣ K Q 7 3 | |

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | Pass | 1 ♥ |
| Pass | 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♦ |
| Pass | 3 ♠ | Pass | 4 ♠ |

If East had played as well as he bid on this deal, his side would have had a nice game. His call of 3-Spades, one more than necessary, was a good one. After hearing West's diamond bid, he read his partner as probably short in clubs, thereby limiting losers in that suit. If he had bid only a minimum 2-Spades then, West would have passed. But the strong invitation implicit in 3-Spades caused West to bid the game in that suit.

South scored the club K, then decided to seek heart winners in his partner's hand by leading the J, which drew the encouraging 7 as East won with the A. Now East counted tricks, expecting five in spades, four in diamonds and the one he already had in hearts, to make the needed ten. He then led to the spade A, scored the K and Q and was shocked to find this leaving the good J with South. Now sure to lose two more club tricks, his contract was doomed.

Foresight could have prevented the disaster. East could have limited his club loss, after getting in with the heart A, by leading a club. The defense, on winning could have led a spade. But the A could have won, the diamond J would have been an entry and a club then could have been ruffed by the spade 2. That would have assured the contract. And if the spades had divided as East hoped, the safety play would have brought an extra trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

| | ♠ A Q♥ 8 7 4♦ A 9 7 3♣ K J 8 6 | |

| | ♠ 6 4♥ Q J 10 9 5 3 2♦ K 6 4 2♣ None | |

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is correct defense against South's 4-Hearts after West leads the club 4 to the J, Q and a ruff, South takes the spade finesse and leads the heart 4?

Strength In Steels Enlivens Dull Stock Market Session

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP) — The Stock Market rocked along through a rather dull session today, enlivened only by strength in the steels, and closed a shade lower.

Steels gathered their strength from favorable reports on a brighter business picture in the industry now emerging. Five steels were in the list of 15 most active issues—U.S. Steel fifth up 1 at 59, Armco Steel ninth up 1⅝ at 56⅛, Pittsburgh Steel 12th up 1¾ at 20, Bethlehem Steel 13th up 1¼ at 80, and Granite City Steel 15th up ⅛ at 19½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $137.30. That is 10 cents under the 25-year peak reached Tuesday and maintained on Wednesday.

The industrial component of the average was down 50 cents, railroads managed to add 10 cents, and utilities remained unchanged.

Minus signs held only a slight edge with 412 stocks up and 446 down out of the 1,148 individual issues traded. The total, incidentally, was 68 issues under yesterday's broad market.

Rohr Aircraft, which has been a sensational performer all week since it started newly listed at 25, simmered down today and managed only to add ¼ at 32¼. There were 46,900 shares traded, the most active issue in the list.

Strength In Steels Enlivens Dull Stock Market Session

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP) — The Stock Market rocked along through a rather dull session today, enlivened only by strength in the steels, and closed a shade lower.

Steels gathered their strength from favorable reports on a brighter business picture in the industry now emerging. Five steels were in the list of 15 most active issues—U.S. Steel fifth up 1 at 59, Armco Steel ninth up 1⅝ at 56⅛, Pittsburgh Steel 12th up 1¾ at 20, Bethlehem Steel 13th up 1¼ at 80, and Granite City Steel 15th up ⅛ at 19½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $137.30. That is 10 cents under the 25-year peak reached Tuesday and maintained on Wednesday.

The industrial component of the average was down 50 cents, railroads managed to add 10 cents, and utilities remained unchanged.

Minus signs held only a slight edge with 412 stocks up and 446 down out of the 1,148 individual issues traded. The total, incidentally, was 68 issues under yesterday's broad market.

Volume, too, ebbed to 1,810,000 shares as compared with yesterday's large 2,570,000 shares.

Rohr Aircraft, which has been a sensational performer all week since it started newly listed at 25, simmered down today and managed only to add ¼ at 32¼. There were 46,900 shares traded, the most active issue in the list.

Meyersdale Woman Is Killed By Train

Mrs. Grace Lint Struck At Crossing

A 66-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., woman was killed instantly yesterday about 9:55 a. m. when she was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train on the 8th Street crossing in that community.

Authorities said Mrs. Grace Alverda Lint, of 304 Lincoln Avenue, whose body was carried about 100 feet by the heavy locomotive, died of a fractured skull, broken back, multiple cuts and contusions.

Mrs. Lint, who was employed as a domestic in Meyersdale, had been visiting at the home of a friend who resides near the B&O tracks. As she went over the crossing she apparently misjudged the speed of the freight train, police said.

The locomotive, hauling 58 cars of limestone, was traveling west toward Connellsville and stopped at the scene of the accident. Coroner Robert H. Halverson, coroner of Somerset County, is continuing an investigation.

Mrs. Lint, widow of the late Calvin Lint, was a native of Meyersdale and was born April 18, 1888, a son of the late Norman and Anne (Hoffmeyer) Christner.

Surviving are three sons, Robert Lint, Oldtown Road; Paul Lint, Meyersdale; Kenneth Lint, Sand Patch, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Melvin Bowman, Sand Patch; a brother, Edward Christner, Somerset, Pa.

Also surviving are five sisters, Mrs. Henry Younkin, Meyersdale; Mrs. Ernst Bodes, Salisbury, Pa.; Mrs. Daniel Weaver, Mrs. Donald Speckt, Stoystown, Pa., and Mrs. Sherman Ginglesberger, Boswell, Pa.

The body will be at the Price Funeral Home in Meyersdale this evening, and will be taken to Meyersdale Reformed Church at 12:30 p. m. Sunday for a service at 2 p. m.

Rev. L. C. Defibaugh will officiate and interment will be in Union Cemetery.

Legislators Will Tour Route 40 To Inspect Needs

Association Hopes To Speed Progress

A five-man committee from the Legislative Council will tour U.S. Route 40 between Hancock and Cumberland next Thursday afternoon with representatives of the Route 40 Association to discuss the improvements planned for the highway in the State Roads Commission's 12-year roads program.

This special committee was appointed Wednesday when the Legislative Council met with the State Roads Commission at the request of State Senator Robert B. Kimble. The specific purpose is to review plans for improving the stretch of road over four mountains.

Members of the committee are Delegate John C. Luber, Baltimore Democrat, who is Speaker of the House of Delegates; Delegate Thomas F. Dempsey, another Baltimore Democrat; Senator David K. McLaughlin, Washington County Republican; Delegate Arthur H. Green, Garrett County Republican, and Kimble.

A delegation from the Route 40 Association will meet the five members of the General Assembly on top of Sideling Hill Mountain at 1 p. m. Thursday, according to Edward Wolfe, association president.

At the top of each mountain—Town Hill, Green Ridge Mountain, Polish Mountain and Martin's Mountain—the group will stop and the legislators will be shown the planned improvements. Engineers from the State Roads Commission also will travel with them.

Purpose of the tour is to get the General Assembly to take action to move the Route 40 improvements forward in the 12-year program because of their urgent need.

At Wednesday's meeting it was agreed that in making the improvements the State Roads Commission will work on both sides of one mountain at a time so that the improvements will be continuous, according to Senator Kimble.

Thursday evening members of the Route 40 Association, the committee from the Legislative Council and the engineers from the State Roads Commission will attend a dinner meeting at the Cumberland Country Club.

Navy Raises Recruit Quota

The United States Navy recruiting station in the Post Office building here, through Chief E. J. Carey, recruiter in charge, has received an increase in quota for enlistments.

Carey said the Navy needs young men and the quota for enlistment in this area has been raised to about 30 men.

By applying this month, the recruiter noted, men can be placed in recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, within a week.

The chief also observed that men who enlist now will be eligible for 36 months of civilian schooling upon discharge. This education is good in colleges and trade schools at government expense. Persons who enlist now will also, upon honorable discharge, be eligible for $300 mustering-out pay when their enlistments are completed.

Bids On Biggest Flood Contract Will Be Sought

Bids for the construction of flood wall and levees on the Maryland and West Virginia sides of the Potomac River, which will comprise the biggest single construction job undertaken so far in the $18,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project, will be asked soon by the Corps of Army Engineers.

The big project is slated to be advertised about December 1, it was announced yesterday.

Rex E. Dexter, area engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said the bids are being asked about a month ahead of schedule since the corps' planning section has completed its work ahead of time.

No official estimates were available yesterday as to the cost of the work, but one local engineering source put a price tag of $2,500,000 on the project.

Includes Walls, Levees

The contract will be let on a continuing basis, with the successfull-bidder doing the work as funds are made available by Congress.

Included in the project are an earth levee from the Wills Creek confluence with the Potomac to the Moose Home, where a 780-foot flood wall is being constructed. The levee will continue from the upstream end of the wall to a point along Kelly Boulevard.

On the Ridgeley side of the stream, levees and a 1,200-foot concrete flood wall, running from Patapsco Street downstream past Ridgeley High School, are included.

By mid-November, all flood control projects under contract will be completed.

The current project, the West Side flood wall, is being done under a $206,784 contract by the Wright Contracting Company of Columbus, Ga., and is now about 75 per cent complete.

Foundation Completed

Officials said the concrete foundation and key units have been completed for the entire 780-foot stretch and that 15 of the 41 sections of flood wall have been poured.

Some backfilling and incidental work is also to be done.

By that time, the steel superstructure of the new Potomac River Bridge will probably be in place to allow the laying of the deck of the bridge and its approaches.

The bridge is part of the flood control project only insofar as it is being built as a replacement for the obsolete Blue Bridge and is placed on piers provided at city cost by the Corps of Engineers as part of the Industrial Dam at Riverside Park.

Home 'Firebugs' Can Cause Expensive Property Damage

If, in the next few moments, your house should catch fire—and one does every 80 seconds—chances are somebody was careless with a match or cigaret.

In reminding residents that this is Fire Prevention Week, Chief Parker pointed out these "somebodies" are folks who unthinkingly toss away lighted cigarets and matches; they kill themselves smoking in bed and don't give a hoot if their kids play with matches.

But they are only the worst of the six home firebugs who start over 85 per cent of our home fires. Here's how Chief Parker would grade the other five on the basis of National Fire Protection Association studies of home fire causes:

Booby prize No. 2 goes to the chap who doesn't inspect, clean and repair his heating system and chimney at least once a year—and thereby causes one of every four home fires.

No 3 is the electrical wizard — one of every eight homes that burn—who dotes on frayed cords, overloaded circuits, misuses appliances and thinks 15-ampere safety fuses are for sissies.

Then there are the two — most likely gals — who, between them, manage to start one of every ten house fires: the kitchen firebug has a greasy stove, leaves unwatched burners going to ignite potholders and other easy burning items piled too near the open flames; her sister is the dilly who quickens fires with kerosene, dry cleans with gasoline and keeps these fiery fluids in her home in nice breakable bottles, leaky cans and such.

City Park Bivouac Area For Soldiers En Route To Ohio

Constitution Park was the bivouac area last night for members of the 584th Quartermaster Company, who stopped over in the Queen City en route to Fort Hayes, Ohio.

The ball diamond at the local park took on all appearances of an army reservation and late yesterday evening the members of the company prepared to bed down for the night.

However, the weatherman wasn't smiling on the servicemen since frost was forecast with chilly temperatures. When they break up camp today, members of the convoy will move on to Fort Hayes. They arrived here from Fort Lee, Va., and were escorted to the park by City Police.

Marine Corps League Will Meet Tuesday

The second meeting of the newly organized Cumberland Detachment, Marine Corps League, will be held Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Purple Heart Center, according to Patsy Algieri, local commandant.

Algieri said any Marines or ex-Marines with six months or more of active service is eligible for membership. Such men will be welcome at the meeting Tuesday.

Rec Department Seeks Sites For Ball Diamonds

Construction May Take Several Fields

The City Recreation Board last night asked Robert E. Pence, recreation director, to make a survey of areas which might be leased and developed for use as ball fields.

Such a survey is advisable, it was pointed out, because the city could lose several of its nine fields within the next few years as a result of flood control work and the crosstown expressway program.

Pence pointed out that the Recreation Department now operates nine fields which are used by 100 teams under a schedule so tight it is impossible to schedule all desired practice sessions.

He said he has been advised the Community Ball Park will be taken in several years for flood control work and that the area used for the East Side field might be needed for the expressway. Another field is being considered as an industrial site.

Promises Help

The survey was suggested by Albert S. Paye, a member of the board, who said he would help prepare estimates of the cost of preparing the land for use as ball fields, and aid in lining up help from contractors of the area.

The board accepted Paye's report of activities planned during the August 19 to September 30 period, and authorized the expenditure of $2,630.62 for the work.

Pence also reported the organization of touch football leagues, which include 32 teams in four divisions.

Forms Baton Classes

Some 400 grade school children from 13 schools are registered in the baton twirling program, he said.

The board authorized Pence to order 25 copies of a recreation survey which will be published next month as a result of a study made here recently by G. Leslie Lynch.

Pence informed the board that North End Playground Association has signed its lease for its playground area and Stitcher Field over to the Recreation Association.

Deferred by the board was action on a proposal to provide a filtration system costing about $10,000 for Pine Avenue Pool, and a proposal to sponsor classes in tap dancing, ballet dancing and rhythmic exercises.

Three Days To Be Holidays In Some Schools Of City

Three different days next week will be observed as holidays by some schools in Cumberland.

Then on Thursday and Friday all public schools in Allegany County will be closed because of the State Teachers Association Convention in Baltimore. St. Mary's School also will be closed Friday afternoon because of an Archdiocesan supervisors meeting, also in Baltimore.

Auxiliary To Meet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Department will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the fire hall.

Truck Fire Ends Safari For Nimrods

Three men who were on a hunting trip in nearby West Virginia yesterday afternoon lost most of their camping equipment and guns as the result of a fire which occurred on the bed of their small pickup truck as they traveled along West Virginia State Route 28 at Blue Beach.

Fire Chief Henry Powell and about 15 volunteers from Romney hurried to the scene and upon arrival found that the nimrods' hunting gear was just about destroyed.

Included in the loss was their camping equipment and about five guns, the chief added. Several rounds of ammunition discharged as a result of the blaze, however, no one was reported injured.

Chief Powell said the driver of the truck was Paul Davey of Morgantown. He and his two other friends had been hunting along the Potomac River and were traveling toward Franklin by way of Romney in search of game.

The fire occurred about 2:30 p. m. yesterday. The three men were able to drive away from the scene as only part of the truck bed was damaged. Cause of the fire was undetermined, Chief Powell added.

Frost Strikes Tri-State As Mercury Dips

Temperature Rise Slated Tomorrow

Jack Frost, who made an appearance in this section of the state yesterday morning, was expected to make another visit this morning as temperatures as low as 28 to 35 degrees were forecast in the interior of the state.

However, some moderation in the lower temperatures is anticipated for tomorrow when it probably won't be too uncomfortable to sit and watch a football game.

The frost, which hit this section yesterday, was caused by an extensive mass of cold air from Canada and it broke up the unseasonal hot and humid conditions of the first part of the week.

The low temperature reading yesterday was a different story than the reading of Wednesday. Here in Cumberland the mercury dipped yesterday to 31 degrees at Constitution Park while on Wednesday the temperature was 60 degrees during the morning.

Yesterday a low reading of 25 degrees was reported in LaVale. A killing frost was reported at various spots, injuring late garden crops which had kept growing due to the prolonged summer weather.

Elk Garden, reported a low reading of 21 degrees yesterday. Oakland reported 28 degrees; Thomas, 28; Frostburg, 29; Deal, 30; Elkins, 32 and Keyser, 34.

This new material, Dormio said, is expected by members of the Textile Workers Union here to increase production and employment at the plant. He said the workers join with management in viewing optimistically the favorable future Arnel poses for the industry.

Report Favors Increased Pay For Jury Duty

Grand Jury Seeks Delegates' Action

A recommendation that the daily pay for jurors be increased above the present rate of $6 was one of the innovations included in the five-page report of the Grand Jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, submitted yesterday to Associate Judge George Henderson.

Judge Henderson thanked the 23 men and women for their service and excused them with the admonition that they might be called back in an emergency and would remain the county's Grand Jury until the January term commences.

The pay increase proposal was included in the 14th section of the report, submitted to the court by Benjamin M. Kamens, South Cumberland merchant who served as foreman.

Pay Discussed

"The present daily compensation is $6 with certain milage allowances, depending on the distance the jurors live from the city limits of Cumberland. Many jurors called upon to serve must do so at a financial sacrifice to themselves and their families.

"We believe that the daily pay should be increased, and we bring this matter to the attention of the members of the Allegany County Delegation for such action as they may deem proper."

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker informed the Grand Jury, according to the report, that within a month a new Fire Code will be in force in the City of Cumberland.

Court Room Cited

The grand jurors also took a good look around the court room before preparing their report. They state that they found general conditions in the Court House very good with the exception of the Circuit Court room, which needs repainting and redecorating.

Concerning the Court House, the investigators said that several treads on the stairway should be replaced and urge the carrying out of a recommendation of the April Grand Jury as to fire escapes in the building, Alvin Snyder, the custodian, was commended for the neat and orderly manner in which the building has been kept.

Also reemphasized by the Grand Jury was another recommendation of the April Grand Jury concerning county purchasing procedures. The latest report again recommends that the county purchasing procedures, which have been in use for many years, be studied by qualified authorities in this field, with the object of bringing these procedures more closely in line with modern business practices.

The grand jurors, who were in session four days, noted that they examined 55 witnesses and returned 17 indictments.

Repairs Recommended

Most of the report concerns relatively minor recommendations concerned primarily with repairs and other improvements in the properties owned by the county. Some county officials also were commended.

A committee from the Grand Jury inspected the books of the county treasurer and found the records kept in a neat and orderly manner. The accounting methods were explained by the auditor and the committee found records in correct balance. Appreciation was expressed for kindness and consideration shown by James Bishop, the treasurer, and Mrs. Jennie Sills, the auditor.

Several other sections of the report concerned inspections made at the County Jail, the Union Street County Building, Sylvan Retreat, the County Infirmary and the County Home.

Although the grand jurors found the jail clean and in good repair they cite that several stairways were not well lighted and that paint is in need of reconditioning. The exterior woodwork needs painting and the exterior masonry needs repointing. The report also repeats unfulfilled recommendation of the April Grand Jury that

Five Indictments Placed On Docket

Five of the 17 indictments returned by the Grand Jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court were placed on the open docket yesterday.

Four of the five bills charge Joseph Washington, of Gay Street, with paternity of children born out of wedlock to the same woman between 1943 and 1948.

The fifth indictment charges Chester R. Albright with carnal knowledge of a girl between the ages of 14 and 16. This offense was alleged to have occurred September 3.

Rec Board Rules Gain Recognition

Pence told members of the recreation board last night that copies of the rules are being forwarded by the National Recreation Association to cities which seek information on the formation of such advisory boards.

Church Work Progressing

Work on the new Methodist Church in LaVale is rapidly progressing, according to Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor. The building, which is being constructed at an estimated cost of $100,000, is nearly under roof and approximately one-third of the shingles remain to be put on. This work will be completed when the tower and steeple in the front of the church are finished. Seen in the picture above is a passersby's view of the front of the church with the tower, steeple and Colonial-style porch nearing completion. The windows of the basement section have been installed and it is expected the congregation will attend the first services in the church early next year.

Meyersdale Woman Is Killed By Train

Mrs. Grace Lint Struck At Crossing

A 66-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., woman was killed instantly yesterday about 9:55 a. m. when she was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train on the 8th Street crossing in that community.

Authorities said Mrs. Grace Alverda Lint, of 304 Lincoln Avenue, whose body was carried about 100 feet by the heavy locomotive, died of a fractured skull, broken back, multiple cuts and contusions.

Mrs. Lint, who was employed as a domestic in Meyersdale, had been visiting at the home of a friend who resides near the B&O tracks. As she went over the crossing she apparently misjudged the speed of the freight train, police said.

The locomotive, hauling 58 cars of limestone, was traveling west toward Connellsville and stopped at the scene of the accident. Coroner Robert H. Halverson, coroner of Somerset County, is continuing an investigation.

Mrs. Lint, widow of the late Calvin Lint, was a native of Meyersdale and was born April 18, 1888, a son of the late Norman and Anne (Hoffmeyer) Christner.

Surviving are three sons, Robert Lint, Oldtown Road; Paul Lint, Meyersdale; Kenneth Lint, Sand Patch, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Melvin Bowman, Sand Patch; a brother, Edward Christner, Somerset, Pa.

Also surviving are five sisters, Mrs. Henry Younkin, Meyersdale; Mrs. Ernst Bodes, Salisbury, Pa.; Mrs. Daniel Weaver, Mrs. Donald Speckt, Stoystown, Pa., and Mrs. Sherman Ginglesberger, Boswell, Pa.

The body will be at the Price Funeral Home in Meyersdale this evening, and will be taken to Meyersdale Reformed Church at 12:30 p. m. Sunday for a service at 2 p. m.

Rev. L. C. Defibaugh will officiate and interment will be in Union Cemetery.

Legislators Will Tour Route 40 To Inspect Needs

Association Hopes To Speed Progress

A five-man committee from the Legislative Council will tour U.S. Route 40 between Hancock and Cumberland next Thursday afternoon with representatives of the Route 40 Association to discuss the improvements planned for the highway in the State Roads Commission's 12-year roads program.

This special committee was appointed Wednesday when the Legislative Council met with the State Roads Commission at the request of State Senator Robert B. Kimble. The specific purpose is to review plans for improving the stretch of road over four mountains.

Members of the committee are Delegate John C. Luber, Baltimore Democrat, who is Speaker of the House of Delegates; Delegate Thomas F. Dempsey, another Baltimore Democrat; Senator David K. McLaughlin, Washington County Republican; Delegate Arthur H. Green, Garrett County Republican, and Kimble.

A delegation from the Route 40 Association will meet the five members of the General Assembly on top of Sideling Hill Mountain at 1 p. m. Thursday, according to Edward Wolfe, association president.

At the top of each mountain—Town Hill, Green Ridge Mountain, Polish Mountain and Martin's Mountain—the group will stop and the legislators will be shown the planned improvements. Engineers from the State Roads Commission also will travel with them.

Purpose of the tour is to get the General Assembly to take action to move the Route 40 improvements forward in the 12-year program because of their urgent need.

At Wednesday's meeting it was agreed that in making the improvements the State Roads Commission will work on both sides of one mountain at a time so that the improvements will be continuous, according to Senator Kimble.

Thursday evening members of the Route 40 Association, the committee from the Legislative Council and the engineers from the State Roads Commission will attend a dinner meeting at the Cumberland Country Club.

Navy Raises Recruit Quota

The United States Navy recruiting station in the Post Office building here, through Chief E. J. Carey, recruiter in charge, has received an increase in quota for enlistments.

Carey said the Navy needs young men and the quota for enlistment in this area has been raised to about 30 men.

By applying this month, the recruiter noted, men can be placed in recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, within a week.

The chief also observed that men who enlist now will be eligible for 36 months of civilian schooling upon discharge. This education is good in colleges and trade schools at government expense. Persons who enlist now will also, upon honorable discharge, be eligible for $300 mustering-out pay when their enlistments are completed.

But they are only the worst of the six home firebugs who start over 85 per cent of our home fires. Here's how Chief Parker would grade the other five on the basis of National Fire Protection Association studies of home fire causes:

Booby prize No. 2 goes to the chap who doesn't inspect, clean and repair his heating system and chimney at least once a year—and thereby causes one of every four home fires.

No 3 is the electrical wizard — one of every eight homes that burn—who dotes on frayed cords, overloaded circuits, misuses appliances and thinks 15-ampere safety fuses are for sissies.

Then there are the two — most likely gals — who, between them, manage to start one of every ten house fires: the kitchen firebug has a greasy stove, leaves unwatched burners going to ignite potholders and other easy burning items piled too near the open flames; her sister is the dilly who quickens fires with kerosene, dry cleans with gasoline and keeps these fiery fluids in her home in nice breakable bottles, leaky cans and such.

City Park Bivouac Area For Soldiers En Route To Ohio

Constitution Park was the bivouac area last night for members of the 584th Quartermaster Company, who stopped over in the Queen City en route to Fort Hayes, Ohio.

The ball diamond at the local park took on all appearances of an army reservation and late yesterday evening the members of the company prepared to bed down for the night.

However, the weatherman wasn't smiling on the servicemen since frost was forecast with chilly temperatures. When they break up camp today, members of the convoy will move on to Fort Hayes. They arrived here from Fort Lee, Va., and were escorted to the park by City Police.

Rec Department Seeks Sites For Ball Diamonds

Construction May Take Several Fields

The City Recreation Board last night asked Robert E. Pence, recreation director, to make a survey of areas which might be leased and developed for use as ball fields.

Such a survey is advisable, it was pointed out, because the city could lose several of its nine fields within the next few years as a result of flood control work and the crosstown expressway program.

Pence pointed out that the Recreation Department now operates nine fields which are used by 100 teams under a schedule so tight it is impossible to schedule all desired practice sessions.

He said he has been advised the Community Ball Park will be taken in several years for flood control work and that the area used for the East Side field might be needed for the expressway. Another field is being considered as an industrial site.

Promises Help

The survey was suggested by Albert S. Paye, a member of the board, who said he would help prepare estimates of the cost of preparing the land for use as ball fields, and aid in lining up help from contractors of the area.

The board accepted Paye's report of activities planned during the August 19 to September 30 period, and authorized the expenditure of $2,630.62 for the work.

Pleasure was expressed with the department's weekly recreation period conducted by Mrs. Eva Hogan in cooperation with the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

Pence also reported the organization of touch football leagues, which include 32 teams in four divisions.

Forms Baton Classes

Some 400 grade school children from 13 schools are registered in the baton twirling program, he said.

The board authorized Pence to order 25 copies of a recreation survey which will be published next month as a result of a study made here recently by G. Leslie Lynch.

Pence informed the board that North End Playground Association has signed its lease for its playground area and Stitcher Field over to the Recreation Association.

Deferred by the board was action on a proposal to provide a filtration system costing about $10,000 for Pine Avenue Pool, and a proposal to sponsor classes in tap dancing, ballet dancing and rhythmic exercises.

Then on Thursday and Friday all public schools in Allegany County will be closed because of the State Teachers Association Convention in Baltimore. St. Mary's School also will be closed Friday afternoon because of an Archdiocesan supervisors meeting, also in Baltimore.

Auxiliary To Meet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Department will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the fire hall.

Truck Fire Ends Safari For Nimrods

Three men who were on a hunting trip in nearby West Virginia yesterday afternoon lost most of their camping equipment and guns as the result of a fire which occurred on the bed of their small pickup truck as they traveled along West Virginia State Route 28 at Blue Beach.

Fire Chief Henry Powell and about 15 volunteers from Romney hurried to the scene and upon arrival found that the nimrods' hunting gear was just about destroyed.

Included in the loss was their camping equipment and about five guns, the chief added. Several rounds of ammunition discharged as a result of the blaze, however, no one was reported injured.

Chief Powell said the driver of the truck was Paul Davey of Morgantown. He and his two other friends had been hunting along the Potomac River and were traveling toward Franklin by way of Romney in search of game.

The fire occurred about 2:30 p. m. yesterday. The three men were able to drive away from the scene as only part of the truck bed was damaged. Cause of the fire was undetermined, Chief Powell added.

Frost Strikes Tri-State As Mercury Dips

Temperature Rise Slated Tomorrow

Jack Frost, who made an appearance in this section of the state yesterday morning, was expected to make another visit this morning as temperatures as low as 28 to 35 degrees were forecast in the interior of the state.

However, some moderation in the lower temperatures is anticipated for tomorrow when it probably won't be too uncomfortable to sit and watch a football game.

The frost, which hit this section yesterday, was caused by an extensive mass of cold air from Canada and it broke up the unseasonal hot and humid conditions of the first part of the week.

The low temperature reading yesterday was a different story than the reading of Wednesday. Here in Cumberland the mercury dipped yesterday to 31 degrees at Constitution Park while on Wednesday the temperature was 60 degrees during the morning.

Yesterday a low reading of 25 degrees was reported in LaVale. A killing frost was reported at various spots, injuring late garden crops which had kept growing due to the prolonged summer weather.

Elk Garden, reported a low reading of 21 degrees yesterday. Oakland reported 28 degrees; Thomas, 28; Frostburg, 29; Deal, 30; Elkins, 32 and Keyser, 34.

This new material, Dormio said, is expected by members of the Textile Workers Union here to increase production and employment at the plant. He said the workers join with management in viewing optimistically the favorable future Arnel poses for the industry.

Report Favors Increased Pay For Jury Duty

Grand Jury Seeks Delegates' Action

A recommendation that the daily pay for jurors be increased above the present rate of $6 was one of the innovations included in the five-page report of the Grand Jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, submitted yesterday to Associate Judge George Henderson.

Judge Henderson thanked the 23 men and women for their service and excused them with the admonition that they might be called back in an emergency and would remain the county's Grand Jury until the January term commences.

The pay increase proposal was included in the 14th section of the report, submitted to the court by Benjamin M. Kamens, South Cumberland merchant who served as foreman.

Pay Discussed

"The question of an increase in daily pay to jurors generally was discussed by your Grand Jury, "the section began.

"The present daily compensation is $6 with certain milage allowances, depending on the distance the jurors live from the city limits of Cumberland. Many jurors called upon to serve must do so at a financial sacrifice to themselves and their families.

"We believe that the daily pay should be increased, and we bring this matter to the attention of the members of the Allegany County Delegation for such action as they may deem proper."

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker informed the Grand Jury, according to the report, that within a month a new Fire Code will be in force in the City of Cumberland.

Court Room Cited

The grand jurors also took a good look around the court room before preparing their report. They state that they found general conditions in the Court House very good with the exception of the Circuit Court room, which needs repainting and redecorating.

Concerning the Court House, the investigators said that several treads on the stairway should be replaced and urge the carrying out of a recommendation of the April Grand Jury as to fire escapes in the building, Alvin Snyder, the custodian, was commended for the neat and orderly manner in which the building has been kept.

Also reemphasized by the Grand Jury was another recommendation of the April Grand Jury concerning county purchasing procedures. The latest report again recommends that the county purchasing procedures, which have been in use for many years, be studied by qualified authorities in this field, with the object of bringing these procedures more closely in line with modern business practices.

The grand jurors, who were in session four days, noted that they examined 55 witnesses and returned 17 indictments.

Repairs Recommended

Most of the report concerns relatively minor recommendations concerned primarily with repairs and other improvements in the properties owned by the county. Some county officials also were commended.

A committee from the Grand Jury inspected the books of the county treasurer and found the records kept in a neat and orderly manner. The accounting methods were explained by the auditor and the committee found records in correct balance. Appreciation was expressed for kindness and consideration shown by James Bishop, the treasurer, and Mrs. Jennie Sills, the auditor.

Several other sections of the report concerned inspections made at the County Jail, the Union Street County Building, Sylvan Retreat, the County Infirmary and the County Home.

Although the grand jurors found the jail clean and in good repair they cite that several stairways were not well lighted and that paint is in need of reconditioning. The exterior woodwork needs painting and the exterior masonry needs repointing. The report also repeats unfulfilled recommendation of the April Grand Jury that

Five Indictments Placed On Docket

Five of the 17 indictments returned by the Grand Jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court were placed on the open docket yesterday.

Four of the five bills charge Joseph Washington, of Gay Street, with paternity of children born out of wedlock to the same woman between 1943 and 1948.

The fifth indictment charges Chester R. Albright with carnal knowledge of a girl between the ages of 14 and 16. This offense was alleged to have occurred September 3.

Rec Board Rules Gain Recognition

Rules and regulations used by the Cumberland Recreation Board are gaining nationwide recognition, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Pence told members of the recreation board last night that copies of the rules are being forwarded by the National Recreation Association to cities which seek information on the formation of such advisory boards.

Church Work Progressing

Work on the new Methodist Church in LaVale is rapidly progressing, according to Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor. The building, which is being constructed at an estimated cost of $100,000, is nearly under roof and approximately one-third of the shingles remain to be put on. This work will be completed when the tower and steeple in the front of the church are finished. Seen in the picture above is a passersby's view of the front of the church with the tower, steeple and Colonial-style porch nearing completion. The windows of the basement section have been installed and it is expected the congregation will attend the first services in the church early next year.
